Dedication

FATE smiled on the University of Tulsa six years ago and students jubiliantly welcomed a new president to their campus . . . His motto, "Analyze the past, consider the present, and visualize the future," typifies his administration and has led to a great growth and unparalleled recognition of the University . . . Surely, it is a fine thing that students may, and do, feel free to go to their president with all sorts of difficulties and receive from him sympathetic advice and aid . . . We can pay him no higher compliment than to say that he is an integral part of the University — like the bell in the tower of Kendall Hall, the look of the campus when lighted at night, and the winning touchdown in an all-important football game . . . The 1941 Kendallabrum is, therefore, dedicated with respect and affection to our president, Dr. C. I. Pontius.

Foreword

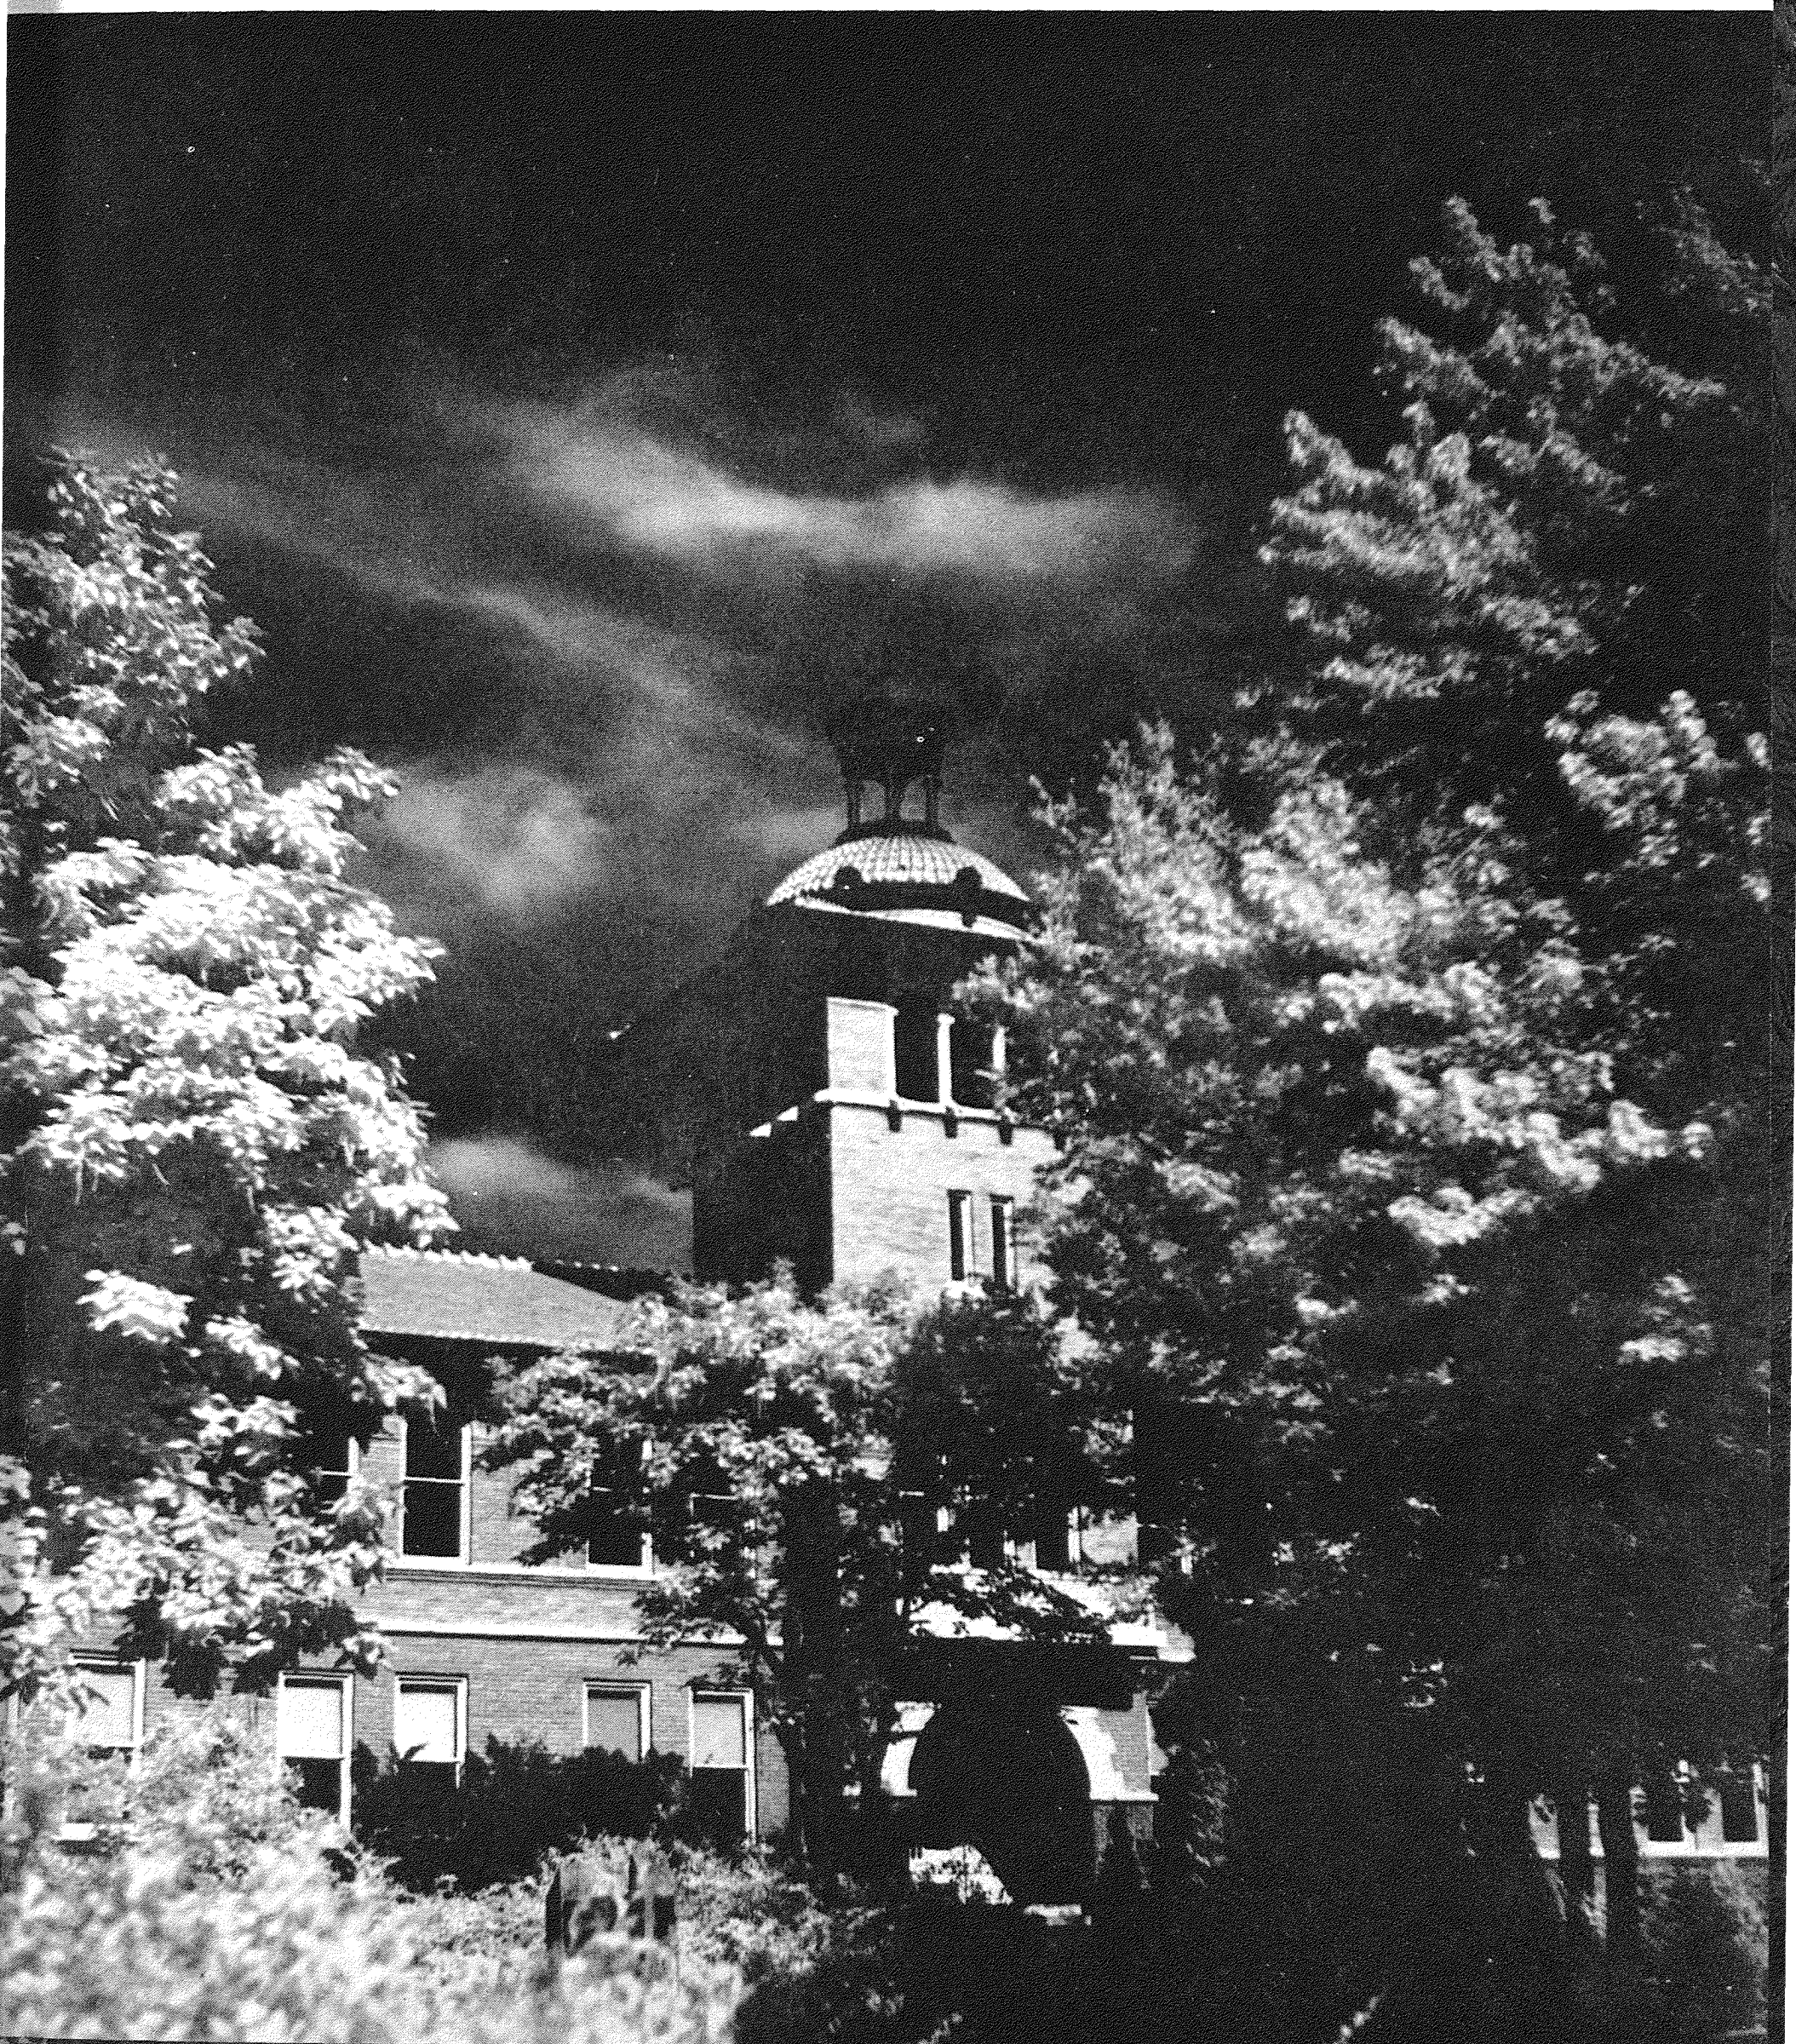

THIS is the story of college life. Look at it carefully, then tuck it away so that some day posterity may know that when Grandma was Betty Coed, Freshmen football players and other assorted males had crew cuts . . . the band started playing swing . . . there were formal dances . . . informal dances . . . and just plain ole dances . . . girls wore knee-high socks everywhere except at T. U., where they were taboo . . . female vocalists constantly gave forth from Tyrrell Hall . . . the campus turned out en masse for football games, softball games, intra-mural games . . . students loitered on the campus in fair weather, then migrated to the Union when winter came . . . the Engineers broke down and gave two dances . . . the Workshop, like Topsy, just growed . . . and lessons went on and on and on and on.

A part of this year is forever dedicated in retrospect to the loving memory of Dr. W. E. Howard, who ended his fifty-first year as a teacher when he died February 15, 1941. He had served the University of Tulsa continuously since 1920. Born in 1866 in Jasper, Missouri, he began his long association with educational institutions at a rural school there. He received his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Northwestern University and his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Indiana. Doctor Howard was strength and dignity. He was a vital force in University life and has long been one of the fondest memories held by alumni. He taught many students how to find the "X", or unknown quantity, in life as well as in algebra.

Administration

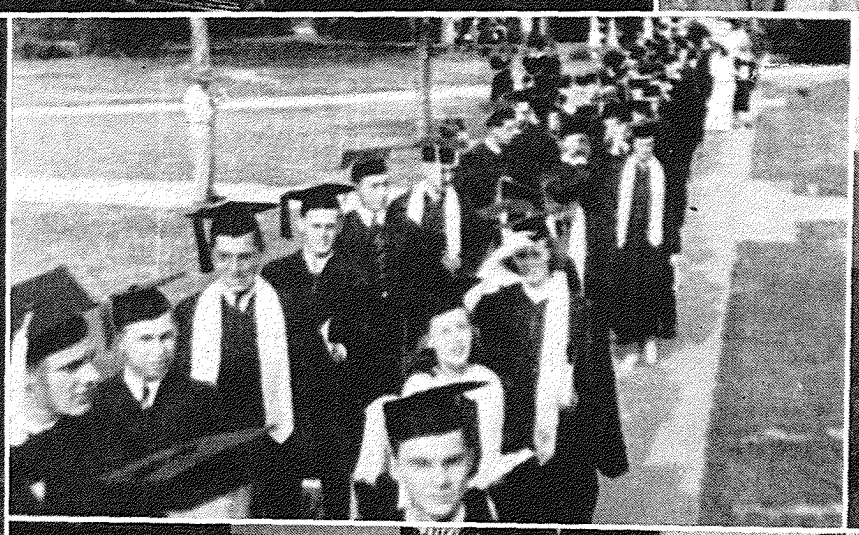

WELCOME

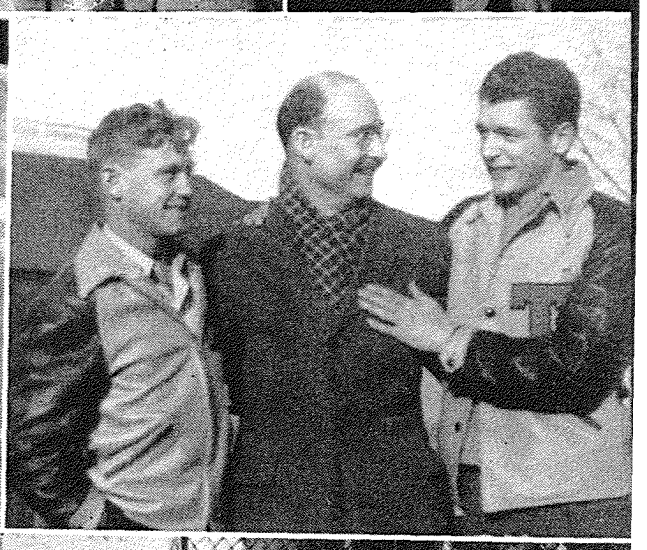

Prexy — Progress — Synonymous

Dr. C. I. Pontius

Landscaping the campus is one of his main interests . . . he personally supervises the transplanting of trees and shrubbery . . . expresses his patriotism by seeing that the flag is put up every sunny day, if the janitors don't get to do another thing . . . this year saw the completion of Sorority Row, the President's long-wished-for plan . . . an extensive building program also gave the campus the Student Union Building—the pride and joy of the college . . . this year marked the first use of the two badly-needed parking lots and the new boy's dorm—Gordon Hall . . . the President's primary concern is the welfare of the University . . . he is the school's A-1 sports fan . . . he rarely misses a Varsity game, whether it's football, basketball, or the minor sports . . . in spite of all this business, he finds time for occasional work in his own garden, or a game of golf . . . sets students an example of friendliness.

Business—Records—Finances

Business manager . . . makes arrangements with all students at the beginning of each semester for the payment of tuition . . . holds responsibility for the transactions and financial standing of the University . . . sets the tuition fee as well as fees not covered by tuition.

Registrar . . . instructs registration of students at matriculation and at the beginning of each semester . . . files high school record, entrance examination, University counseling reports, and grade reports for each student . . . examines requirements of students desiring to be admitted to the University with advanced standing.

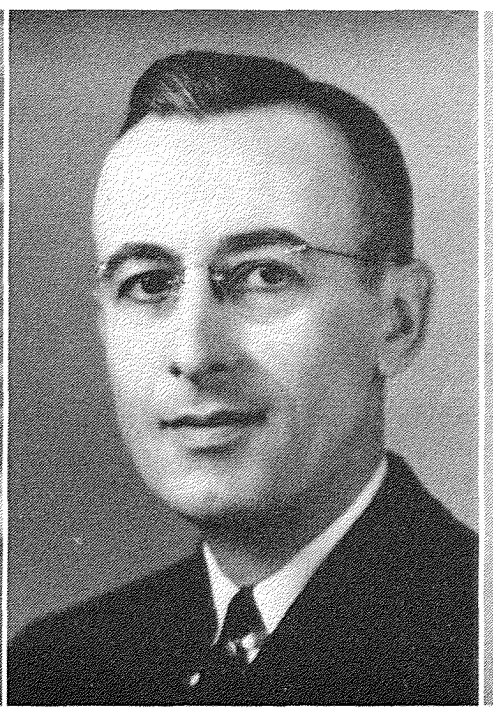

Secretary-treasurer . . . makes actual collections of tuition and other fees set by the business department . . . works in close cooperation with the Registrar in the maintenance of all financial records and preparation of statements . . . serves campus organizations by establishing accounts for their use and convenience.

C. I. Duncan . . . secretary-treasurer of the University . . . the man who really makes the wheels go round . . . has an office with more machinery than a factory . . . capably supervised by Helen Harrison, who gets our prize for being one of the hardest working people in school . . . has a map of the United States scaled almost to size . . . well, almost . . . school's ace designer of budgets . . . usually knows what's going to happen . . . before it happens . . . has a sense of humor and a twinkle in his eye . . . is an expert with his movie camera.

Dr. J. E. Fellows . . . registrar of the University of Tulsa . . . is the first person to greet the green freshman . . . the last person to bid the dignified senior good-bye . . . makes out schedules and diplomas . . . is instructor in the field of education . . . sponsors Kappa Delta Pi, national education fraternity . . . turns out a new crop of pedagogues annually . . . has a most efficient office corps . . . headed by Ruth Arnold and Betty Kendall . . . has near perfect enunciation, making his lectures something extra special.

Mrs. Beryl Hancock . . . occupies one of the highest positions held by a woman in the University . . . business manager of the University . . . is always pleasant . . . always calm . . . knows almost the entire student body by name . . . and said student body tallies her as A-1 . . . this year moved her office back another notch into a corner room of Robertson Hall . . . is a member of the University Council . . . is competently aided in the outer office by Mrs. Ruth Jennings, Mrs. Erma Swift, and Mrs. Vivian Jernigan.

Personnel—Advice—Assists

Personnel Director . . . directs individual freshman enrollment, counseling, freshman orientation, general supervision of student housing, student and graduate placement . . . attempts to individualize the educational program for students by selection of faculty advisers for them . . . works closely with the college deans in carrying out the program.

Counselor to women . . . advises women students of all four classifications, but specializes in orientation of freshman women by cooperation with the program of the personnel department . . . coordinates student life by the scheduling of events on the calendar, published monthly . . . assists in regulation of inter-sorority relations.

Counselor to men . . . assists in the guidance program as outlined by the personnel department for University men . . . interprets the University to prospective students . . . regulates, through sponsorship of the Interfraternity Council, the programs of the men's Greek-letter groups . . . maintains cumulative records for all students.

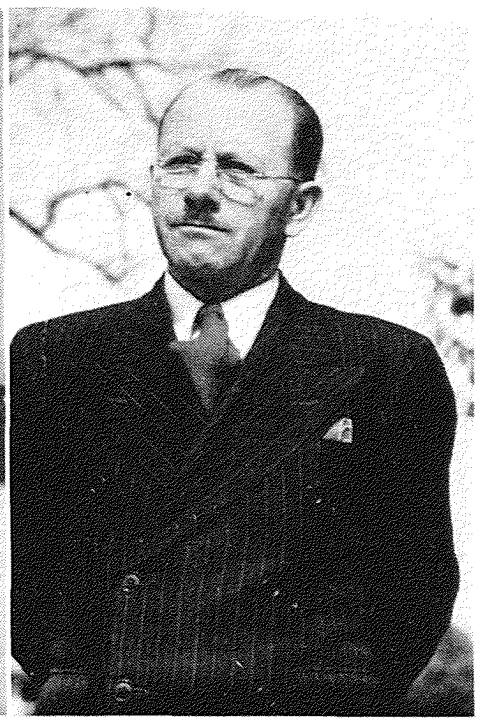

W. E. Morris, Jr. . . . director of personnel department . . . is an essential cog in almost all University machines . . . formerly publicity director and journalism teacher at T. U. . . . is still a vital member of the Board of Publications . . . handles student work on the campus . . . is sympathetic and understanding . . . plays golf in his few spare hours . . . is truly a Southern gentleman . . . likes to spend his vacation near Birmingham, Alabama with his father . . . is a graduate of Duke . . . is mighty proud of his young son, Edward.

Mary Clay Williams . . . counselor to women . . . and she is just that . . . proverbial latch string is always open to students who are worried . . . or in trouble . . . or who just want to talk . . . teaches business English to freshmen on the side . . . is sponsor and guiding light of Senior Staff, Pan-Hellenic, Lantern, T. U. "Y" . . . brought glory to the University when she made the principal address at the Pan-Hellenic convention this spring . . . has an unquenchable sense of humor . . . which is fortunate . . . always looks very chic.

H. D. Chase . . . counselor to men . . . sponsors Interfraternity council and T. U. "Y" . . . teaches Zoology to curious students . . . who want to see what makes them tick . . . figuratively speaking . . . is remembered for many years by grateful students . . . for his patience and long-suffering . . . speaks slowly . . . and really says something . . . has a dry humor . . . Daughter Kathleen is a senior and is following in her father's foot steps and studying zoology . . . Dean and Mrs. Chase much appreciated for their many hours spent chaperoning.

College of Fine Arts

Offers training in musical fields . . . and probably only college in which enrollment increases as studies become more advanced . . . furnishes majority of talent for University band, orchestra and A Cappella choir . . . housed in Tyrrell Hall . . . where the Art Department is also found . . . as is the office of Dr. Pontius . . . College of Fine Arts is magnet for much praise and publicity . . . and some condemnation . . . when assortment of practice sessions blends into horrible clamor . . . and grates unaccustomed ears . . . Dean Lukken livens up A Cappella . . . and his private lessons . . . with directions such as "sock it" . . . visitors to offices of President Pontius wonder how he stands the "noise" . . . but he claims to enjoy it . . . and leaves his outer doors open frequently . . . art students do most of their work on third floor, but can be seen sketching most anywhere . . . Dean's outer office popular gathering place for everyone . . . perhaps lured by the free phone . . . but causing no end of confusion . . . especially when answering phone, taking messages and forgetting them . . . presented many programs of various nature . . . but climaxed the year with All-University Concert at Convention Hall . . . and attracted 2500 enthusiastic listeners . . . who want the affair presented annually . . . although some would like to limit band to "swing" or "boogie-woogie" styles . . . not satisfied with efforts of Director Fenn and his musicians during football season . . . and when that group can stand or walk . . . and play swing . . . everyone will be happy . . . with possible exception of a few unbending faculty members . . . most difficult problem is getting personnel of band, orchestra or A Cappella together for picture . . . and then it's impossible to get uniformity of dress.

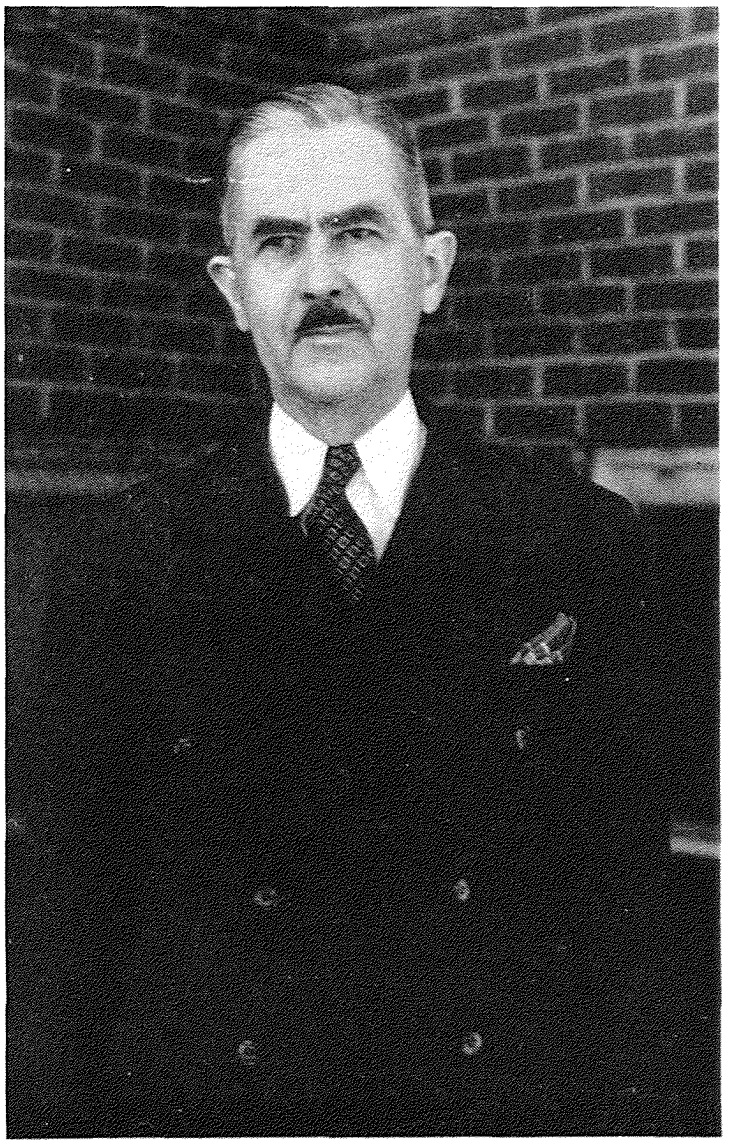

A. L. Lukken . . . dean of the College of Fine Arts . . . helps uphold the cultural end of the campus . . . is directly or indirectly responsible for the melodious efforts that constantly waft across the campus . . . played "Boogie Woogie" this year to the vast surprise and satisfaction of the public at large . . . towers above his desk in the office . . . substitutes sweets for smokes to save his voice . . . said voice proving its versatility by its great range . . . always appears at football games with his young son . . . commonly called just "Dean."

College of Arts and Sciences

Henry Kendall College was founded as a liberal arts college under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church in 1894 at Muskogee . . . moved to Tulsa in 1907 and opened in a temporary building downtown . . . in 1908 the new buildings on the present campus were completed and the institution moved into permanent quarters . . . because of the peculiar advantages of this community the Board of Trustees decided in 1920 that the scope of the College should be broadened and the University of Tulsa was created . . . the name Henry Kendall College was retained as the title of the College of Arts and Sciences. . . . despite popular misunderstanding . . . Art and Speech Arts Departments are under jurisdiction of this college . . . as is Tulsa Junior College . . . although artists are housed in Tyrrell Hall and Speech Arts students . . . known better as Experimental Theater or Workshop members . . . headquarter in Kendall Hall Auditorium and their own building behind Kendall Hall . . . Dr. Adah Robinson heads Art Department . . . and finds time to counsel with her students and former students . . . and speak before interested groups . . . college provides a wide variety of opportunity for general cultural development and for specialized training in preparation for graduate work . . . also offers work in several professional and pre-professional fields . . . the Henry Kendall College of Arts and Sciences offers curricula leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science . . . curricula sufficient for major work are offered in about twenty departments . . . a student may graduate "with honor" when he has maintained a high scholastic record in all his work . . . an average in grade points of 2.5 or higher.

Dr. L. S. McLeod . . . dean of the College of Arts and Sciences . . . teaches general psychology to freshmen and psycho-analysis and pseudo-psychology to seniors . . . and family relations to everyone. . . . is well-informed concerning the history of Mexico after living there all last summer . . . shows colored movies of said summer . . . can sometimes be caught in his office at six in the morning as well as at midnight . . . fishes for relaxation . . . and for fish . . . and gets them too . . . is proud of his Scotch ancestory . . . takes personal care of his lovely garden.

College of Petroleum Engineering

Students and graduates of the University of Tulsa may well be proud of their College of Petroleum Engineering . . . the college enjoys an international as well as a national reputation as one of the outstanding schools of petroleum engineering in the United States . . . this reputation has been earned through the efforts and wholehearted cooperation of students, faculty, and administration . . . four undergraduate courses lead to degrees in Petroleum Engineering, Geological Engineering, Bachelor of Geology, and Bachelor of Chemistry, in addition to work leading to a Master's degree in Refining and Geology . . . the school provides technical training on the highest level for all phases of the petroleum industry . . . acceptance of our graduates by industry and their uniform success in their chosen professions are indications of the high standard of training offered in this college . . . only thirteen years old . . . yet in this short time, the enrollment of the college has grown to more than 250 . . . faculty numbers nineteen . . . physical plant has expanded from a small frame residence with limited equipment to an adequately equipped college housed in a fine building, the gift of Waite Phillips . . . during the past year, the Engineers' Council for Professional Development approved the courses in Petroleum Engineering, Production and Refining options . . . approval by this Council is the highest recognition possible for engineering colleges to receive . . . also during the past year, the college has taken an active part in the National Defense Program, offering two courses in pilot training and four courses for employees of the defense industries. . . . chatter: . . . odors from the chemistry labs discourage most coeds from darkening the doors of the place . . . engineers always carry more than eight books—to look studious—but never open them . . .

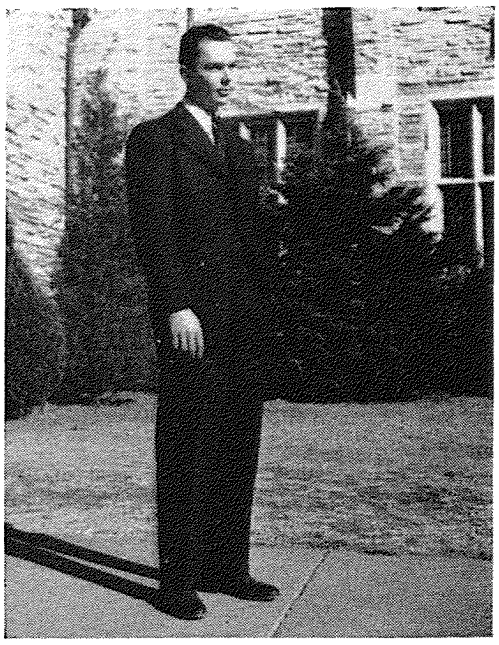

R. L. Langenheim . . . dean of the College of Petroleum Engineering . . . is in charge of keeping tacks out of the woodwork and rust off the evergreens . . . is the vice-president, incidentally . . . added sponsorship of the Student Council to his many other duties this year . . . authority states that he took the job as a source of amusement . . . and got it . . . is proud of the paint job in the library . . . but doesn't check out any books . . . often bowls on Friday night . . . can still beat collegiate son Ralph at tennis.

College of Business Administration

Established officially in 1935, the business school has made great strides in a short time . . . has the two-fold purpose of technical training of business and educational background . . . toward this end, five courses are offered—accounting, general business, marketing, secretarial administration, and secretarial science . . . students are encouraged to make the acquaintance of downtown business men with the view of facilitating employment later on . . . the Bachelor of Science degree is offered, with options in any of the five courses offered . . . in cooperation with the department of Education, options may be taken in commercial teaching. . . . Headquarters located in Robertson Hall . . . although Business students may occasionally be found in Kendall Hall, the library, and points north—and that doesn't mean the Engineering Building . . . its convenient to have the Business classes in the same building as the Dean's office—the students can drop by and talk to him right after class . . . incidentally, most of them need to at one time or another . . . the Business school is no snap. . . . personalities: . . . freshmen trying to date Mrs. Morrow, only to have it explained to them that she isn't a coed . . . s'prise . . . Lovejoy and his statistics course—'nuf said . . . Mr. McKeon arguing with students in law class, thus practicing what he teaches . . . Mr. Hargrove and his little-boy smile . . . and his final exams . . . Paxson finally giving up freshman economic order as a bad job . . . teachers have to teach high finance to students who can't manage their own allowances . . . the petroleum economics course that proves, by statistics, that the way to get rich quick is to drill sixteen dry holes in succession . . . business students always carrying brief cases . . . the suspected ulterior motives of pretty girls who major in law, accounting and such.

A. M. Paxson . . . dean of the College of Business Administration . . . is the big-wig of the Downtown College . . . the row of chairs in his outside office commonly called the "mourner's bench" by students . . . and with reason . . . proudly states that more students flunk economic order than any subject other than chemistry . . . smokes Kools . . . and uses them to demonstrate his points and to substantiate his arguments . . . econ principles class limps out after a six hour final . . . they bring a light lunch . . . with interesting . . . but unprintable comments about . . . Pluto Pax.

Strives to further the welfare of all students, to promote cooperation between the faculty and students, and to regulate all University functions . . . its twenty-four members are elected by the Hare plan of proportional representation . . . meets every Wednesday in the Browsing Room of the Library to discuss the pros and cons and to plan Student Council football dances. . . . the abolishing council did away with sophomore and junior class officers, Windbaggettes, and Varsity night . . . caused a revolution by charging the football players admission to the football dances . . . finally getting soft-hearted and honoring them at the last dance . . . not that we could do anything about it because when they came in herds, we ducked . . . dug up all the organizations' constitutions and took them apart to see what made them tick . . . took over the scheduling of all University dances during football season. . . . probably a little gabbing that could hurt no one is in season now . . . Ed Gowans and Bob Conley clashing over whose band was to play for which dance . . . efficiency, too, with Blonde Helen Alldredge recording the minutes and trying so hard to enforce the constitution in her spare time . . . Dean Langenheim always knowing the answers when no one else did, except Pat Neely whose sense of humor is lacking . . . ask her about the keys the students in the council never received. . . . Since the Council was always interested in campus affairs, mainly love affairs, we give you our President, Jim Alexander, who seemed always in the habit of losing his fraternity pin and finally putting it on a certain Connie Colvin, secretly his wife . . . Raymond Ousterhout and Bob Scott always drawing up petitions for holidays . . . petitions which never arrived . . . almost hardly . . . Joe Moore attending meeting once in a while when other business wasn't so rushing . . . Betty Bruner and her wonderful arrangements for Varsity Night that were of no avail . . . Dick Bryan sitting mildly in the softest chair and agreeing with almost everything . . . Clyde King trying to take care of everything at once . . . dances, school work and affairs, and his wife . . . Barbara Tenney causing everyone to praise her in a quaint red turban . . . pretty, isn't she? . . . Jeanne Jenkins one of the most dignified members of the Council. . . . Bill Epperson's continual "Let's give another free dance with our money" . . . by the way, didn't you like the idea? . . . This was the first time in the Council's history that a large dance, orchestra and all, was given free to the University students.

Student Promotion Council . . . one of the most unusual organizations to be found on any campus . . . was organized at the University of Tulsa in 1933 . . . purpose of the organization is to foster and encourage projects designed to attract favorable attention to the entire University program. . . . comprising the presidents . . . or elected representatives . . . of sixteen campus organizations, the Council plans and directs the execution of pep rallies, pre-game parades, ceremonies and stunts at football games, and encourages the pep activities of all groups. . . . during the 1940 grid season Council planned six extravagant parades, but rain interferred with Massed Bands parade . . . disappointing more than two thousand high school boys and girls from 38 cities and towns in northeast Oklahoma who were scheduled to march . . . boys from Oklahoma Military Academy saved day by putting in their best licks on several downtown corners . . . and Iddy Harwood, Chi Omega prexy and sponsor of football game . . . gathered her attendants into the beautiful but rain-soaked float . . . topped the day's entertainment by circling track despite rain . . . five parades clicked . . . attracting thousands to gape from windows in office buildings . . . and line curbstones along line of march . . . to cheer lovely queens . . . Tulsa high school bands . . . Boy Scouts . . . visiting bands . . . and gilt-clad Hurricane band. . . . Choice of varsity footballers for their queen was Betty Coulter . . . fine arts major who came all the way from Kentucky to be elected. . . . Decorating other parades and grid games were Jane Swan, Tri-Delt president . . . Ruth Olesen, Phi Mu president . . . Jeanne Jenkins, Kappa Delta's number one girl . . . all game sponsors . . . Elizabeth Harth, choice of the Windbags, was topped by a tiara at pep rally prior to Aggie game when hundreds of brave souls dared to come through driving rain to hear introduction of Fred Waring's new T.U. song . . . Madelyn King's blazing red hair gave the band an attractive queen . . . and band boys made much ado of introducing her to a football crowd . . . Gerre Campbell got the nod from the newest pep group on campus, the Froshbags, and was crowned at a Golden Gale game . . . while Elizabeth Ann Jones reigned over the Frosh gridders and shared part of spotlight with varsity queen at Thanksgiving game . . . add to interesting experiences of Council members was decorating floats by moonlight, flashlight and matches . . . twisting rosettes with baling wire . . . praying for sunshine on game days . . . consoling one another when it rained . . . too often. . . . On 24 hours' notice Council organized most colorful rally T.U. ever had when the Hurricane reared back and upset the Detroit

Titans . . . and more than two thousand students and other fans heeded newspaper and radio appeals . . . and gave rousing ovation to returning heroes . . . while public address system allowed embarrassed gridmen to tell fans how pleased they were with the welcome party . . . not so successful . . . but a noble effort . . . was the party organized following defeat to Baylor . . . when band members raced home from Waco, Texas . . . arriving just as team-laden train pulled into station . . . while hundreds cheered in the bright glare of sunrise. . . . probably most sensational of Council's activities in 1940 was introduction of "jitterbug" cheer leaders . . . Billy Louise Williams and Dot Lee . . . whose white flannel skating costumes, or red snow suits on rainy days . . . diverted attention of spectators . . . cooperating organizations were the five women's and the five men's social organizations . . . the Windbags and Windbaggettes . . . band . . . Student Council . . . Cheer leaders . . . Froshbags . . . Council meets weekly during football season . . . on call during balance of year.

Pan-Hellenic

Organized over ten years ago, the University of Tulsa Panhellenic was modeled after the National Panhellenic Congress . . . each sorority on the campus sends two delegates . . . this year the members were: Elizabeth Harwood and Edith Vincil, Chi Omega; Jane Swan and Martha Buchanan, Delta Delta Delta; Jeanne Jenkins and Barbara Tenney, Kappa Delta; and Ruth Olesen and Mary Kaufmann, Phi Mu . . . sponsored by Dean of Women, Mary Clay Williams, the group promotes and maintains cooperation among sororities . . . activities are many and varied . . . just before the end of school last spring, the Council contributed five hundred dollars to the Student Union building fund . . . weekly meetings during the summer were occupied with work on the book of rush rules and regulation of summer rush . . . at the opening of school, the annual Freshman Mixer was combined with the Panhellenic party where new students are welcomed and rush rules are explained to them . . . after the mad rush of formal rush week and pledging were over, plans were begun for the Panhellenic Ball, a dance rivalled in importance only by the Interfraternity Dance . . . familiarly known as "Panhel," the dance was complete with a silver and white christmas tree, illuminated sorority pins, and flash pictures to record the good time had by all . . . new members elected near the beginning of the second semester started things with a bang on a trip to the regional conference at the University of Texas, in Austin . . . Helen Alldredge, Elizabeth Harth, Jeanne Jenkins, Betty Mason, and Miss Williams were the lucky delegates . . . one of the last duties of this year's Council was arranging the annual banquet for sorority initiates, held March 19 at the University Club . . . high spot of the year . . . too many black and gold rush booklets . . . so many that someone wanted to use them to start fires with . . . complications arising from holding the Freshman Mixer and the Panhellenic party for women on the same night . . . President Ruth Olesen trying to tell the new girls about rush rules and to have a good time at the dance all at once . . . Pan-hellenic Ball—ah! yes . . . Buchanan trying to cut down expenses on it . . . the receiving line standing for a long hour and a quarter as Miss Williams insisted, "Ruth, we have to wait for Dean Langenheim—he's right out there" . . . and said Dean staying "right out there" in the lobby chattering with friends . . . Panhellenic contributing a Christmas tree for the children's party, and then three other groups borrowed the tree for their parties . . . that's getting the Council's money's worth . . . a typical meeting . . . Jane Swan, "I haven't typed the minutes yet" . . . treasurer, Jeanne Jenkins, "Oh! we've got lots of money" . . . Elizabeth Harwood, "I want to bring up something" . . . Mary Kaufman, "I'll so move" . . . Edith Vincil, "I'll ask my father" . . . Barbara Tenney, "It sounds all right to me" . . . Miss Williams, "Have you looked at this angle?" . . . Martha Buchanan, "I move we adjourn" . . . Ruth Olesen, "Okay, but let's get this done before next meeting" . . . officers rotate each year, so that each sorority holds a different office each year, the cycle being completed every four years . . . for instance, the order for the presidency is: Phi Mu this year, Chi Omega next year, Delta Delta Delta the following year, and Kappa Delta the fourth year . . . the creed of the local Panhellenic is identical with that of National Panhellenic Congress: "We, the fraternity undergraduate members, stand for good scholarship, for the guarding of good health, for wholehearted cooperation with the college's ideals for student life, for the maintenance of fine social standards, and the serving, to the best of our ability, of our college community . . . good college citizenship as a preparation for good citizenship in the larger world of alumnae days is the ideal that shall guide our chapter activities" . . . it is considered beneath the standards of fraternity women to speak disparagingly of any fraternity or college woman; to create any feeling between fraternity or non-fraternity women; or to allow an account of minor social functions to appear in the public press . . . the local chapter, in an attempt to live up to these ideals, promotes cooperation among Greeks and between Greek groups and non-sorority members . . . it tries to develop in its members a spirit of Pan-Hellenism and to discourage clanishness above all else—penalties are invoked for breaking the letter or spirit of laws, and an effort to be fair in their decisions is foremost.

Inter-Fraternity

Organized officially four years ago, through the efforts of H. D. Chase, Dean of Men . . . although the same work had been done by an informal group previously . . . purpose is to correlate activities of the various fraternities, in order that they may concentrate their efforts toward a common goal—that goal being the serving of the best interests of the University by doing everything possible to keep fraternity life up to its high standards . . . effort is also made to cooperate with the independent men insofar as is possible, and avoid the "Greek versus Barbarian" attitude prevalent on many campuses . . . this goal is slowly being attained regardless of the firmly-established fraternity system at the University of Tulsa . . . a local chapter, the Interfraternity Council nevertheless is an important factor in campus relations . . . recognizing the natural desire for union expressed by the existence of Greek organizations, the Council assists them in their contribution to the University pattern of living. . . . Activities . . . new this year was the smoker given by the Council at the Union, for all fraternity men . . . as stag parties go, it went . . . biggest single undertaking was the Interfraternity Dance, annually one of the biggest dances on the calendar . . . this year was the fourth annual dance, and all reports were favorable . . . in spite of the most mixed-up grand march on record . . . date for the affair kept secret until all the members of the Council had asked the girls they wanted . . . music by Ernie Fields' orchestra . . . preceded by the inevitable basketball game which always manages to get scheduled the same night as a big dance . . . more activities . . . endless meetings where Panhellenic is discussed more than anything else, much to the discomfiture of the Secretary, who got tired of writing "Pan-Hell" in the minutes all the time . . . Sam Brown, Joe Mitchell, Bob Hoss and brethren getting all hot and bothered and promoting an investigation of the shysters making so much money on the yearbook . . . Prexy Sam Brown was to present his complaint to the Student Council . . . at the last minute he got cold feet and turned up missing . . . so the Kendallabrum's Jack Mills presented his defense without an accusation . . . Ray Ousterhaut turning traitor to the Interfraternity Council and enthusiastically moving that the Council accept Jack's report. . . . Personalities . . . Sam "Romeo" Brown always trying to close meeting in a hurry so he could go meet a girl . . . or two . . . or three . . . Bob Hoss getting all het up over anything and everything . . . Jay Thompson coming to meeting when Martha had a class . . . Bob Maples doing his bit to make campus life "socially agreeable" . . . sometimes hectic . . . Gordon Wright—the perennial favorite—in the Council every year . . . Dick Bryan getting tired of people asking . . . "Oh, are you Jody's brother?" . . . Ralph Dunham and James Ferguson, the silent partners . . . diminutive Dean Chase telling the big tall boys where to head in . . . "Uncle Joe" Mitchell's continual chatter in meetings . . . things get too hot for prexy Brown, so he quit at mid-semester to give place to Harry Heath . . . Treasurer Hoss and his financial difficulties . . . the fraternities won't pay their fees, and Hoss wouldn't have the books straight if they did . . . John Cox trying repeatedly to get his picture in the yearbook as second-semester secretary of the Council . . . news to most of the eds and coeds is that an all-school picnic was planned by the boys, but after weeks of research and experimentation with various lunch-boxes, they gave it up as a bad job . . . the group picture of the Council was scheduled so many times that members began reserving every Sunday afternoon to haunt the Library steps, from mere force of habit . . . and Sam Brown posing for at least six "takes" for his president's picture . . . Ray Ousterhaut being happy about the whole thing, even if only slap-happy . . . although politics play a conspicuous part in activities all year long, the Council failed to take a stand on the Collegian-Engineers question . . . probably because of dissention in the ranks on the situation . . . Jack Brown thinking about basketball most of the time . . . Gordon Wright and Jeanne Blaylock . . . Bob Maples and "the wimmin" . . . John Cox and his "hard-to-handle" girl at O. U. . . . if he's so angry about the whole thing, why does he call her long distance and talk to her so long? . . . Council is composed of three representatives from each fraternity, usually the president and two elected members . . . as in Panhellenic Council, offices rotate annually among the groups according to a carefully-worked-out schedule . . . business and bull-sessions are transacted in bi-weekly meetings generally held in the office of the Dean of Men, H. D. Chase . . . constant references to last year's proceedings kept the secretary busy looking through the minute book . . . and by the time he found what they wanted, they were on another subject . . . they'll do it every time . . . old Council gives way to new.

Miss Kathryn Rainbolt
Editor, 1941 Kendallabrum
University of Tulsa
Tulsa, Oklahoma

Dear Miss Rainbolt,

I have had a tough time making up my mind about these very attractive girls. In fact, my mind could hardly be described as "made up" now -- I simply called a halt to changing it any more. Every time I studied the collection of pictures, I switched them around, freshly impressed by a smile or an expression in a pair of eyes. But this could obviously not go on forever.

Here, then, is the decision which was reached at the moment I stopped switching, just like a candid camera man stopping action.

First	No. 25	Norma Rylander
Second	" 8	Margaret Pratt
Third	" 24	Joan Woodson
Fourth	" 7	Betty Rains
Fifth	" 22	Jane Swan

Wishing the Kendallabrum Queen a happy coronation,

Sincerely yours,

FRED WARING

P. S. The pictures are on their way under separate cover.

Here's to the American Coed—the most versatile character in the modern world. With no apparent effort the glamour girl becomes a tennis star or the rough and tumble outdoor girl is suddenly collected and sedate at tea.

Presented here are six typical coeds dressed in the sort of clothes that college girls like to wear. They are typical not only of the University of Tulsa, but of every college campus from Maine to California.

CHET BENEFIEL
Director of Athletics and Head Football Coach during the 1940 season.

HENRY FRNKA
Newly elected Athletic Director and Football Coach who began work this spring.

MOWING down a helpless Washburn squad—37 to 6—the Golden Hurricane gave its followers hints of what was to come in the 1940 schedule. Coach Chet Benefiel used four complete squads almost equally in the slaughter of the Ichabods and all four performed well. Followers of the Hurricane received quite a set-back upon reading of the 41-6 defeat at the hands of the super Texas A. and M. team, but most experts claimed a moral victory for the Hurricane on several counts. Four of the Aggie scores came on lucky breaks, Tulsa scored once and threatened several times and Glenn Dobbs, sophomore back, stopped the Aggies' great John Kimbrough cold time after time. The Aggies used the same lineup which went undefeated in 1939 against the nation's strongest teams.

Most spectacular runner of the season proved to be little N. A. Keithley, who time after time broke loose for sizeable gains after seeming to be hopelessly trapped.

Glenn Dobbs, six foot three inch back, boomed long punts out consistently enough to be ranked among the first five kickers in the nation.

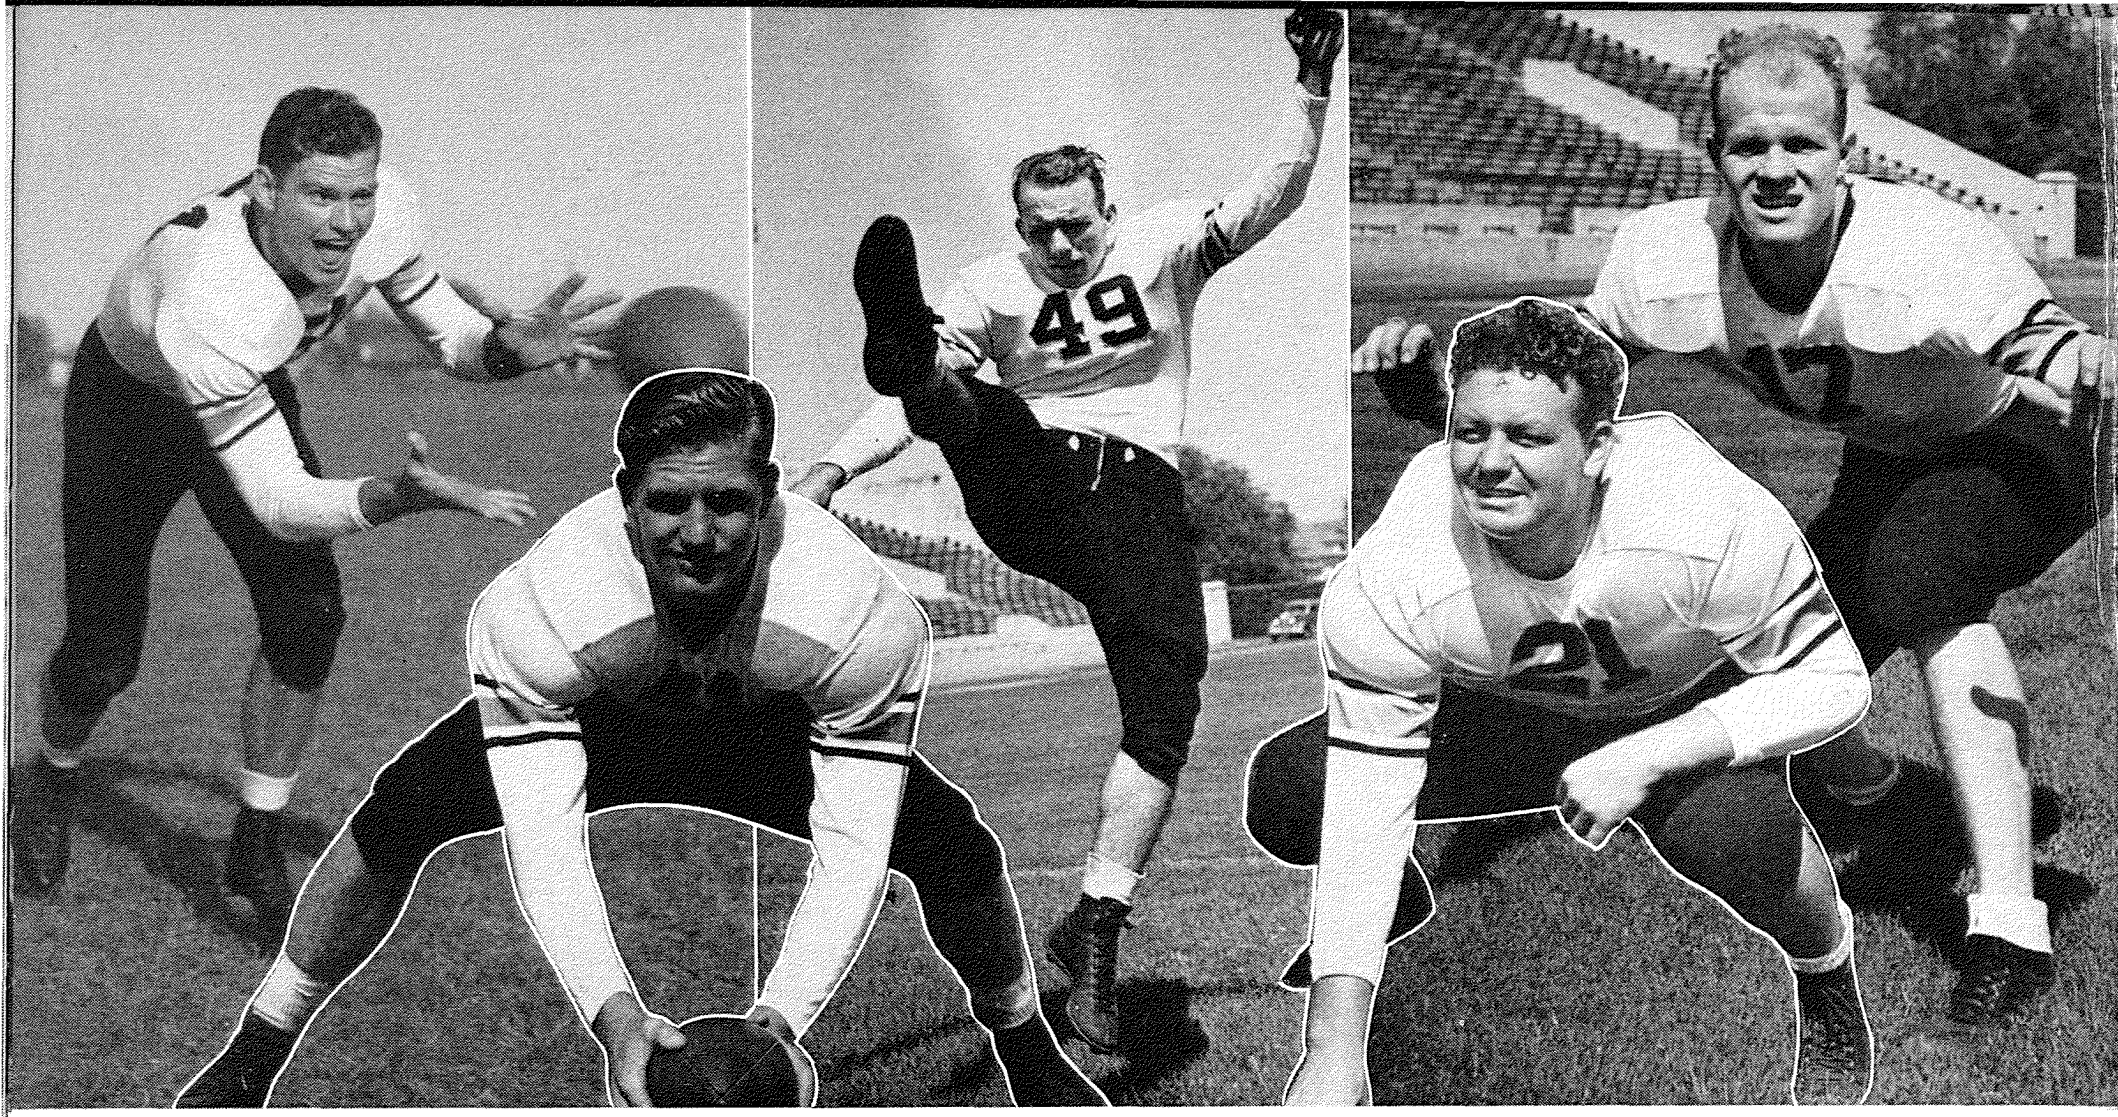

Tulsa's huge line was studded with stars three deep. Bill Grimmett, lanky end, playing his last season for the Hurricane, was chosen on several all-star aggregations for his brilliant defensive and offensive play.

L. D. Moore, smashing fullback, averaged over three yards gained in his line plunging.

Led by Johnny Knolla, the leading ground gainer in the mid-west for the 1939 season, the powerful Creighton Bluejays invaded Skelly stadium only to be blown over by 32 to 0 score. Knolla's line plungers were completely muffled by the giant Tulsa linesmen and three sets of Tulsa backs clicked. The Jays threatened but once, early in the game, but the Tulsa line stood firm, deep in their own territory, to stop the drive.

Continuing its march toward another Missouri Valley crown the Hurricane scored late against a surprisingly stubborn St. Louis University to win 19-6. After a slow start the team appeared to realize its precarious position and promptly marched across with the decisive touchdowns to defeat the Billikens.

Winning by a much more decisive margin than the score would indicate, the Gold and Black avenged previous trouncings at the hands of Texas Christian University as they downed the Horned Frogs by a 7-0 score. Little Davey O'Brien was missing, but diminutive Dean Bagley gave Tulsa fans several scares in the last period with his deadly passing.

Then stepping into northern competition the Hurricane stopped a previously undefeated Detroit team by another 7-0 count. The Titans' strong line was completely outplayed by Tulsa and the punting of Glenn Dobbs was outstanding as the tall back kicked out of bounds inside the Detroit five-yard line three times in the last quarter.

The punting duel expected between Pete Sachon of Catholic University and Dobbs failed to materialize satisfactorily because of a wet field. Prior to this game both kickers were among the nation's leaders. In a see-saw battle Tulsa came out on top to the tune of a 12-6 score.

Invading Waco, accompanied by the band, the Hurricane blew up in the face of a savage Baylor Bear attack led by 220 pound Jack Wilson and lost 20-6 despite a last quarter rally. Tough breaks beat back three Tulsa drives in the final quarter as the cellar-dwelling Southwest Conference team scored its upset.

Again on a muddy field Coach Benefiel's boys kept the home fans happy as they trounced the traditional Oklahoma A. and M. foe 19-6. The Aggies struck first, passing the still dry ball three straight plays for a touchdown following the opening kickoff. However, after the first surprise, Tulsa dominated the play completely as they powered their way to victory. Tulsa's line play was the feature of the battle as the Hurricane brawn stopped the vaunted Aggie.

Baylor—Oklahoma Aggies—Arkansas

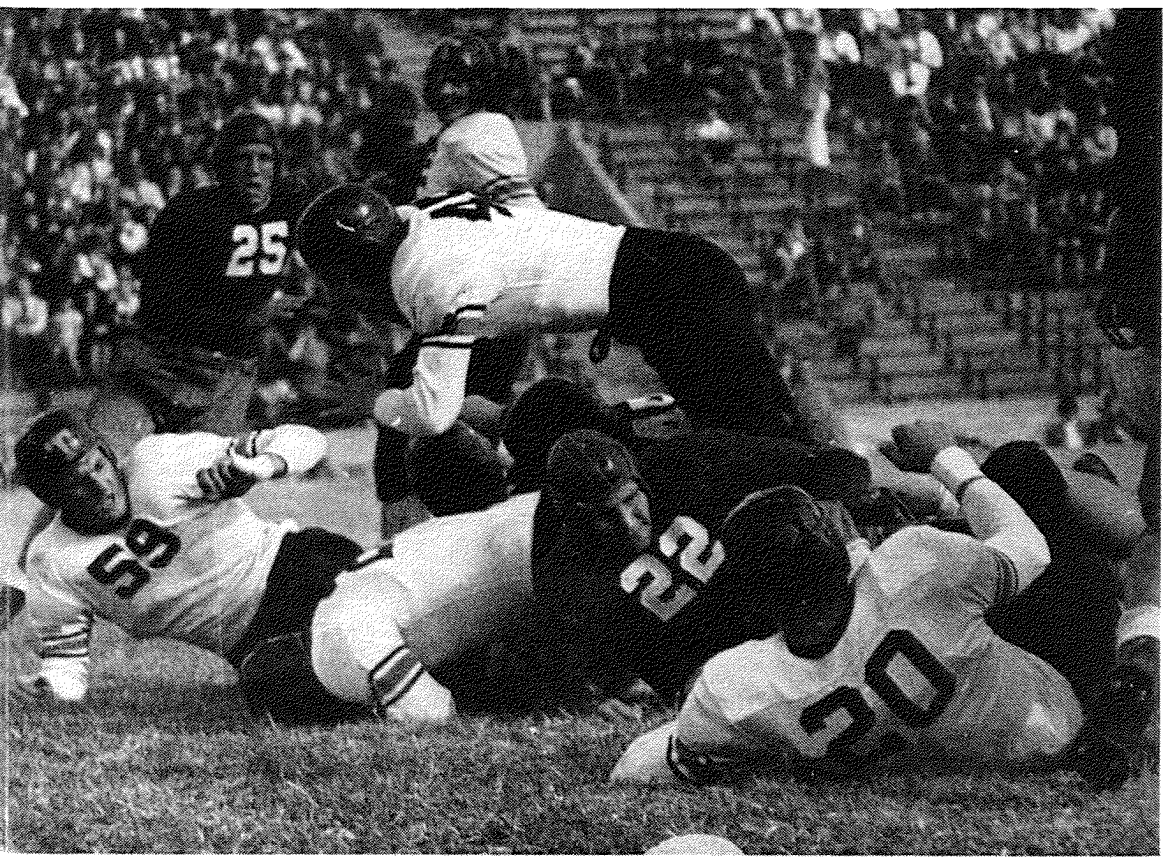

It started out to be the same old story of a walkaway Arkansas victory by an overwhelming margin as the Razorbacks stacked up a 28-7 lead in the first three periods.

Then the Hurricane began to blow, and Tulsa fans were shown one of the most thrilling climax drives ever staged on Skelly field.

Within ten minutes the Hurricane scored twice and threatened twice more. Two times within the final minutes with the Gold and Black trailing by a lone touchdown, bad breaks stopped their pushes within the Porkers' 20-yard line and as the game ended the Hogs were desperately stalling the ball.

Final score 28-21, Arkansas.

Season Highlights

Tulsa's record for the 1940-41 season was high enough that the Hurricane had been seriously considered for the Sun Bowl game at El Paso, Texas on New Year's day until the unfortunate Arkansas game.

Lee Gentry, Senior quarterback, was chosen to play most of the New Year's battle between the East and West All-Stars in California.

Twenty-one times did Hurricane basketball squad go to battle during 1940-1941 season . . . and thirteen times delivered nicely-packaged victories at feet of enthusiastic fans. Not since the University of Tulsa entered Missouri Valley conference in 1935 has home team reached this season's record of undisputed third place . . . after threatening for weeks to displace Creighton and Oklahoma A. & M. . . . champions and runners-up respectively . . . especially when Hurricane draped decisive defeat over each. . . . Starting practice only 10 days before opening game . . . Coach Sterrett found eight talented veterans ready to go . . . but before first Valley fracas . . . only four remained . . . and Coach Sterrett reached into sophomore "grab-bag" . . . and pulled out two prizes . . . With Racquet

Led by M. C. Hopper and Bob Patterson, the Golden Hurricane's 1940 net squad annexed both the singles and doubles titles of the Missouri Valley conference . . . however, the method of scoring did not give the Gold and Black the team title. . . . Patterson defeated George Counts of Oklahoma A. and M., widely recognized star to take the singles after Counts had stopped Hopper, who won the singles the year before, in the semi-finals. Then Patterson teamed with Hopper to take the doubles . . . the Tulsans played Arkansas University, Oklahoma University and Oklahoma A. and M. twice and Wichita University once . . . the 1941 season began in a highly successful manner with a 6-0 victory over Wichita, a 5-2 victory over Michigan State and a 3-3 tie with Baylor . . . at the time this book goes to press home and home games are yet to be played with University of Arkansas, University of Oklahoma, and Oklahoma A. and M. College . . . the Michigan State Spartans held only a pair of singles victories against the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes. . . . Hopper, Patterson, and Gannaway won singles victories for the Tulsans while the doubles teams of Hopper and Patterson and Burger and Gannaway each picked up victories in two sets . . . interest in the Baylor match centered primarily around "Lefty" Brown, one of the southwest's ranking players, who got a great play from the grandstand . . . Brown, who has had a screen test, attracted interest by his extreme good looks as well as by the exceptionally good brand of tennis he played. . . . Brown pulled out of a bad slump in the third set to take the match 6-4, 7-9, 8-6. . . . Burns and Patterson picked up easy singles victories in two sets each. . . . Gannaway lost his singles match to Harris. . . . Patterson and Hopper picked up an effortless doubles victory 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. . . . Gannaway and Burger were defeated in their doubles match to tie the meet. . . . Golden Hurricane shut out the Wichita quartet by sweeping 12 consecutive singles and doubles sets. . . . Patterson and Hopper had little trouble in winning both their singles and doubles matches over the top Wichita men, while Burger and Gannaway also won in two sets with but little more effort.

Participating in seven dual matches . . . the Golden Hurricane golf team played home and home engagements with the University of Arkansas, the University of Oklahoma and Oklahoma A. and M. . . . one meet was scheduled with Wichita . . . Palmer Kise, team captain, was the match play champion in the tournament held at St. Louis . . . Jack Shields, noteworthy member, was not eligible to participate in the Valley meet because he was a freshman . . . other members of the Golden Hurricane included Evans Dunn, Clyde King, and Roy Fike . . . Kise, Dunn, and King both returned to the 1941 squad . . . while Fike graduated . . . Bert Griffin, Mervil Tubbs, and Rex Walker were added to the new squad . . . Team was directed by J. B. Miller . . . coach of minor sports . . . with help from Kise . . . who served as the student coach . . . it was one of the best golf groups the Hurricane has ever been able to muster for collegiate competition . . . 1941 season again scheduled home and home games with the University of Arkansas, the University of Oklahoma, and Oklahoma A. and M. . . . with a single match with Wichita . . . Golden Hurricane squad participated in the Southwestern exposition golf meet at Fort Worth in the early part of the 1941 season . . . King, Kise, Tubbs, and Walker . . . playing for the Tulsa crew . . . placed fifth . . . Texas Christian University walked off with the honors with a low score of 323 points . . . the team opened its dual season with a match with Wichita University . . . played at Oakhurst country club . . . Palmer Kise was low in medal play with a 78 . . . Tubbs and Walker tied, Kise won, and King lost individual matches . . . and Kise and Tubbs won and King and Walker lost foursomes . . . so the end of the game found the teams at a 9-9 tie . . . but with the Hurricane squad cherishing high hopes for a big season while the Kendallabrum is on the press.

A new feature over in the women's side of the gym . . . was the organization of the Women's Intra-mural Athletic Council . . . which was installed to regulate sports . . . and is composed of representatives from each sorority and the Independent Women's Association . . . the toughest assignment last winter proved to be the selecting and training of enough girls to officiate at basketball games . . . Miss Blackmore deciding . . . after several years of racing about the courts . . . to take no more than a spectator's interest in the proceedings . . . each season is marked by its own special tournament . . . in the fall the girls pour out to the volleyball courts and keep their wrists black and blue . . . whamming big volley balls back and forth across the net . . . Chi Omega defeated all contenders to win the volleyball pitcher . . . a surprise award . . . greatest interest of the year comes with the basketball tournament . . . over on the boys' side there was exhibited a close fight for the trophy . . . which ended when the Independent number three quintet was crowned the champ team . . . after crowding their number two team 22-21 in a thriller . . . which saw the lead change hands about five times during the game.

Wade Twins, Jane and Margarett, and Reichard twins, Martha and Mary re-hash the game just played on the new tennis courts.

Girls' intra-murals furnished a most exciting basketball tournament . . . with Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta and Kappa Delta tying . . . and dying . . . for first place . . . after a lengthy schedule . . . the so called "Powder Puff" league . . . was forced to schedule play-off games . . . more than evenly matched . . . the three teams gave their all before enthusiastic galleries . . . the Chi Omega quintet lost to Tri Delta by one point as the result of innumerable free-throws . . . and tied Kappa Delta's team . . . leaving the Kappa Delta and Tri Delta teams to fight it out between them . . . in a point for point battle the contest ended . . . with the Kappa Deltas carrying off their first tournament win . . . and receiving the basketball cup . . . for their trouble . . . tennis and archery have their place in both the fall and spring . . . although tournaments are scheduled only for the spring season . . baseball is another sport that is widely enjoyed . . . in both the men and women's sport programs . . . although no games have been played at the time this game book goes to press . . . members of the Powder Puff league are eagerly forming teams to beat the Delta Ditoes record of the previous year.

An Open Letter To Dr. Pontius!

Dear Sir:

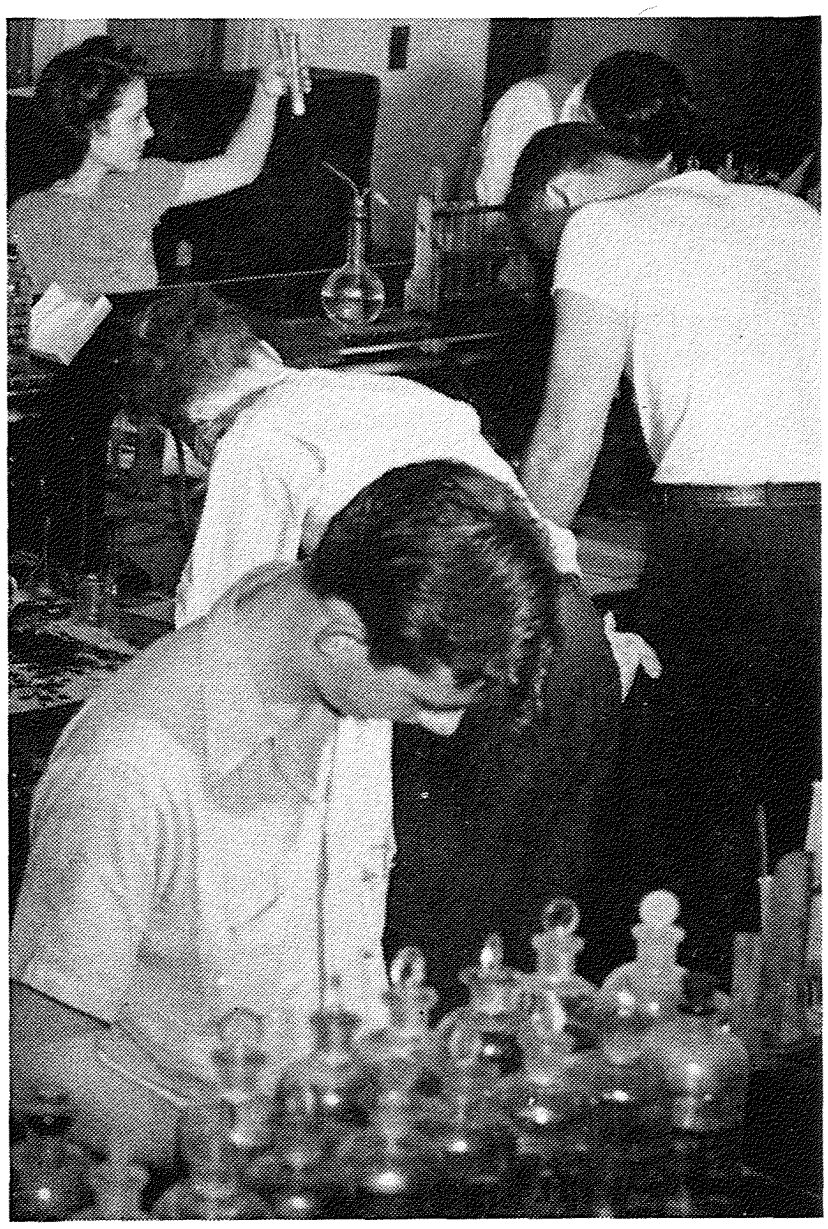

We follow the fine example of the editors of the Kendallabrum. They have dedicated their yearbook to you. We, in appreciation of your sound leadership, dedicate to you this advertisement.

Brown-Dunkin is deeply mindful that the University of Tulsa is worthy of entrusting our young men and women to it for their college education. We know full well the valuable service your educational institution gives to the community and the country.

So, Dr. Pontius, we congratulate you for the fine work the university is doing. May we know many more graduating classes in the years to come.

Very sincerely yours,

BROWN-DUNKIN

Southwestern Engraving Company,

Gentlemen:

Now that our work is done and we are waiting to receive the 1941 Kendallabrum, we want to take this means of thanking you and your personnel for the excellent and helpful service you gave us in producing our yearbook.

Even though we were not sure in the beginning, we know now that, with Southwestern's expert guidance, even the most inexperienced editor and manager can publish a fine yearbook. And, if other yearbook staffs want to have the assistance of a truly competent organization, we heartily recommend you to them.

Furthermore, the style and quality of the book this year is evidence of what you told us last fall --"it is a continued advancement."

Very truly yours,

Kathryn Rainbolt
