THE FACULTY IS ENLARGED

Since the beginning of school last fall thirty-six new members have been added to the ranks of the faculty. This number includes five men who were graduated from the University of Tulsa in the past, in addition to three former faculty members who have been in the service of their country. The increases were effected in every department and served to relieve to some degree the burden of the already over-worked professors. Plans for next year include even greater expansion in the fields of instruction.

BUILDING BEGINS

Building is undoubtedly the phase of expansion in which the University is taking its most impressive steps. Not only are new buildings proposed which will contain classrooms and laboratories for instruction in such technical subjects as natural gas and synthetics, but also dormitories which will house the future students of the University. Much of the money to finance the construction of these buildings has been in the form of donations from prominent citizens of Tulsa who wish to have a hand in helping to build a greater University of Tulsa.

NEW COURSES ADDED

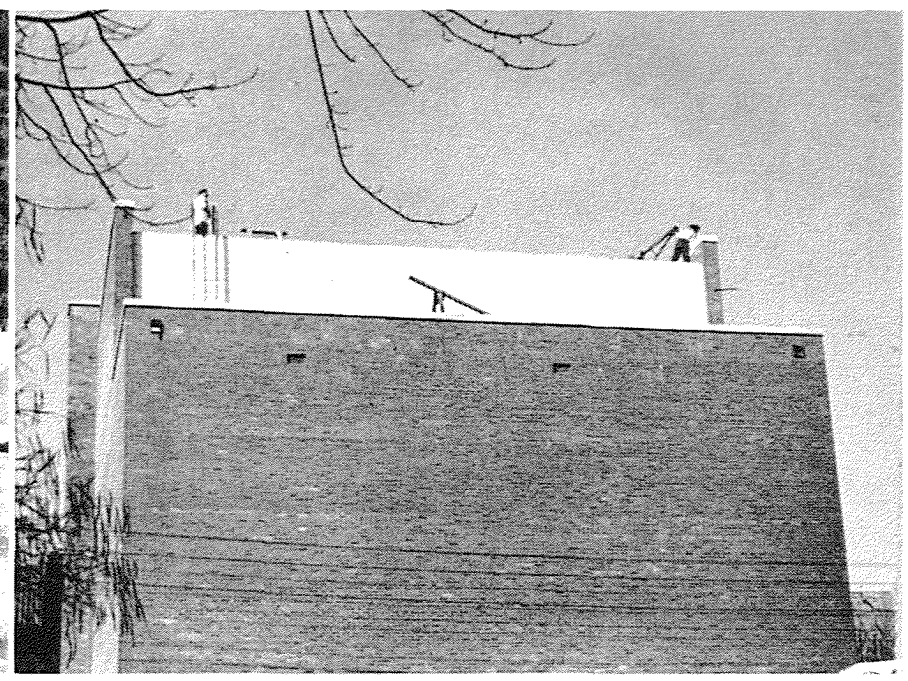

In line with the enlargement of the faculty and increased building expansion many new courses are finding their way into the curricula of the various colleges. Outstanding among these new courses are classes in radio production in connection with the department of speech. The art department offers instruction in sculpturing taught at Philbrook, and classes in lithography. It is rapidly becoming possible for students at the University of Tulsa to find and follow any course they might desire.

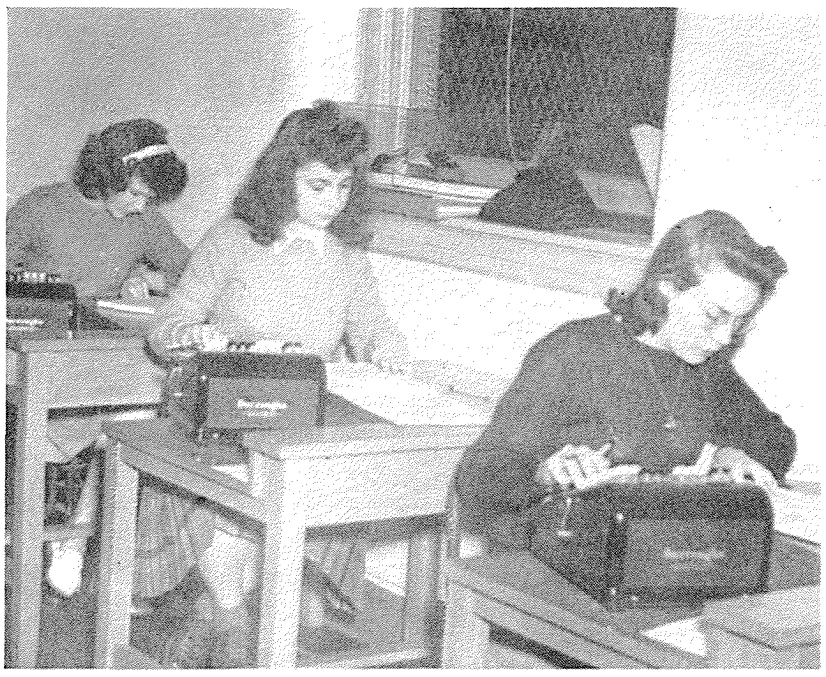

. LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

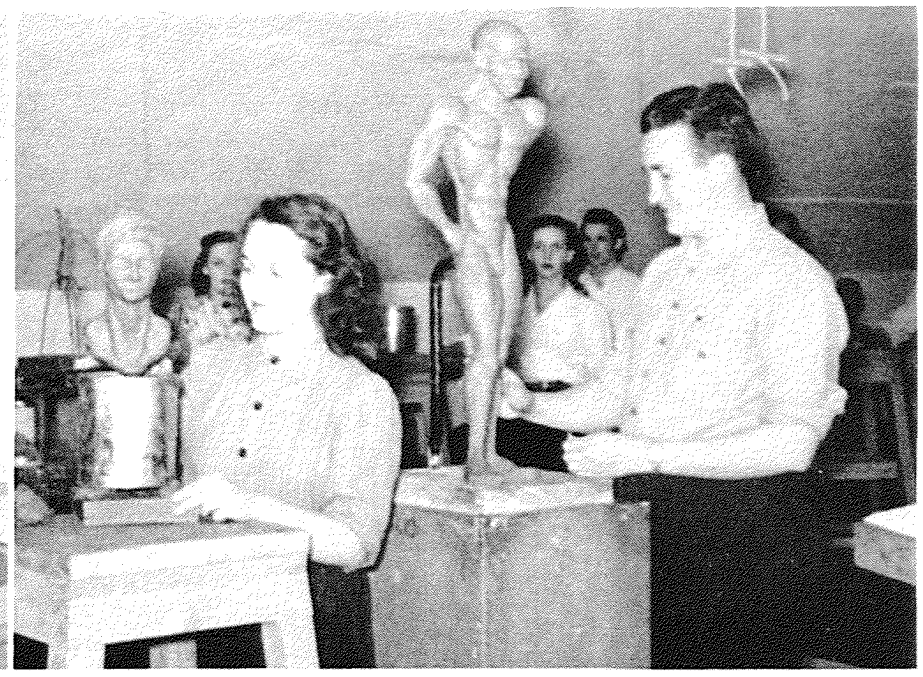

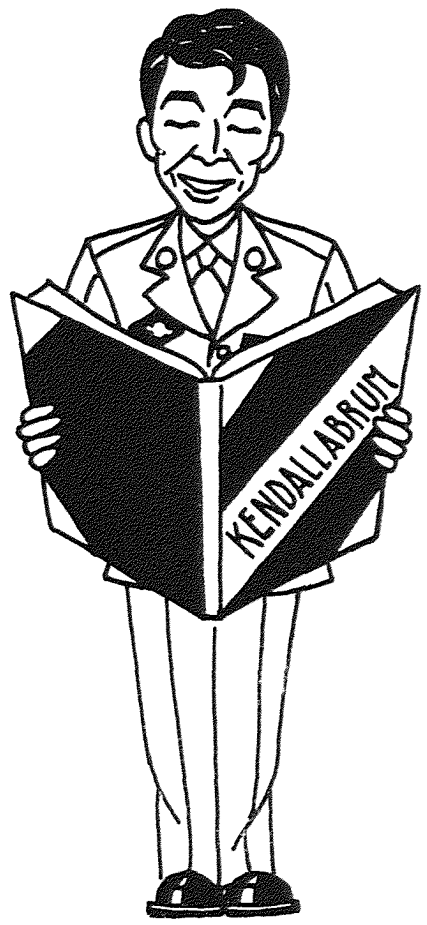

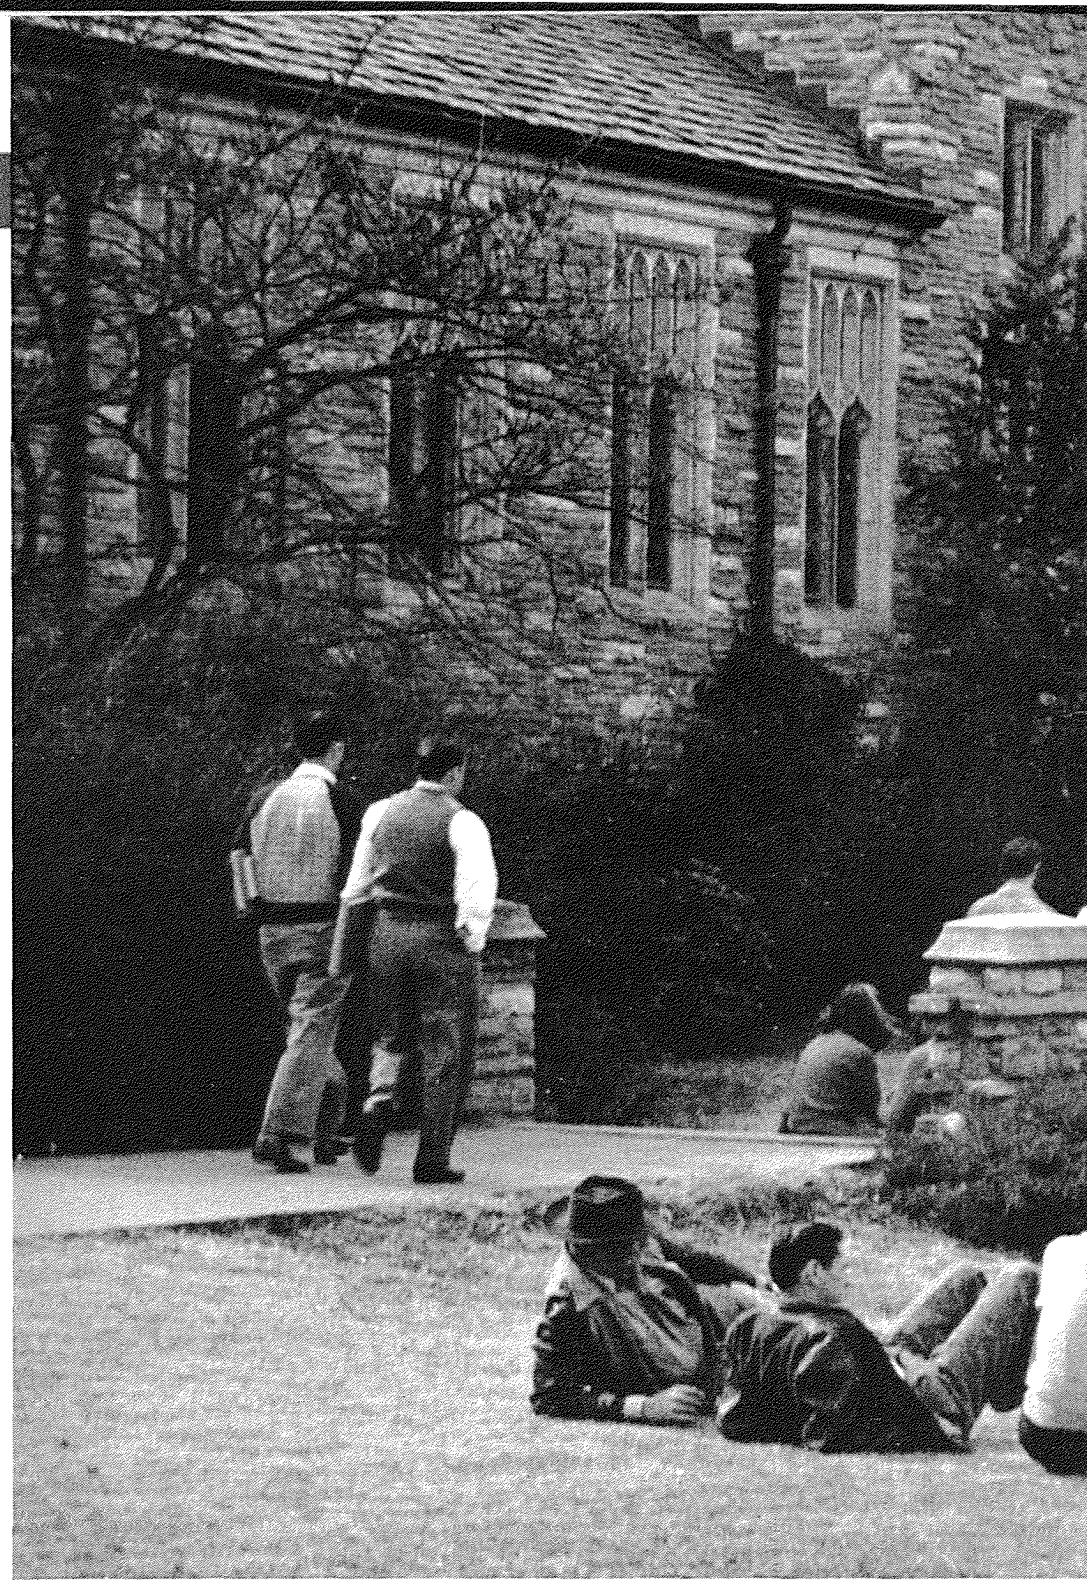

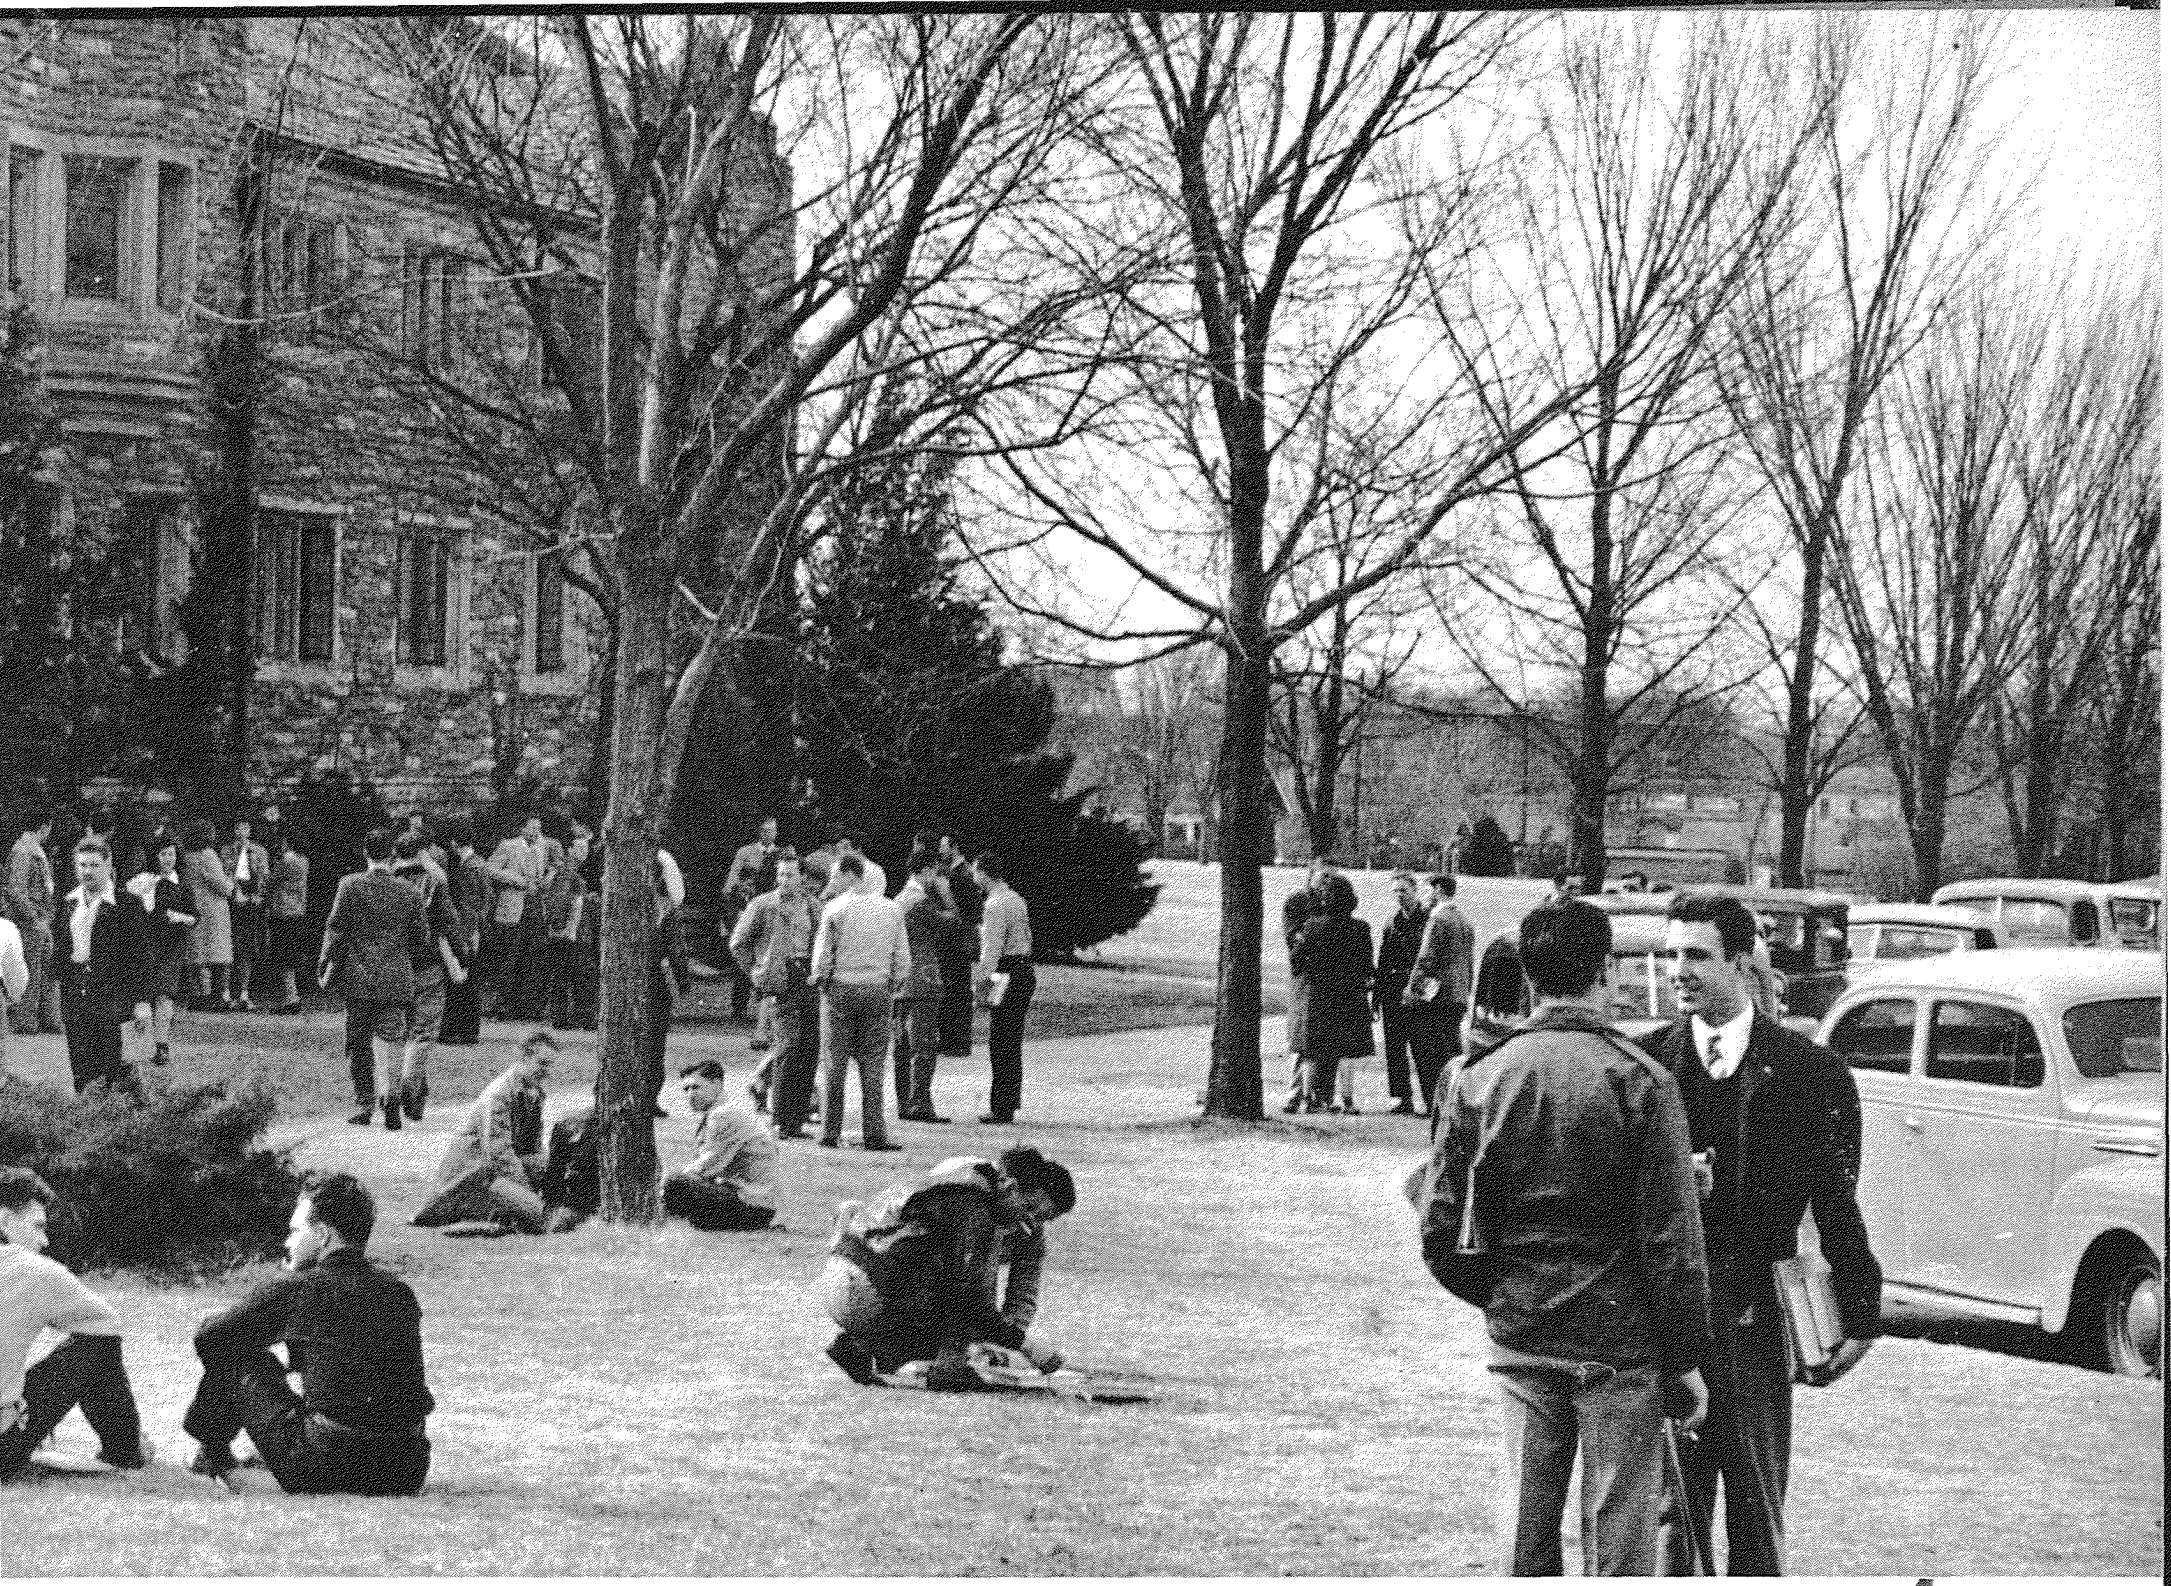

AND TO Johnny

WE DEDICATE THIS

We recognize the service you have rendered in an effort to free the world from the forces of aggression and to secure freedom for all mankind. Without your courageous belief in the principles of democracy and your undying faith in the ideals for which you fought, victory and the ensuing peace would have been impossible.

1946 KENDALLABRUM

We realize too, the sacrifices you have made, and are even more acutely aware of those of your fellow men who gave their all.

After your sojourn in the armed forces of the United States, we welcome you back to this greater University of Tulsa where you will assume your rightful place among the members of our student body.

We, the Kendallabrum staff of 1946, dedicate this annual to you, "The Johnnies Who Have Come Marching Home."

The PRESIDENT

Greetings and Salutations:

To the thousands of students on the campus and in the Downtown College and School of Law, I extend cordial greetings and all best wishes for success in all your endeavors. We are especially happy to have had approximately fifteen hundred returned veterans in our student body this year.

At the commencement exercises last spring the University of Tulsa celebrated its Golden Anniversary with appropriate ceremonies. We were honored to have as one of our guest speakers, Dr. W. R. King, who founded the Henry Kendall College at Muskogee, Indian Territory in 1894. This College, of which he was also the second president, continues now as the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Tulsa.

The University Trustees also commemorated this occasion by launching a five million dollar Golden Anniversary Expansion Program. To date, we have secured approximately fifty per cent of this objective—sufficient for seven of the eleven proposed new buildings, plus approximately a quarter of a million dollars for the endowment fund. The Communications or Radio building is completed and the Memorial Dormitory for men is under construction and will be ready for occupancy by September of this year. The other buildings for which we have funds will be constructed as soon as materials and labor are available. In the interval we have erected five temporary buildings to provide offices and classrooms for the increased faculty and student enrollment.

I desire at this time to pay tribute to the good friends of the University who have so generously supported our expansion program. If space were available I would be glad to list the names of all. This I must forego, but the important gifts of the John Mabee Hall for Men and the Lottie Jane Mabee Hall for Women, costing one half million dollars, and the Eugene Lorton Hall, housing the college of Business Administration, are examples of this generosity.

The decade between 1945 and 1955, being the sixth in the history of the University, will without question be its greatest from the standpoints of achievement, growth, prestige and stability. I congratulate you on being a vital part of this magnificent progress.

May the years ahead bring increasing dividends of progress, satisfaction, happiness, and peace of mind to each of you who have had so large a part in the growth of the University of Tulsa.

Cordially yours,

COMMUNITY COUNCIL

JEAN HARMON . . . . . President

Responsibilities for student governing is placed in the hands of the Community Council. Its ideal is, through planning and executing activities on the campus, to help students learn more about becoming good citizens in our democratic society. The keynote of the Council is individual development and social participation.

The Community Council was inaugurated in April, 1942, and its foundation stone was based upon the campus community. This concept gave both students and faculty representation, thus emphasizing a healthy relationship.

Membership is comprised of three faculty representatives, ten non-affiliates and off-campus Greeks, and one delegate from each one of the independent and Greek organizations. The president is elected in an all-school election including both faculty and students. Other officers are elected by the Council itself. This year, a Junior Council has been set up. Each pledge group sent a representative, who served an apprenticeship. In this manner, not only was the enthusiasm of a number of incoming students harnessed, but a training program resulted for producing future Council leaders.

In May, 1945, Nip Goodnight handed the gavel over to the new president, Jean Harmon. The president with the other Council officers, Neil Morgan, vice-president; Martha Hudlin, secretary; Dr. Harriet Barclay, treasurer; and the entire Council membership were officially inducted into office in October, 1945, in the Community Council Installation Assembly.

The Council coordinates all the activities on the campus, and by so doing, has developed a bureaucracy, so to speak. Committees comprise the machinery for carrying out all of the operations. There are three kinds of committees: standing, special, and temporary, all of which are extremely important. The standing committees, however, are the most integral part of the Council, since the chairmen are appointed from the Council members by the president.

Ann Herrick, head of Student Promotion Committee, kept spirit high during football season with victory dances after the football games, pep rallies, bonfires and parades.

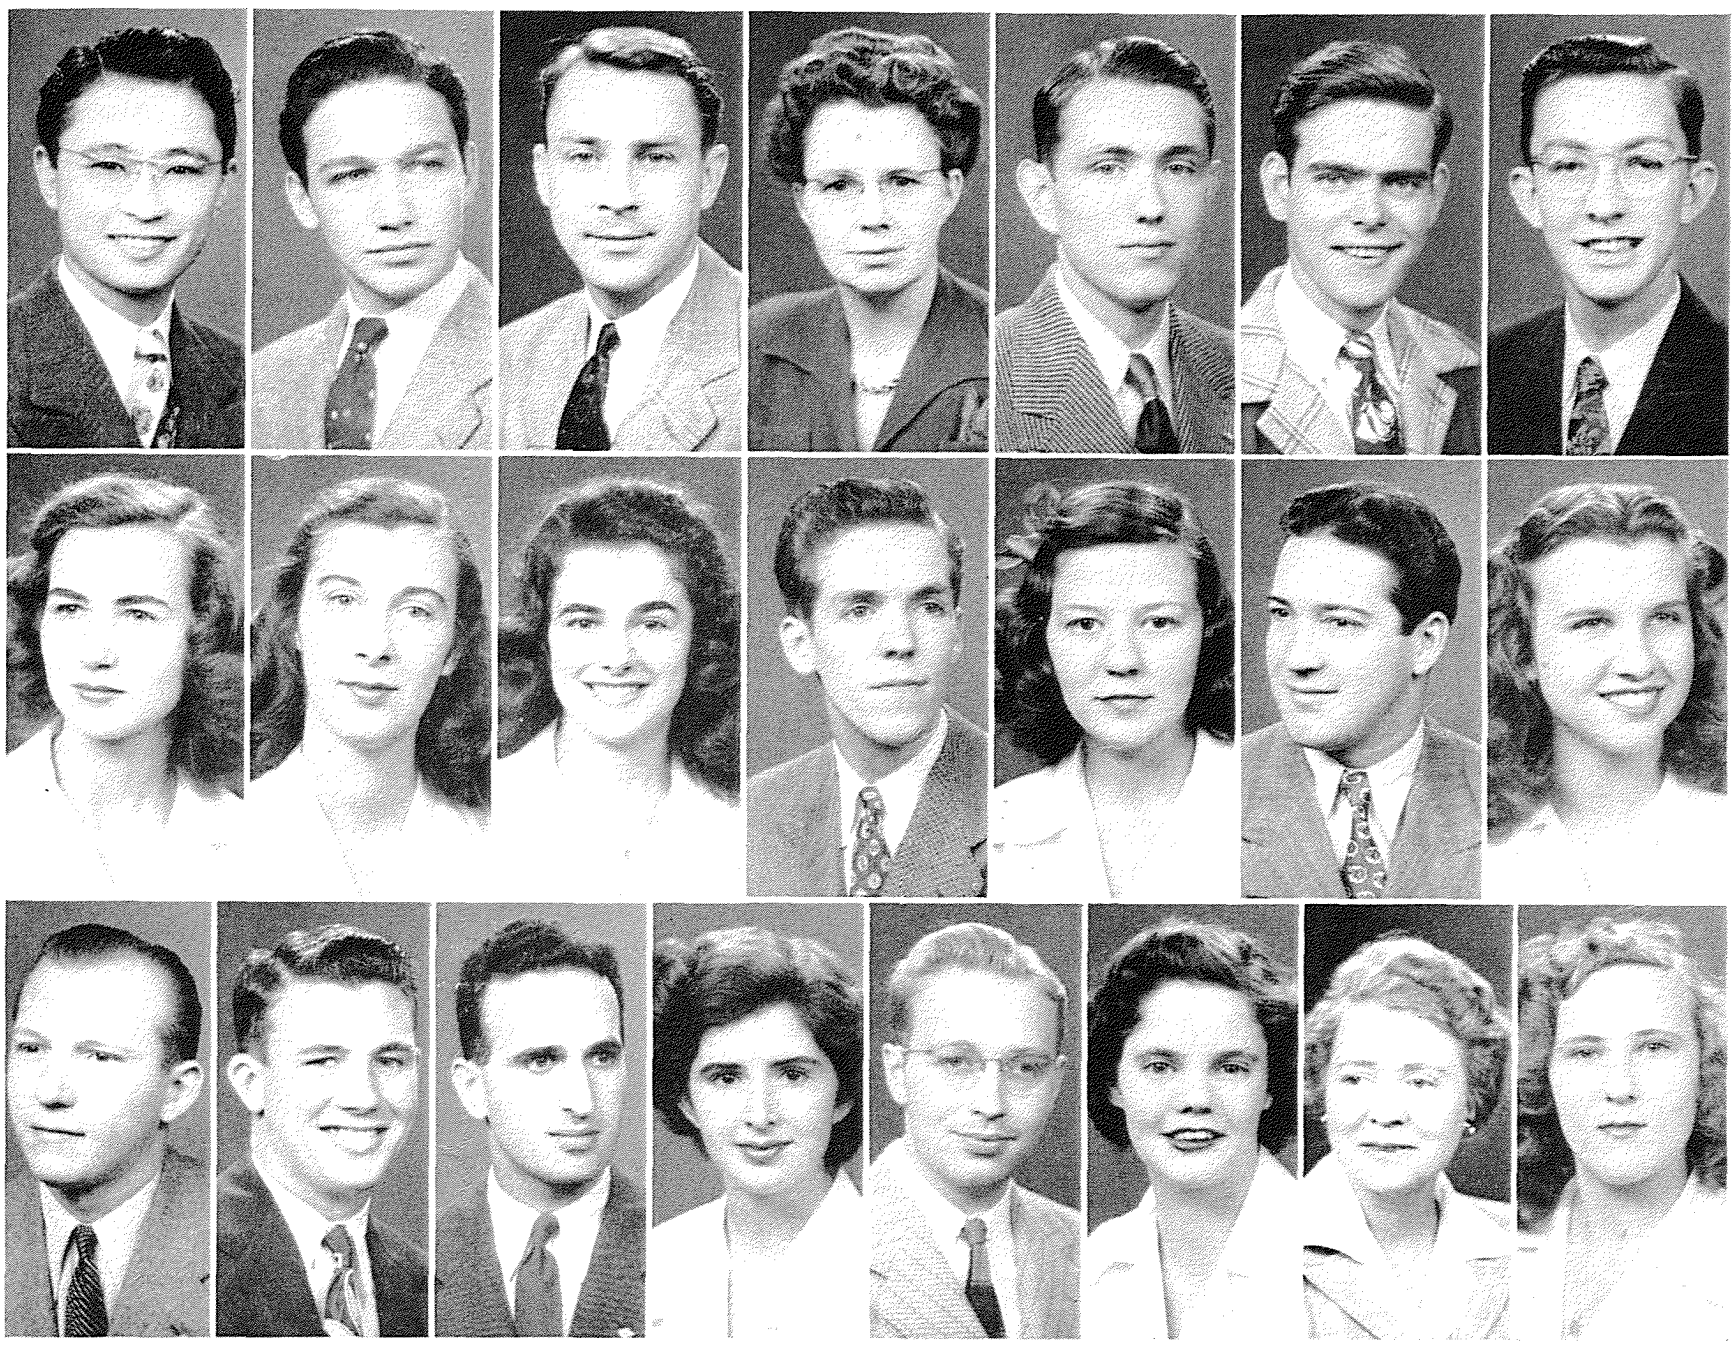

Betty Worstell and Neil Morgan found it didn't take much to get an enthusiastic backing for their intramural athletic program.

Class Activities Committee, under the direction of Glen Smith, rejuvenated class officers on the campus. A campaign assembly was planned and candidates presented.

MARTHA HUDLIN . . . . Secretary

The Assembly Committee had its usual round of difficulties. A period had been left open on the schedule especially for assemblies, but Kendall Hall Auditorium was not available. Despite this handicap, Peggy Comfort produced the traditional assemblies such as Convocation, Freshman Orientation, Honors and Christmas Music in the University Methodist Church.

Connie Cook kept the Student Activities Committee functioning efficiently, and Fred Davis guided the Board of Publications along its way.

"C.P. — For You — For T.U." was the mysterious motto plastered over the entire campus in the campus participation drive. The campaign was carried on to get people to participate more in campus activities and through participation, it was felt that a possessive pride would develop that automatically leads to school spirit. Committees were set up under C. P. Chairman, Jackie Newton, to handle alumni activities, campus guides, campus beautification, departmental assistants, art work, and coordination of musical activities.

The Council attempted throughout the year to advertise itself so that the students would be more conscious of their governing group. A radio program was given, important information about the Council set up in the Student Handbook, and weekly articles appeared in the Collegian.

The purpose of the Board of Publications is to designate the policies and to help solve the problems of the two campus publications, the Collegian and the Kendallabrum. Membership is comprised of the editorial and business staffs of the two publications, three faculty members, and a chairman and secretary appointed by the Community Council. The Board is the connecting link between the Council and the respective staffs, coordinating ideas from the student body with the Board activities.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The Social Committee expanded this year from a membership of three to twelve, to include one representative from each of the Greek organizations and four from the non-affiliate groups. During the year the Social Committee cooperated in planning the Student Mixer, and sponsored the all-school victory and homecoming dances. The purpose of the committee is to stimulate school spirit through all-school social functions. Dorothy Jacoby served as chairman first semester, and was succeeded in February by Vella Springer.

ASSEMBLIES

When to have them? Where to have them? What to have on them? These were but few of the problems facing the Assembly Committee this year But in spite of these difficulties, a varied schedule of programs was arranged under the direction of Peggy Comfort, chairman, Mr. Fenn, Mr. Snuggs, members from the S.P.C., T.U. "Y," Music committee, and student body. Next year, with the new Kendall Hall auditorium available, prospects for bigger and better assemblies are bright, and working behind the scenes, will be the Assembly Committee.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

The Student Activities Committee is in charge of the extra-curricular activities of the students of the University. Regulations set up by this committee concern recognition and good standing of student organizations; pledging and initiation requirements for fraternities, sororities, professional and honor organizations; procedures and policies for student functions; scholastic standing of student organizations; and student elections. Petitions for exception to these regulations are considered by the committee at bi-monthly meetings.

STUDENT PROMOTIONS

The Student Promotion Council was organized for the purpose of supporting any activity of an all-campus nature which would draw favorable attention to the University of Tulsa. The S. P. C. sponsors such all-school functions as parades and pep assemblies. The cheer leaders for the football and basketball games are chosen by the Council under the direction of Mr. Fenn. Most campus organizations are represented in the Council, however, its membership is flexible allowing anyone who is interested in furthering school spirit to attend.

CLASS ACTIVITIES

For the past four or five years, the prime purpose of the Class Activities Committee has been to take charge of the senior activities. The Committee believed that this limited too decidedly the scope of their function. Elections for class officers were held for the first time in years under the sponsorship of the Committee. There were more votes cast in these elections than in any others in the history of the Community Council. The Committee hopes that in the near future the University will have thorough organization of classes.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

The purpose of the Women's Intramural Committee is to sponsor, regulate, and encourage intramural competition in sports for women. It interests women in the intramural program, and serves as a year-round method of bringing together old and new students through athletic activities of many kinds. Any woman on the campus may take part in these activities providing she can secure a medical certificate. The aim of the program is to give all students a chance to participate and receive instruction in sports and to cultivate good sportsmanship.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

In purpose the Men's Intramural Board is similar to the Women's Intramural Committee. The activities of the Board last year were limited to a tournament in each of the three major sports: football, basketball, and softball. With the tremendous influx of men on the campus since the end of the war, the Board is working out plans to enlarge its program to include spring tennis and golf tournaments, and a swimming meet. The groups which participate are comprised of teams from the fraternities and independent men.

VETERANS'

JIM CRANKSHAW, President
EARL HITT, Vice-president

The Veterans Organization of the University of Tulsa, the largest organization on the campus, completed the signing of its charter March 20, 1945, with twenty-five veterans, under the guidance of Dr. Ross H. Beall, temporary veterans coordinator.

In anticipation of the surrender of the Germans and the Japanese, the Veterans Organization made preparations to receive the vast influx of veterans who were soon to be returning to college. Returnees found things seemed changed and adjustment was difficult, and they turned naturally to the Veterans Organization.

With only two coordinators in the enrollment office and a small staff in the Veterans Administration Guidance Center, the veteran's problems were not always solved. Here is where the Veterans Organization stepped in; it succeeded in arriving at satisfactory solutions to many problems of the group which would otherwise have gone unsolved.

By the fall of 1945 the number of veterans on the campus had increased to more than five hundred, the majority enrolled in the College of Petroleum Engineering. An inter-session, primarily for veterans, began in October, which two hundred more attended.

Officers for the first semester included Pat Poyner, president; Al Sledge, vice-president; Jim Underwood, secretary-treasurer, and Jim Crankshaw, chaplain.

The spring semester realized the registration of thirteen hundred veterans for campus classes, including twenty-three ex-WACs and WAVES. The Downtown College opened daytime classes, taking care of an additional two hundred and fifty veterans, and the Downtown Night School packed its classes with approximately six hundred ex-servicemen.

All branches of the United States armed forces are represented, in addition to Canada and several other foreign countries. Every state in the United States is well represented, but the majority of the veterans live in Tulsa or nearby communities. A large number of the veterans are married and some of their wives attend school with them.

The organization held another election at the beginning of the second semester, for president they chose Jim Crankshaw; vice-president, Earl Hitt; secretary, Dorothy Hays; treasurer, Bill Cunningham; and chaplain, William Carl. Veterans Coordinator for the University is Dr. George D. Small and he is assisted by John W. Gittinger.

Two of the main aims of the group are to obtain part-time work for its members and better housing conditions. Part-time employment under the chairmanship of Bill Hardesty and Gail Thomas was aided by the Tulsa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Through association with their fellow members in the Veterans Organization, the veterans of the University of Tulsa find their college life much more enjoyable.

PHI GAMMA KAPPA

Phi Gamma Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, has as its purpose "the fostering and promotion of good scholarship." Elections to membership each year are limited by a quota of ten percent of the graduating class, eligibility being determined by two years' residence work at the University of Tulsa with a grade point average of 3.25 being maintained in one hundred semester hours, or 3.5 being maintained in eighty-seven semester hours of work. Faculty members belonging to Sigma Xi or to Phi Beta Kappa, or who are otherwise outstanding in scholarship or citizenship, may also be elected to membership.

In the year 1945-1946 Phi Gamma Kappa joined with Pi Gamma Mu in presenting a series of three faculty lectures, given to the public in Tyrell Hall. Dr. Dennis Murphy of the English Department read his own poems, and Mrs. Murphy sang some which she had set to original music. Dr. Ralph J. Kaufmann of the Chemistry Department talked on "Atomic Research," and Mr. Friendly Ford of the Sociology Department spoke on "Social Conditions in Tulsa."

The organization is petitioning Phi Beta Kappa and is one of the forty priority groups expecting inspection after Phi Beta Kappa's fall meeting in 1946.

The officers this year were: Dr. Frank Gardner, president; Mrs. John Hammond, vice-president; Ada Arnold, secretary-treasurer; Mr. Ralph Veatch, sergeant-at-arms.

PI GAMMA MU

Pi Gamma Mu grew out of a meeting of students majoring in Economics at Southwestern College in April, 1924. Seventeen colleges established charter chapters in December of the year, and in 1929 the organization was incorporated as a non-profit corporation under the laws of the State of Colorado. It now publishes the magazine, Social Science.

Some of the ideals of Pi Gamma Mu are scholarship, social science, and social service. Its aims are to inculcate in undergraduates the scientific attitude toward social questions, to keep this interest alive in its graduates, and to interest the general public in the scientific study of social questions and the progressive solution of social problems.

Each spring an honorary member is elected who is an outstanding citizen of Tulsa and has contributed to the community along the lines of social science. Among the honorary members are Dr. C. I. Pontius, Dr. James H. Gardner, Rev. C. W. Kerr, and Mrs. Walter Ferguson. Each year at the annual banquet the Pi Gamma Mu Scholarship Medal is awarded to the outstanding senior in Social Science.

Officers for the year 1945-1946 include Dr. Carol Y. Mason, president; Cora Price, recording secretary; Dr. Harriet G. Barclay, corresponding secretary; and Dr. Nels M. Bailkey, treasurer.

Sigma Gamma chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity for women, was installed at the University of Tulsa on April 23, 1924. Having as its purpose the recognition of outstanding musicianship and the encouragement of worth-while musical activities, Sigma Alpha Iota makes a very great contribution to musical life on the campus and in the city.

In September an open house was held for all the new Fine Arts students in order to get acquainted with the many new musicians. In November Blanche Thebom, a national honorary member, appeared in a Tulsa concert and afterwards was honored by S. A. I. actives and alumnae at a reception at the home of Annelle Chandler.

An important part of the Christmas musical events in Tulsa each year is the S. A. I. Vesper Service held in the Trinity Episcopal Church. As its biggest project of the year, S. A. I. sponsored the presentation of Mary Van Kirk, the Metropolitan Opera Company contralto, in a concert in April at Convention Hall. Proceeds from the concert are to go into a building fund which Sigma Gamma is raising to erect a lodge on the T. U. Campus. Following her concert Miss Van Kirk was honored at a reception and initiated into Sigma Gamma chapter as an honorary member. One of the highlights of the year was the Province Parley held in Oklahoma City February 9 and 10 which twelve chapter members attended.

MU TAU PHI

Mu Tau Phi was organized in 1944 for the purpose of stimulating further interest in the field of medical technology. Our charter members were: Penny Bridge, Beth Brown, Cherrie Dons, Anna Gibbons, Lucy Graham, Darleen Moore, Marjorie Ousterhout, Betty Paul, and Rena Wolfe. We chose Dean Chase as our sponsor.

Students eligible for membership must be of at least sophomore standing, having completed two semesters of zoology, with an all-round grade average of C, and must have as an ultimate goal a degree in the field of medical technology.

We began the year by initiating seven new members: Dorothy Nicholson, Ruth Neely, Marilyn Braun, Mary Walker, Jessie Denton, Jean Bell and Jackie Fervoy. In November we were hosts to the Medical Technologists of Oklahoma, at which time the noted Dr. Mezenni of the University of Indiana was guest speaker. One of the achievements of which we are especially proud is the establishment of a library. We purchase books pertaining to subjects of current interest to the zoological students. One of the highlights of each month is the meeting with the downtown technicians, who have been very helpful and encouraging. On the less serious side were the Christmas and Valentine parties, and the making of the home-coming float.

Mu Tau Phi is a new organization on the campus, but with the whole-hearted effort that comes from a bond of mutual interest, we know it will live to a ripe old age.

SIGMA ALPHA SIGMA

In October, 1936, eight former students of the University of Tulsa organized a club of graduates employed in the business world as secretaries or stenographers. Members met once a month for a constructive program; purpose of the club being to develop educationally, vocationally and recreationally.

On May 11, 1940, the Secretaries Club was installed and initiated as the Beta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Sigma, national honorary secretarial science fraternity. The Alpha Chapter on the A. & M. Campus officiated at the ceremony. Our chapter has grown to an active membership of thirty-six girls since our installation.

To be eligible for membership in Sigma Alpha Sigma, a student shall have completed fifteen units or the equivalent in secretarial subjects; shall have a grade point average in all subjects of 2.5 or higher, and in secretarial subjects an average of 3.0; shall possess an agreeable personality and an active interest in secretarial work; and shall have attained Junior standing before admittance.

The purpose of Sigma Alpha Sigma is to stimulate professional interest in secretarial work and to recognize those who attain excellence in this field; the ultimate goal being to foster a closer relationship between the secretary and the professional world. Sigma Alpha Sigma has become a goal toward which all secretarial students aspire.

ALPHA RHO TAU

In 1930, a group of outstanding art students at the University of Tulsa became interested in founding an art fraternity for men and women. They chose a group of Greek letters for their name which when combined would spell the word ART.

Alpha Rho Tau has as its purpose the promoting of interest in, and the development and appreciation of art on the campus and in the city of Tulsa.

A permanent art collection at the University of Tulsa has been made possible largely through the efforts of Alpha Rho Tau. This collection includes studies in oil and watercolor, prints, wood carvings, bronzes and casts.

To open this school year a party was given in honor of all the art majors in the home of Mrs. Fred Stackman, the alumni advisor. The annual Christmas party held with the alumni was an enormous success, with founder and former sponsor, Dr. Adah Robinson as the honor guest. The fourth Friday of every month the ART's got together for a dessert meeting at which time one member would talk on some field of art in which she was particularly interested. At one of these meetings Bubbles Bushner discussed her stage costume designing experiences, and at another, Mrs. Barclay talked on color. An annual Alpha Rho Tau art exhibit is held every spring at Philbrook Art Center. The Alpha Rho Tau Alumni now number more than seventy. At their monthly meetings constructive criticism is given by the members of each other's work.

Psi Chi, national honorary society in psychology, was installed on this campus in January, 1946. The Psychology Club had been active on the campus for a number of years, and application for national membership was made in May, 1945.

Active members of Psi Chi must have completed or be registered for a minimum of twelve hours of psychology, be in the upper one-third in academic standing in psychology, and in the upper one-half in all other subjects. Associates are required to meet all these requirements except the number of necessary hours in psychology.

The aims and purposes of this organization are to advance the interests of the science of psychology and to encourage, stimulate, and maintain scholarship of the individual members in all academic fields, particularly in psychology.

The activities have included the presentation of motion pictures dealing with advances in the sciences of psychology and psychiatry, and the presentation of speakers interested in the practice and science of psychology.

The sponsor of Psi Chi is Dean L. S. McLeod. Officers for the year are: W. H. Cadman, president; Vera Margaret Hurt, vice-president; Lysbeth Sweet, secretary; and Jim Donahoe, treasurer.

Dr. R. H. Waters of the Department of Psychology of the University of Arkansas was the representative of the National Council at the installation ceremonies.

LANTERN

Thirty sophomore girls were honored with membership in Lantern this year, the largest group in the history of the organization. This sophomore women's honorary society was founded in 1937 at the University of Tulsa to recognize and encourage high scholastic achievements of freshmen women, and to further the development of character, leadership, and service among underclassmen.

In order to be eligible for membership in Lantern, a girl must have reached the standing of a sophomore, and she must have maintained at least a three point, or "B" average during her entire freshman year in school.

The new members were guests at a luncheon in the fall, sponsored by Senior Staff members and their sponsor, Miss Mary Clay Williams. The girls functioned chiefly during the second semester, and their activities included such duties as acting as campus guides and hostesses during the spring scholarship examinations for high school seniors; having charge of registrations and assisting with campus hospitality during the Student Leadership Convention which was held the last week of April; and assisting Senior Staff with its activities in the course of the year's events.

Officers of the group are selected on the basis of the highest grade averages. Mildred Skyberg's average brought her the honor of being president this year; Bubbles Bushner served as vice-president; and Laurene Castillo as secretary.

Pi Delta Epsilon, the oldest and largest national journalistic fraternity, was founded in 1909 at Syracuse University. The local chapter was chartered on the campus in 1941. To be eligible for membership the student must be of undergraduate standing and at least a sophomore, have worked one or more years on the Kendallabrum or Collegian, and have a grade average of 2.0 or better.

The purpose of Pi Delta Epsilon is "to elevate the cause of journalism; to foster the mutual welfare of student publications; to develop the truest fraternal spirit among its members; to encourage loyalty to their Alma Mater; and to reward the journalist for his efforts, service and accomplishments by admission to its membership."

The chapter, which was practically inactive during the war, is renewing its activities by sponsoring a journalism contest for the Tulsa high schools, in which awards will be given for the best feature, news and sports stories. The program for this year includes evening meetings with talks by outstanding journalists, round table discussions pertaining to the furthering of journalism, and the annual banquet which is held every spring for the members and alumni. Pi Delta Epsilon's national office publishes a magazine, the Epsilog, containing reports on the activities of the various chapters.

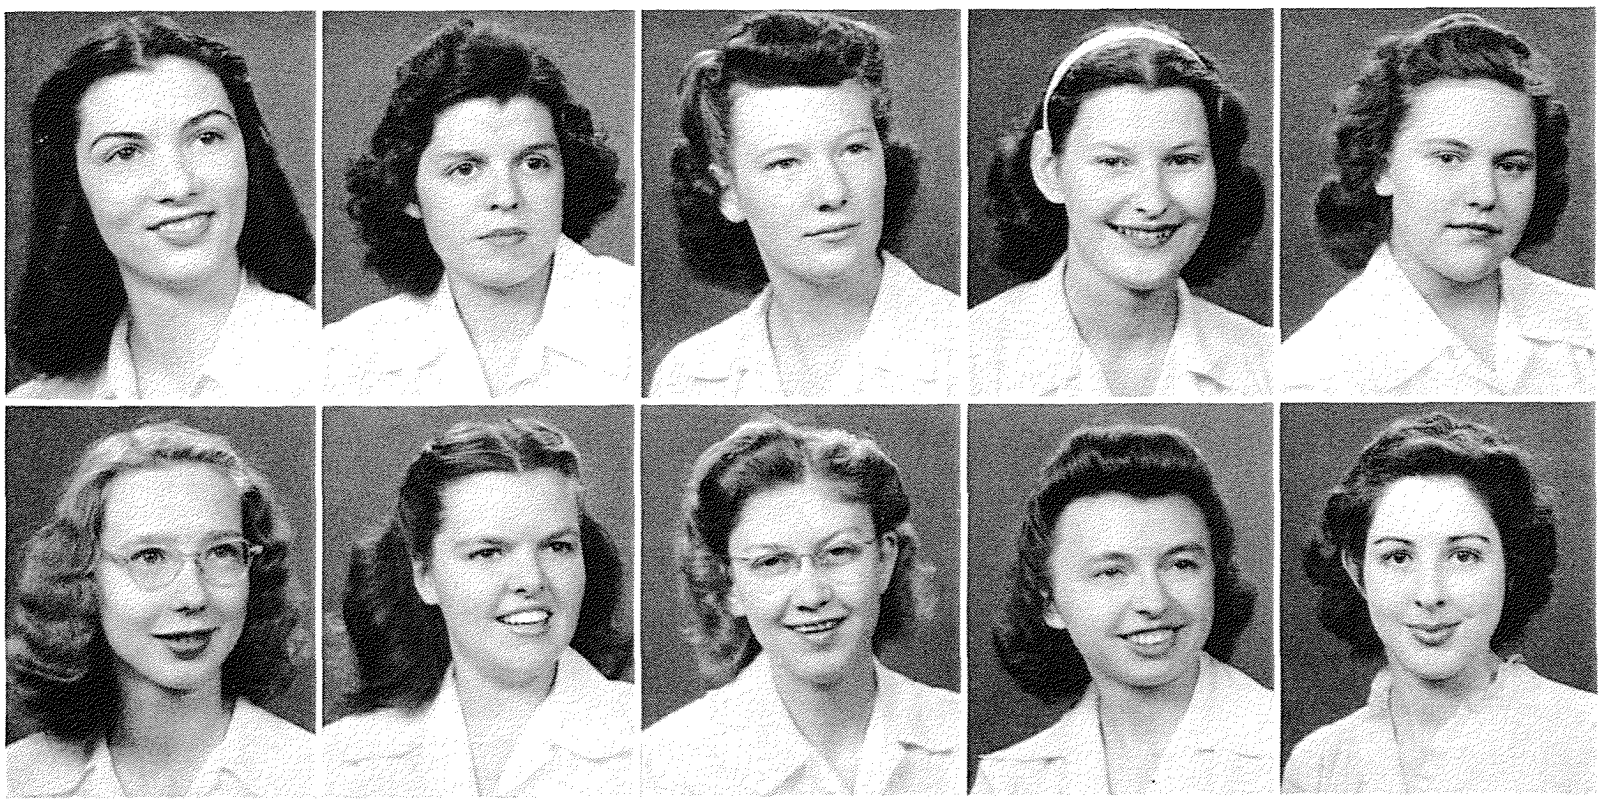

LO LO MI

Lo Lo Mi is the small, but plucky group of girls who meet on the first and third Friday of each month. At these meetings the girls get together to transact business and to make plans for the various social functions and events of the year. These girls stand ready to prove their name of Lo Lo Mi, which is an Indian word meaning "Friendship."

They began the season's social life with a gay rush party which displayed costumes of crepe paper. During the parade season the members won third prize with their miniature football field float with golden hurricanes and chubby teddy bears. At Christmastime there were caroling, games, refreshments, and exchanging of gifts. Unique costumes were boasted at the "come-as-you-are" party, sprung by the social chairman. The year closed with a beautiful mothers' tea.

The success of Lo Lo Mi for the year was made possible by the hard work of its officers, who were: Mary Razak, president; Elizabeth Saunders, vice-president; Virginia Hatherly, secretary; Esther McPike, treasurer; Jean Conkwright, Community Council representative; and Bonnie Cooper, social chairman. Dr. Ellen Goebel, who has been with Lo Lo Mi since 1938, is still acting as its sponsor.

The Lo Lo Mi's welcome all non-sorority girls, who wish to get together each month for a few hours of fun.

The Commerce Club was founded on the University of Tulsa campus in 1929. It is an honorary fraternity for business students. Its purpose is to promote good will among business students on the campus and Tulsa business men, and to acquaint the students with the opportunities and possibilities of a commercial career.

Mrs. Hummel, our new business instructor, who was chosen as our sponsor, proved to be a most efficient guide. Jim Griffin wielded the gavel, assisted by Bob Dean. Coriene Taylor took minutes of our meetings, and Jack Mitchell was Social Chairman. Mary Jo Fette handled the finances, that is when there were any finances to be handled. Usually the treasury was almost empty.

We started off the year with a bang. At our first dinner meeting Mr. John Rogers gave a most interesting and inspiring talk on "The United States' Economic Policies in the Post War World." Our dinner meetings in the Student Union proved to be huge successes; we always had good food and excellent speakers. Our new guidance program included discussions on marketing, personnel management, and accounting. Some of the things we can't forget are Dean Hargrove's kind and helping hand, the super barn dance that we sponsored—hay and blue jeans and plaid shirts galore, and Bill Hardesty's untiring efforts in planning the programs. Everything points toward a bigger and more active Commerce Club next year.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

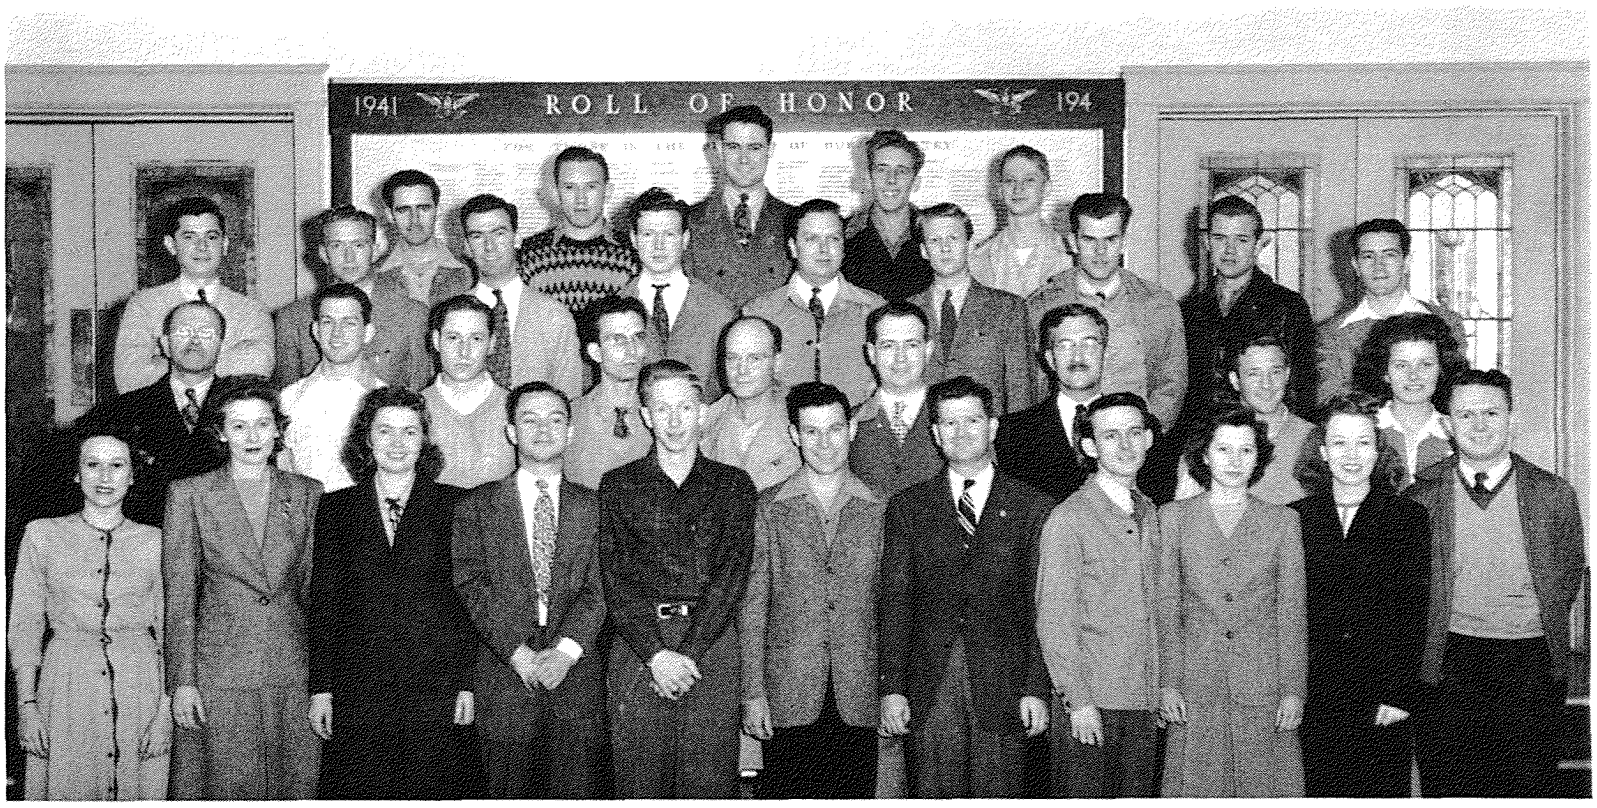

The Pre-Medical Club is an organization of students planning to enter the study of medicine and at the present time is affiliating pre-dental students on the campus.

The club was reactivated in the early spring as a continuation of a former organization known as Omega Beta Kappa, which received recognitional status in 1935.

Its purpose is to bring the pre-medical students into more intimate contact with the select physicians who will offer lectures, present visual developments and improvements by showing films, and in general, try to enlighten the prospective doctors with the intricacies in the field of medicine.

Members of the newly revived organization hope to become a branch of Alpha Epsilon Delta, comparable national organization. With affiliation with the national group the ultimate objective, local pre-medical students expect their club to grow with the increased enrollment and plan extensive activities to benefit each student in following his profession with accurate and complete knowledge of all discoveries of any importance in the field.

The present officers who are managing the revival with the assistance of Dean H. D. Chase, head of the Zoology Department, are Jim Donahoe, president; Mack Doyle, vice-president; Gracie Clark, secretary; C. R. Cearley, treasurer; Billye Grammer, corresponding secretary.

The aim of this organization is the three-fold purpose of any "Y" organization — mental, physical, and spiritual development. This purpose manifests itself in the educational, social, and spiritual program of the T. U. "Y."

Our social activities differ from those of most campus organizations. We are famous for our monthly picnics and taffy-pulls where Art Buhl and Earl Hogard get all wound up, and for our week-end trips to Parthenia. This year we sponsored the Co-ed Prom, with Doris Meier and Mary Rayson cooperating on "Conglomer-Nations." The Sportsnick was an indication that the T. U. "Y" was still actively advocating fellowship.

The fall term started out with a new spirit expressed in Mary Jean Neff's inspiring program. She engaged such outstanding speakers as Mrs. Lee Semones, Rabbi Falk, Edgar Albin, and De Hinckley. This year Margaret Bollinger edited the indispensable Student Handbook, which proved to be the most accurate in years.

When Betty Swindell, Art Buhl, and Dick Yeager were graduated, several offices were left vacant. But soon the able hands of Margaret Bollinger took over as president. John Gobel was elected vice-president; Martha Hudlin, secretary; and Earl Hogard, treasurer. R. Grady Snuggs is faculty advisor.

WORKSHOP

The Workshop is the group which has worked to make "This Is a Workshop Production" a signature of excellence in production, direction, and performance. Three weekly radio programs: "Going to College," a high school quiz program to determine the Grand Knowledge Champion of Oklahoma; "The Scriptures Speak," a Bible program; and "Day Is Done," a musical program from the Fine Arts College, have been produced by the Workshop for KVOO. "What Man Hath Wrought," a fifteen-minute radio drama, was added to the schedule during the second semester. In addition to these weekly programs, numerous special programs for the Christmas season and various civic groups have been given by the Workshop.

The forensics group resumed activities this year at two major forensic tournaments in Ada and Durant, a minor tournament at Winfield, and a Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic society, tournament at Baylor. "Snafu," a drawing-room production in the browsing room of the Library was presented during October and November. An elaborately-costumed production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was presented in April for the dedication of our new radio and theater wing.

The addition of this wing to Kendall Hall has given us two studios and an engineers' booth for an FM radio station, an enlarged stage, dressing rooms and a costume room. The season was closed with a play about Jesse James, "The Missouri Legend."

SENIOR STAFF

Senior Staff, honorary scholastic organization for senior women, is made up of no more than ten and no less than five women. The members are chosen annually on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership, and service in campus activities. The president of the organization is always the girl having the highest grade average for her first three years in the University. Mary K. Winn received the honor this year. New members are made known each spring when the old members, dressed in the traditional caps and gowns, interrupt classes to "tap" the new ones.

Senior Staff is active in encouraging scholarship and leadership on the campus. By sponsoring Lantern, sophomore women's honor society, Senior Staff promotes high scholastic attainment among underclassmen. The new Lantern members are honored by a luncheon given by Senior Staff in the fall. Every spring this organization sponsors a Leadership Guidance Conference for the purpose of training potential leaders of the various campus organizations. Freshmen women are welcomed to the campus each fall by Senior Staff at an open house before the Student Mixer. Members also serve as ushers and hostesses at various campus functions.

The standards, aims, and organization of Senior Staff are patterned after Mortar Board. Although Mortar Board has not accepted any new chapters since the beginning of the war, Senior Staff hopes that its petition will be accepted in the near future.

JUNIOR PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Full of vivacious enthusiasm, Tulsa University's first semester pledges of the five campus sororities organized a Junior Panhellenic Council with functions similar to those of the Senior Panhellenic Council.

The pledges organized for the purpose of discussing any problems that might arise, and to promote closer cooperation and friendship among the girls. Junior Panhellenic is made up of one representative, and the president of each pledge class. The offices in the organization rotate among the sororities and are limited to the representatives.

The girls are very proud of their achievements for the year. Their first function was the novel Waist Dance, which was held February 8, in Harwell Gym. Admission to the dance was determined by the number of inches around the student's waist. The receipts from the dance, which was under the direction of Betty Cunningham, were used for the spring dance and the Children's Home. Marjorie Marks was in charge of the rummage sale which was held in February for the purpose of raising funds.

This year's officers include Joanne Wallace, president; Marjorie Marks, vice-president; Bette Brown, secretary; and Jo Ann Johnson, treasurer. Pledge presidents are Mary McClendon, Alpha Pi Theta; Betty Cunningham, Chi Omega; Margaret Brown, Delta Delta Delta; Pat Haas, Kappa Delta; and Pat Carmack, Phi Mu.

BAND

Members of the band—Flutes: Hatherly, Brite, Haggard, Rodgers. Oboes: Ellis. Clarinets: Morrison, McCullough, Lively, Dunham, Crump, Everett, Pearson, Messerli, Black, Holeman, Dick, Latty, Alto Clarinet: Chestnut. Bass Clarinet: Peterson. Bassoons: Price, Campbell. Alto Saxophones: Cox, Cunningham, Avery, Lane. Tenor Saxophone: Downing, Warren. Baritone Saxophone: Finley. Bass Saxophone: Caldwell. Cornets and Trumpets: Dunn, Foote, Gimlin, Little, McGuire, Haney, Eubank, Peet, Kohlhorst, Haggard, Hayes. French Horns: Morgan, Curtis, Britton, Foster, Worstell, Cowherd. Trombones: Brite, Hendricks, Griffin, Mickles. Baritones: Wright, Bates, McCormick, Smith. Basses: Greider, Bossard, Hanse, Thomas, Layton. Percussions: Buhl, Horn, Hall, Dorroh, Featherstone, Waters, Smith. Drum Major: Jo-Katherine Ogden. Majorettes: Hardacre, Scudder, Jones. Director: Roger Fenn.

With the war over and draft laws still in effect, things were in an uproar as people came and went; but the T. U. Band in spite of all handicaps marked off another successful year under the able leadership of Mr. Roger Fenn, director, and drum majorette, Jo-Katherine Ogden.

Returning veterans, mixed up schedules, and a heavy load of activities caused the Band to practice when there just wasn't anything else to do. The Band got off to a flying start by electing Helen Anthony, a Phi Mu pledge, as Band queen. Then the football games and parades, pep rallies and Downtown Quarterback Club meetings came by so fast that when the players picked up their instruments and started to play, they weren't exactly sure for whom or what they were playing.

Credit is due George Brite, Glen Smith, and Art Buhl for successfully arranging the trips to Stillwater for the A. & M. game and to Houston for the Oil Bowl. So well remembered are Dick Brite and Glen Smith, the Kappa Kappa Psi boys; George Brite and his boys with that good old excuse of "I've got a dance to play"; the Band's frantic recordings for T. U.'s radio program, "When Day Is Done"; the eight happy Band boys who flew to Houston; the foursome of Cox, Morrison, Hendricks, and Eubanks who came to practice half an hour late and half asleep; and the mad jam sessions in practice room 19½.

ORCHESTRA

The University of Tulsa Symphony Orchestra started off the year with a bang by electing a capable set of officers. Art Buhl served as president, assisted by Wanda Ellis as vice-president. Maxine Foote took over the duties of secretary, and Jean Lively handled the finances.

The first performance of the season consisted of a radio program on which the Orchestra played selections including The Bat, by Strauss, and Harvest Hymn, by Granger.

The Orchestra combined forces twice this year with Mary Margaret Poole, and both times gave brilliant performances. The first one was at the annual concert given with the Women's Modern Choir for the United Daughters of the Confederacy at Philbrook. The Beethoven Concerto No. 1 in C Major for Piano and Orchestra was acclaimed a huge success with Mr. Fishbeck stealing the show with his bass fiddle.

Mr. Fenn was still having some trouble with the draft this year, although there were enough boys returning from the military service to compensate for the losses. He encountered the most difficulty however with those who were present. At times the French horn section blew so hard that they sent all the music sailing out the windows.

The Orchestra contributed the music for the workship production of Midsummer Night's Dream. At the all-university concert in May the Orchestra did a splendid job on the Brahms Concerto in B Major for Piano and Orchestra, featuring T. J. Nichols.

First Violins: Conn, Foster, Lyke, McConnell, Hunter, Hoagland, Harrison, Hirsch, Scott, Fraser, Harris, McNally. Second Violins: Rombaugh, Johnson, Skyberg, Jack, Boyd, Greider, Cooper, Greives, Fasken, Gore, Alberty, Gilmer, Ware. Violas: Kramer, Bushner, Langley, Sherwood, Price, Moore. Cellos: Hayes, Pfeifer, Weisner, Bollinger, West. String Basses: Carter, Fishbeck. Flutes: Roberts, Hatherly, Brite, Haggard. Oboes: Ellis, Pearson. Clarinets: Morrison, McCullough, Lively. Bassoons: Tipton, Price. French Horns: Terry, Curtis, Morgan, Price, Britton, Hayes. Trumpets: Foote, Dunn, Gimlin, Eubank. Trombones: Brite, Hendricks, Griffin. Tuba: Greider. Percussions: Buhl, Horn, Hall, Robertson, Featherstone, Bannister.

CHOIR

Members of the Choir: Ashoff, Belden, Binford, Bonem, Brite, Brown, Buthod, Carter, Clark, Cox, Cunningham, Donovan, Floyd, Fogle, Foote, Francis, Gaddis, Glaser, Greene, Grider, Grimes, Hale, Heuston, Hill, Hulsizer, Jack, Jernigan, J. Jones, R. Jones, Kelly, Klein, Lisle, Marks, Martin, Mathey, McPike, Meier, Melton, Meyer, Mikles, Miller, Mills, Moore, Morris, Newman, Nuhfer, Pace, Pearson, Poole, M. Price, T. Price, Ray, Reynolds, Roberts, C. Smith, G. Smith, J. Smith, Wallace, Waters, Weaver, Webb, Williams, Williamson, Willsey, Dean Albert Lukken director.

The Women's Modern Choir suddenly became the Modern Mixed Choir this year when Veterans began crowding the campus. Did the girls mind? I guess not! Not when there was a man like George Weaver to swoon over — "he sings and can stand alone!" Besides that there's Coleman Smith who just bubbles over with energy especially when we sing "Stodola Pumpa."

A big surprise came at the beginning of the year when we were given a Sunday evening program on KVOO called "When Day Is Done." None of us will ever forget the first broadcast when we held our breath for five minutes before we went on the air; and the many times after that when we started our part on the "get ready signal"; and of course the evening that Rubinoff played as our guest artist.

The year has been dotted with many unforgettable events — the concerts at Philbrook and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Nobel Cain's spending a day with us, Mr. Hestwood's joining the staff, teaching the University of Tulsa songs to the Downtown Quarterback Club. We always remember too those little unmentionable incidents such as the time when you actually couldn't hear the sopranos; Jackie Newton's adding another part; and as always, the Dean's corny jokes.

It's been loads of work but along with it has been plenty of fun, so we're looking forward to a bigger and better group next year.

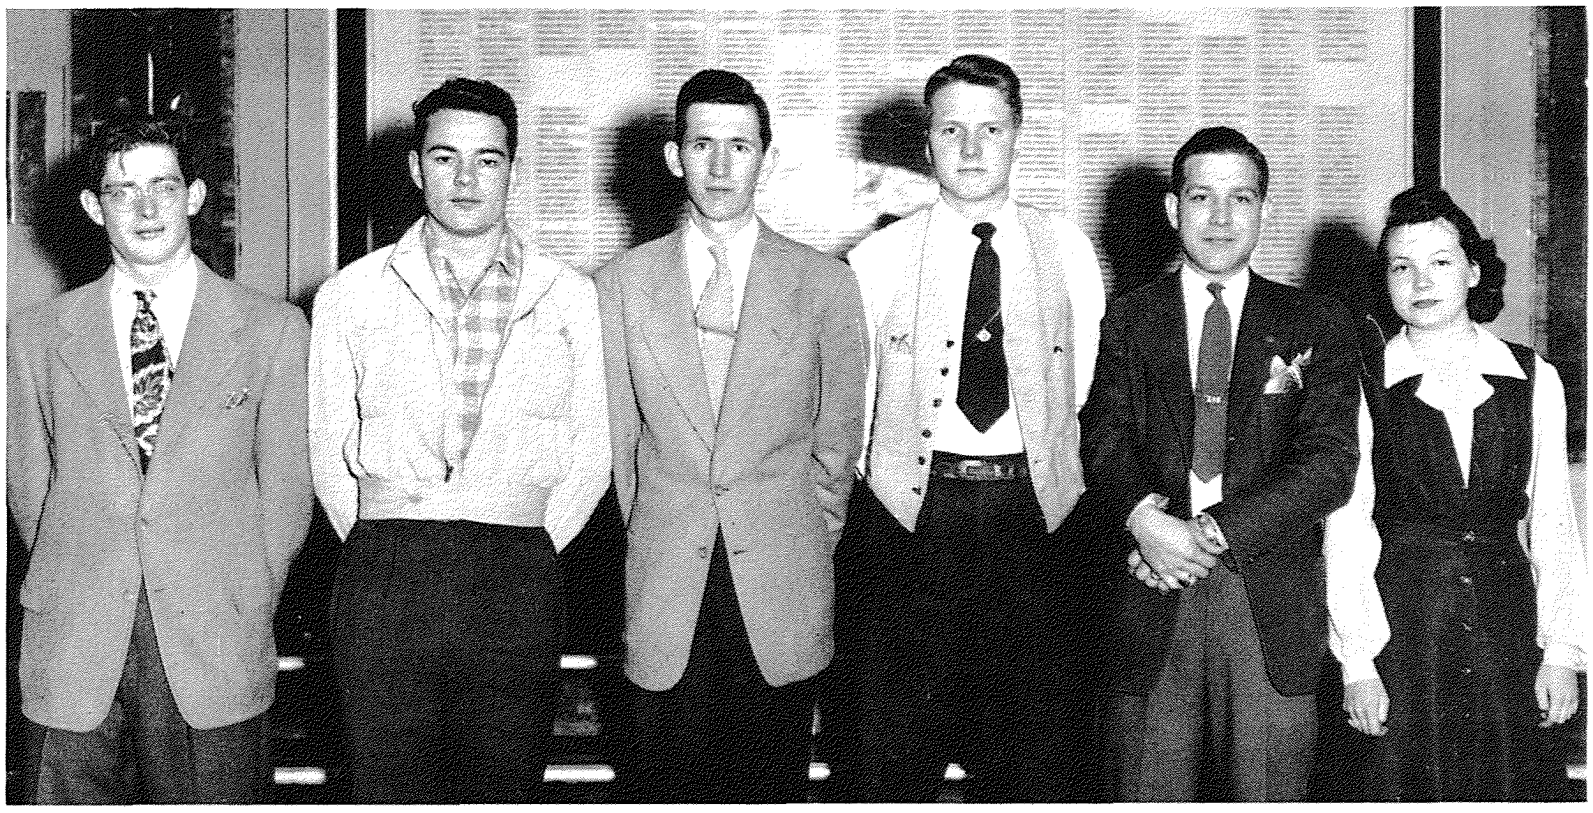

ENGINEERS' CLUB

The Engineers' Club is open to all engineering students with an eye for increased knowledge of the various fields of engineering. Bi-monthly meetings feature faculty members or prominent engineers of the vicinity who discuss current problems, or moving pictures explaining the whys and wherefores of equipment and methods.

When the time came for the Homecoming Parade, the artistically inclined few dabbed a bit of paint, wound a bit of crepe paper, did a bit of fast talking, and emerged with a unit rig, dressed up with an oil derrick and large signs displaying the traditional shamrock. The signs were in evidence again at the "Glad It's Over" dance celebrating the end of finals week.

The immediate problem second semester was Engineers' Week, March 11th to 16th. At this time the Engineers painted the campus, guarded their queen and their flag, and put out that week's issue of the Collegian which was printed on green paper. Queen Pat turned out to be an engineer, Mary Lou Boydston; and King Pat, the engineer with the highest scholastic ranking, was Bill Bearden.

Election of officers is held at the beginning of each semester; Jack Thornton served as president during the first semester, and O. L. Deardorff during the second. Dr. F. T. Gardner is the faculty sponsor. The all-out membership drive this year gave the organization the largest membership in its history.

The Kendallabrum is the official yearbook of the University of Tulsa. It takes its name from the Henry Kendall College which in 1920 became a part of the University. The annual is under the jurisdiction of the Board of Publications whose members choose the students who will edit and manage it.

Work on the book is begun before school starts in the fall and continues until its distribution in May. Most of the hours of toil are spent in a small 2' x 4' in the basement of Robertson Hall, which is proudly referred to as "The Office."

The most exciting phase of publishing the book, aside from just the general speculation as to whether it will ever come out or not, is the beauty contest. This is conducted on a purely impersonal basis, the pictures being identified by number only. It's not that Tommy Dorsey would know any of our beauties, but he informed us that he should certainly like to get acquainted.

The advertising staff broke all records this year by selling more ads than any staff ever has in the past. For once there won't have to be any last minute figuring to make ends meet. And just in case you don't want to buy anything, be sure to read the advertising section anyway for those clever little poems by Jeane Smith and Jim Crankshaw's caricatures.

The cartoons of Johnny found on the division pages are the contribution of George Green, and Fred Davis and Gene Morris edited the sports section.

We apologize for the mistakes that appear in this book and hope that it will please you in spite of its shortcomings.

When it was started over ten years ago, its founders never thought it would come to this. All loyal T.U.'ers wait around school every Friday for its noon appearance. About twenty people work, week in, and week out, so that the students will have something to read besides textbooks. The object of all this commotion, obviously, is the University of Tulsa Collegian.

The story of the Collegian week runs something like this. Every Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock about fifteen eager news-hawks descend on the Robertson Hall office to receive their assignments. By 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when all news is supposed to be in, there are about five eager ones left, and by Thursday night at 11 o'clock all of the previous two days' eagerness has vanished. But, the Tulsa Collegian is rolling off the presses once again.

Meanwhile, on the south side of the Collegian office, the business division operates under the direction of Pat Bollman, and with the able assistance of Ann Sanders. They sell the ads, keep the books, and pacify disgruntled customers.

Then the big news comes, 2000 students open their papers Friday noon and read—Petty. After that, a wailing of voices and gnashing of teeth is heard throughout campus and corridor. And, if anybody is wondering what happened at the Collegian office on Monday, the staff is answering the libel charges flung at them by the students whose names appeared in that awful scandal sheet.

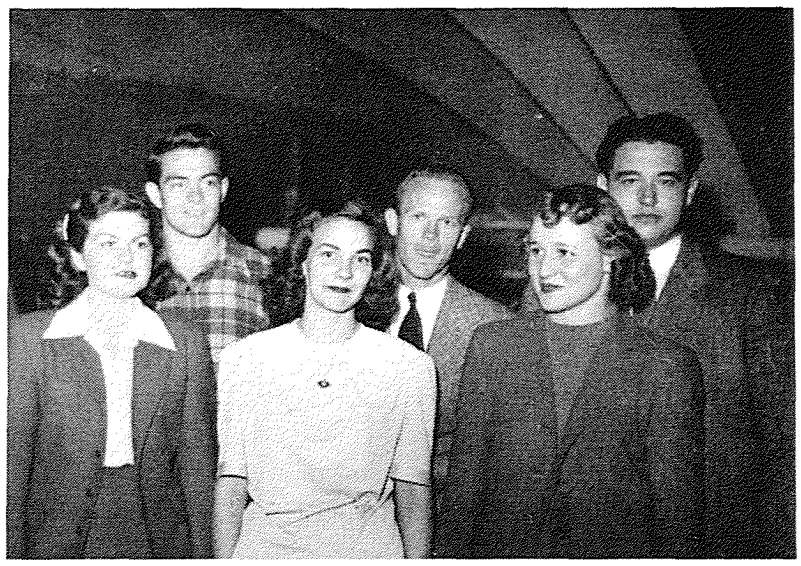

Editor's nominations for the cleverest Collegian quips of the year went to: De Hinckley for his new sorority name, Phi Phi Onyou, Helen Buthod for her reference to the Oil Bowl trip as Oil, or Nothing at Oil, and R. Coleman for his classic, "But how do they get all those musicians in the tower." Fanciest sports reporting of the year was done by Charles LaTurner in his column, Water Boy. And the choicest feature stories were written by Rolleen Taylor on the evils of the Union, and by Betty Boyd on how in the spring a husband's fancy turns to thoughts of stag parties.

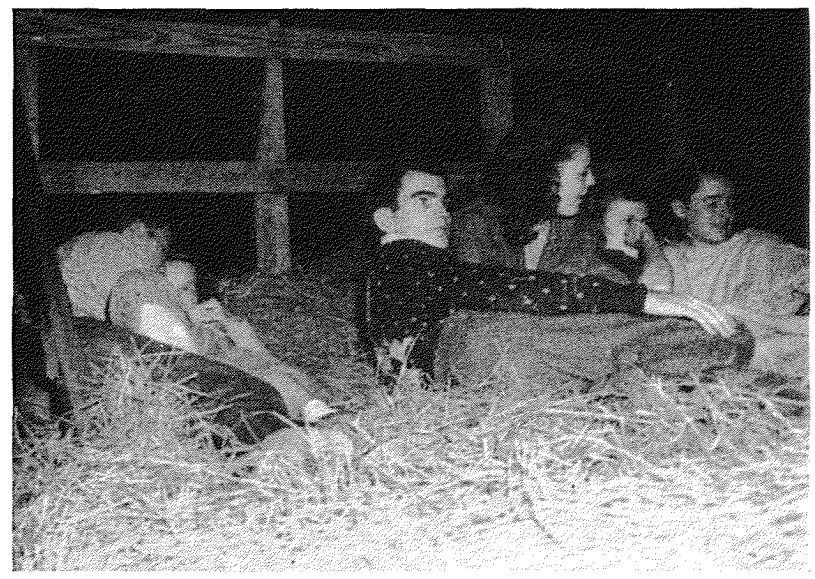

Thus 1946's trail of newsprint came to an end with inky fingers and morguish faces, and with the Collegian looking forward toward years of continued popularity.

January 18th, 1946.

Miss Lisby Van Bradt, Editor,
Kendallabrum,
University of Tulsa,
Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Dear Miss Van Bradt:

Every time that I've ever been asked to judge any beauty contest I've been a little wary about the reaction once the winners are announced. Particularly is this true when a selection is made from photographs of the girls and not the girls themselves. Too often the cameraman is the one who ought to win the prize, but under those conditions you can only go by what you see in the pictures.

In the case of your University of Tulsa girls, it was awfully difficult to pick only six. It would have been much easier picking a couple of dozen because so many of them looked attractive, fresh, vibrant and personable. So with all due honor to the winners, I hope you'll tell all the girls that there are no losers -- merely that we ran out of winning numbers.

I'd like very much to present each of the six girls with an album of our latest Victor records and as soon as you send their names to the office I'll see that they're shipped out immediately.

If I can be of any further assistance at any time, it will be my pleasure -- and thanks for asking me to be the judge this time.

Sincerely,

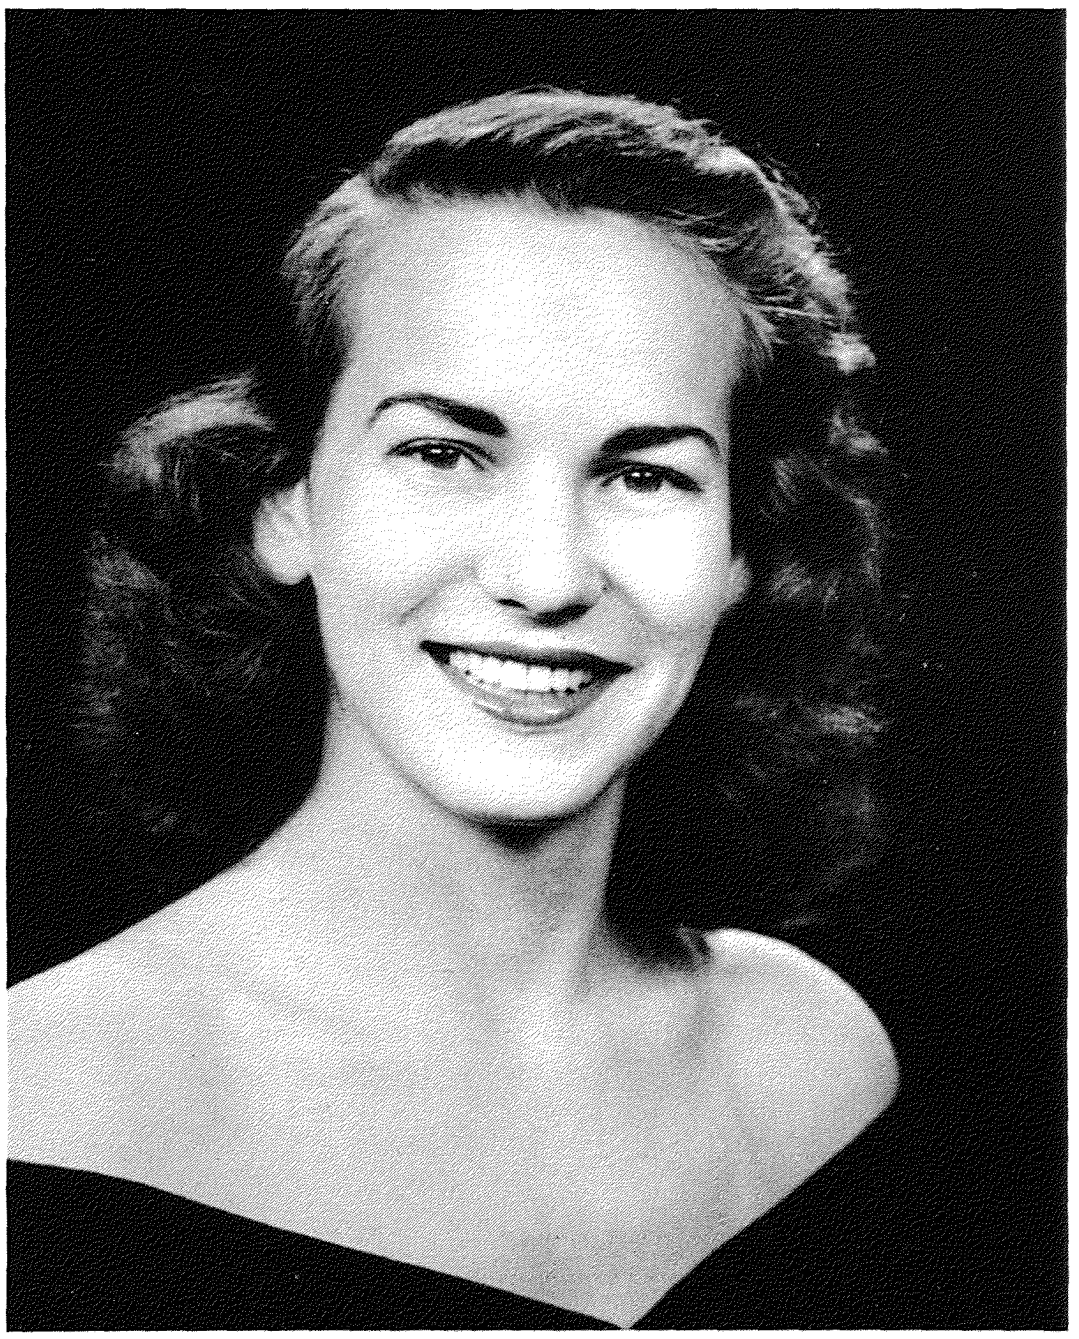

Tommy Dorsey

The charter members of Alpha Pi Theta met for the first time at a tea given by the Panhellenic Council at the Kappa Delta Lodge, Saturday afternoon, October 13, 1945.

The method by which charter members of Alpha Pi Theta were chosen was one of great detail. Each national sorority existing on the University of Tulsa campus made a careful list of twelve to eighteen girls who they thought would be of value to an organization. From these four lists were picked names of girls which appeared on more than one of the lists. The fifteen charter members of Alpha Pi Theta are: Cora Price, Norma Sue Francis, Jean Sturdivant, Lillian Broad, Jean Grant, Floranne Cross, Pat Avey, Kathryn Jo Melinder, Pat Morsani, Rosemary Chancey, Marisue Meyer, Margaret Carl, Betty Pelton, Pat Harrison, Winona Secrest.

The first organization meeting was held the following Monday, October 15, in Robertson Hall with Miss Mary Clay Williams, Dean of Women, giving counsel. On Monday, October 21, officers were elected, including the following: Cora Price, president; Betty Lou Pelton, vice-president; Pat Harrison, corresponding secretary; Jean Grant, recording secretary; Floranne Cross, treasurer; Pat Morsani and Norma Sue Francis, rush co-chairmen; Pat Avey, social chairman; Kathryn Jo Melinder, reporter.

The Browsing Room of McFarlin Library became the official meeting place of the new local on the campus, and on November 12, Alpha Pi Theta was selected as the name of the sorority, with purple and gold as the official colors. The iris was chosen as the flower and the butterfly as one of the symbols. The constitution was completed and signed by all charter members on November 16, and was approved by the Student Activities Committee on November 17.

Mrs. M. M. Hargrove and Mrs. R. L. Langenheim became sponsors of Alpha Pi Theta early in December.

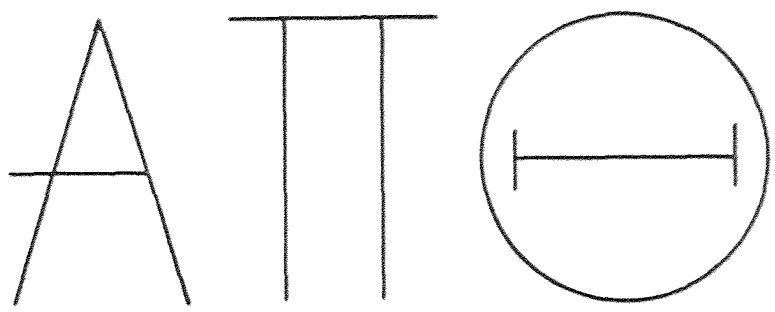

A pin, formed by overlapping the Greek letters for Alpha Pi Theta, was designed by Rosemary Chancey. Since the pins were not ready for immediate use, purple and gold ribbons were worn by members.

The first social event of Alpha Pi Theta was a rush party held in the Delta Delta Delta lodge on December 7, with about twenty rushees present. On December 15, members and their dates attended the annual Panhellenic Ball in the ballroom of the Tulsa Club. Edna Insch Sesow became the first pledge of the sorority when she accepted a pledge ribbon on December 20.

A Christmas party for members and pledges was held on December 27, and another rush party was given in the Phi Mu lodge on January 4. At the first formal pledge service Edna Sesow and Pat Kohn were made official pledges and a week later on January 12, Alma and Margy Jernigan were formally pledged.

Second semester rush presented problems new to the group, but three more pledges were selected. They were: Jo Ann Brooks, Mary Kay Stoppard, and Mary McLendon.

The first purpose and duty of the group is to broaden the scope of each of its prospective members in order to develop sturdier and more interesting characters.

With Betty Daugherty wielding the gavel, Chi Omega opened the season with the addition of twenty-four enthusiastic pledges. Ann Sanders, pledge mistress, patiently worked with them on such Chi O vitals as: Colors—cardinal and straw, Flower—white carnation, Founding—April 5, 1895, Fayetteville, Ark. Mary Lou Binford and Jane Love represented the class as cheer leader and beauty queen, respectively, while Blodwin Roberts took the honors as model initiate with a 3.9 average. Showing the old school spirit, and also a touch of genius, the pledge class opened the football year with a satire on the Drake team. A "Nevada Band" portrayal, complete with roller skates, dilapidated instruments, and outlandish uniforms was the talk of the town. Finally, the members and pledges combined their efforts on the Chi O float, for homecoming, which completed a very successful football year.

Social activities began with the annual White Carnation dance, which was held in the lodge. The Veterans were welcomed to the campus by a gala Chinese Night Club party, which featured the popular Chi O Quartet, while a "Polish the Apple" party was held for those favorite professors. Chi O-Tri Delta combined for a wonderful dance honoring the pledges. At the Lambda Chi Hellzapoppin' party, Eddie Horn was chosen as King Chi O, and his attendants were Jean Finlayson and Mary Lou Binford.

BETTY DAUGHERTY, President

Other memorable events of the year were the open houses, date parties and the Eleusinian Banquet. The members were amused at the array of curlers, cold cream, and red flannel pajamas which were displayed at the "Come-as-you-are" breakfast for pledges, so the pledges countered with a Hoedown party, complete with hay, saddles and lots of food.

Chi O's found in campus positions this year were: Norma Lee Cantrell, who succeeded Mary Kate Roark as sweetheart of Lambda Chi; Lisby VanBradt, Kendallabrum editor with Mary Kate Roark as Business Manager; Jean Bell, president of Windbaggettes; Rolleen Taylor, feature editor of the Collegian; and Jackie Newton, chairman of the Campus Participation Committee. Representing the field of acting were Joan Bechtel, Mary Lynn Cease, Gloria Shockley, and Marolyn Donnelly, all of whom held major roles in school dramatics.

One of the most notable achievements which the Hoot gals proudly boast is that all of the pledges made their grades and are now wearing the pearl and gold pin of the X and horseshoe.

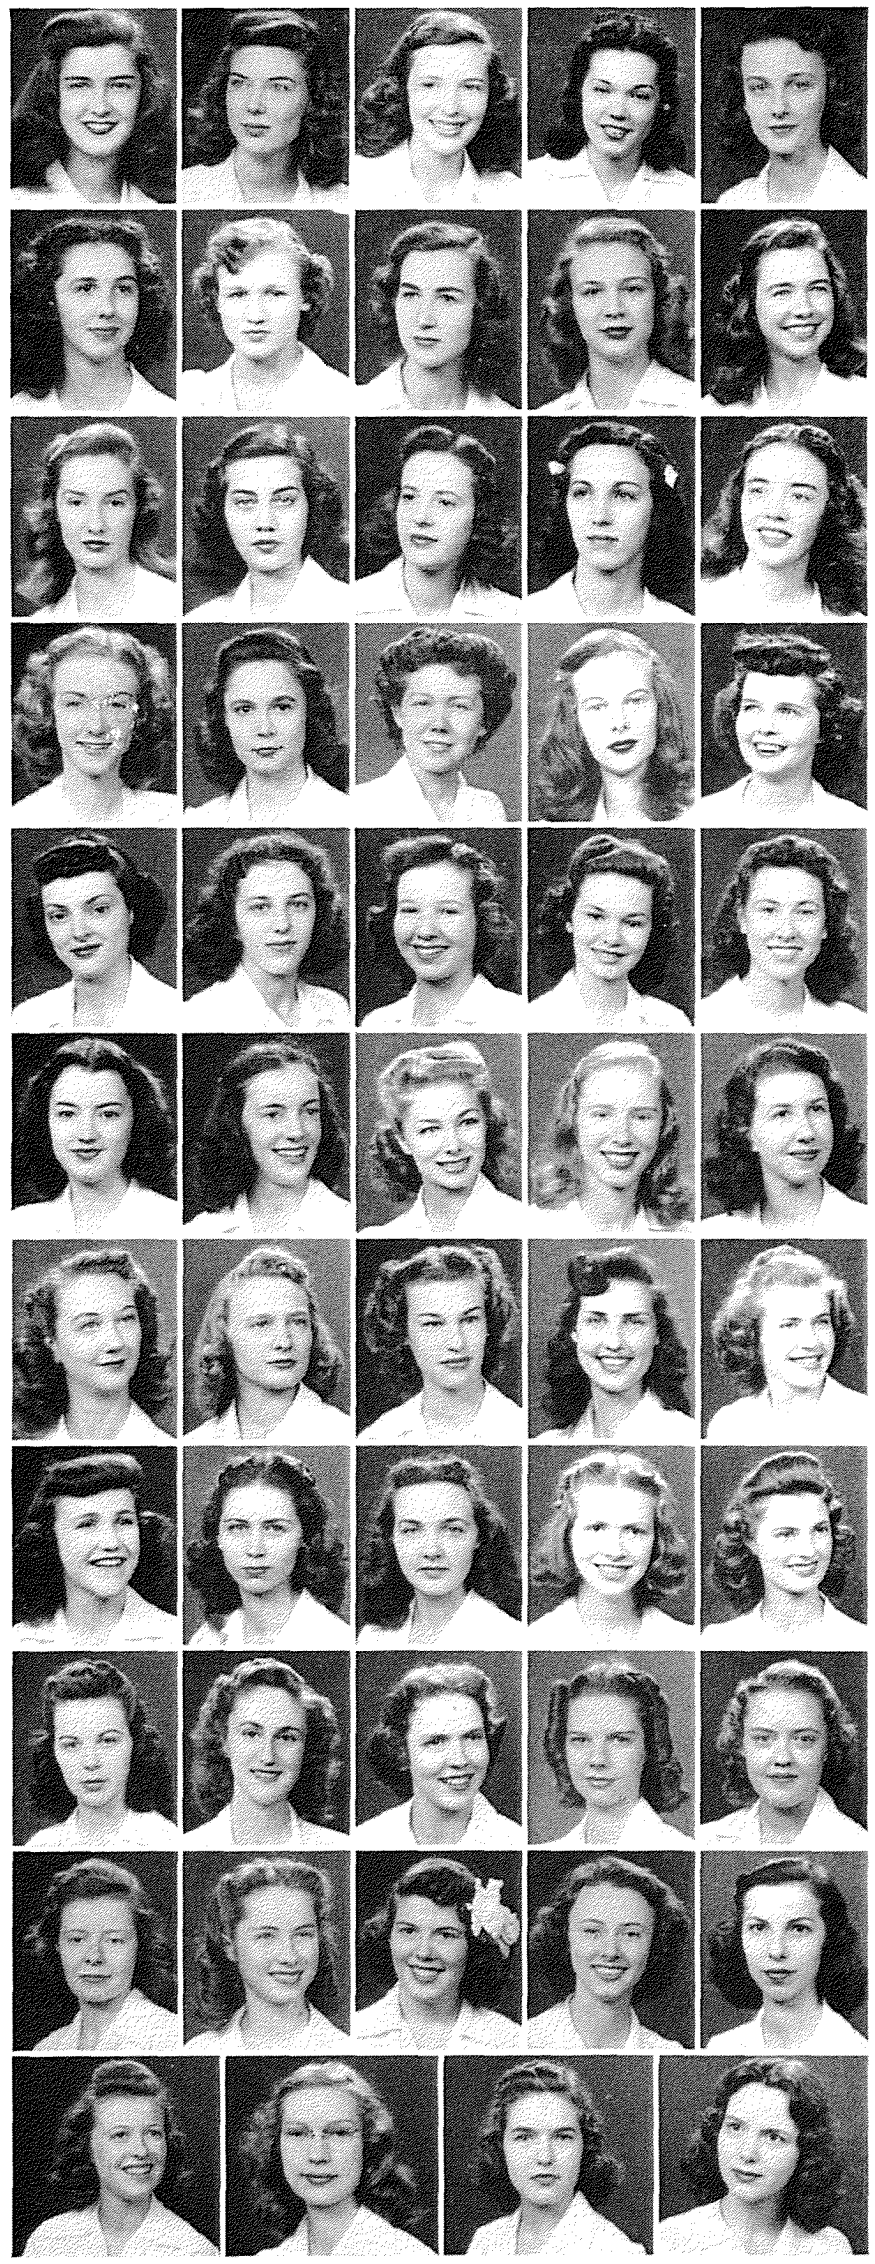

A welcome addition to the lodge was the silver cup awarded the Chi O's for the largest contribution to the World Student Service Fund Drive. Speaking of welcome additions, we wish to congratulate the new mothers of the Mother's Club, and to thank them for their efforts preparing the wonderful Friday luncheons, promoting rummage sales, and for the many things they do for us. Special recognition is due to Mrs. Brammer, our house mother.

With the open motto of hellenic culture and Christian ideals, Chi Omega strives to achieve closer unity with school officials and other students.

Brains, beauty, and activities highlighted the year for Theta Uplison chapter of Delta Delta Delta. Enough honors were won by Delta girls to count for every year since the sorority founding, Thanksgiving Eve, 1888, at Boston University.

The chapter gained permanent possession of the Panhellenic scholarship cup by winning it for the third consecutive year. The cup was presented to president, Evelyn Davis, at the fall honors assembly and now holds the spot of honor on the Tri Delt mantel.

The Kendallabrum beauty section boasts three Tri Delt lovelies: Evelyn Davis, Eunice Knowland and Juanita Hale. Juanita won further fame as attendant to both the band queen and the engineers' queen. Other chapter royalty included Mary Nell Fowler, who was an attendant to the football queen, and Barbara Guiles and Peggy Wilds who were official Kappa Alpha Sweethearts.

Jean Harmon held the gavel as head of the Community Council with Eniver McGinnis, Charlotte Lyke, Mary Nell Fowler and Marjorie Bottenfield working with her as class officers. Four Tri Delts will appear in Who's Who in American Colleges this year: Laurie Langford, Peggy Comfort, Evelyn Davis and Jean Harmon. Billee Payne served as the editor of the Collegian and Ginny Thompson was chosen as one of the cheer leaders for the second year.

The twenty-four pledges were honored at the first annual Pansy Prom last fall. Charlotte Lyke reigned over the affair as Pansy Pledge Princess. Again the pledges were honored at the winter pledge dance given jointly with the Chi Omegas.

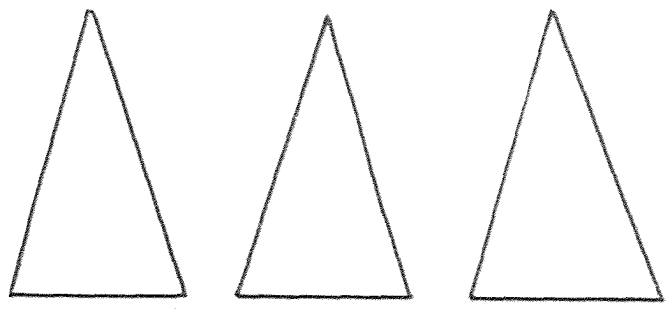

A silver, gold and blue Christmas tree held the spotlight in the pine-paneled lodge during the holiday season. To draw the family more into the sorority spirit, Tri Delt Dads were honored at a Christmas party where all the whys and wheres of sorority life were portrayed to the proud papas.

Barbara Guiles and Warren Kesselring were voted the "most loving couple" at the Valentine party and were presented with the traditional red and white loving cup. The party honored the chapter members and pledges who had passed the engagement candy during the first semester. Those honored were: Ouida Gordon, Patti Knott, Barbara Guiles, Mary Nell Fowler, Margaret Brown, and Emily Schwabe.

Members of the four national fraternities were honored at coffee and pie parties throughout the year featuring Mother Pat and her piano playing.

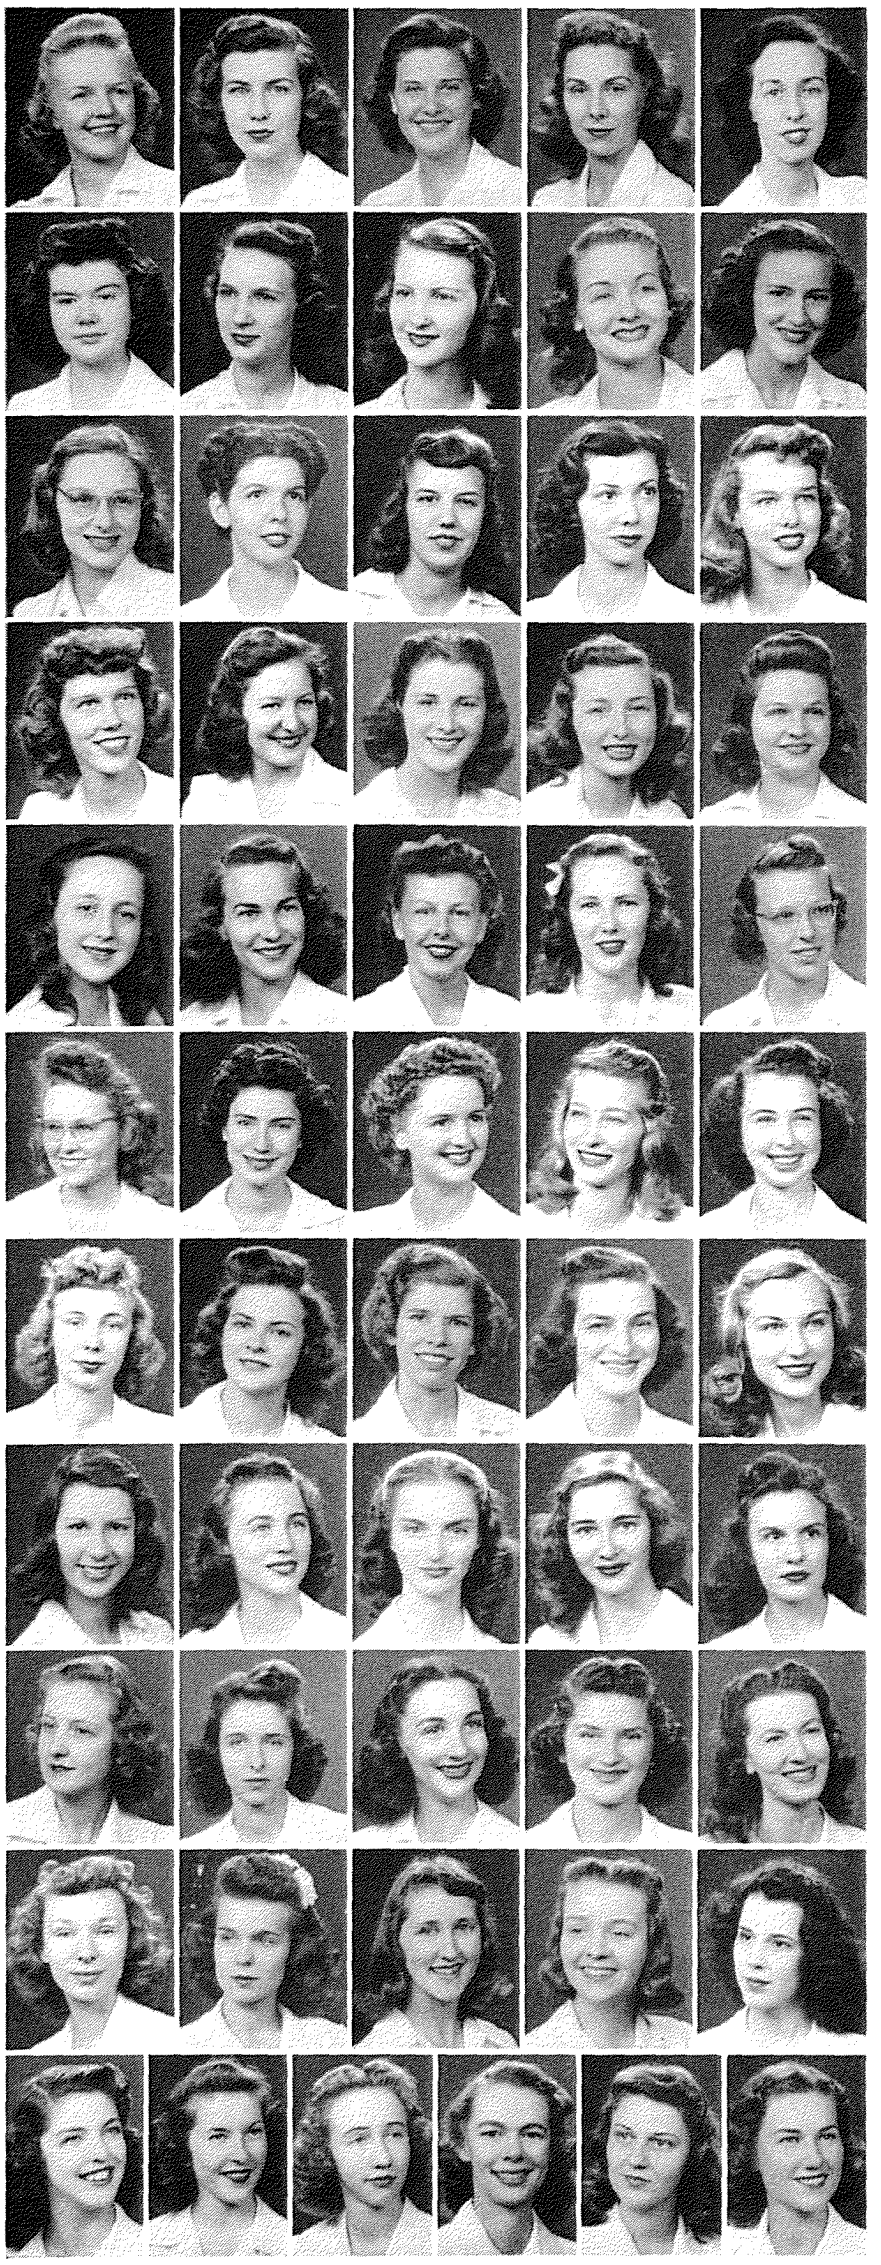

At the all-school Delta Dame Dance, members of campus men's organizations vied for the crown of Bill of the Ball amid vegetable corsages which are standard equipment for the dance every year. After votes were counted, Bill Boyd was appropriately crowned and congratulated.

With high hopes for repeating their honors next year, the Tri Delts began thinking of summer rush and new friendships which make sorority life so much a part of college.

Kappa Delta Sorority was founded on October 23, 1897, at Virginia State Normal College, Farmville, Virginia. Since that time it has grown to an active membership of twenty thousand, with seventy-three active chapters. Beta Epsilon chapter was installed on the campus in September, 1937.

National Kappa Delta supports many projects, including a Student Loan Fund, a Chapter House Fund, a ward in the Crippled Children's Hospital at Richmond, Virginia, and an Endowment Fund.

This year Kappa Delta renewed its Monday night dinners for the fraternities and other men's organizations on the campus. The dinners were quite popular and always well attended because they were often turned into engagement parties by girls who took this opportunity to display their new engagement rings for the first time. The girls who changed their names this year were: Pat Skeehan (King); Betty Erickson (Lieninger); Ruth Harvey (Kirkpatrick); Gwen Dale (Coulter); and Jo-Katherine Ogden (Bauer).

Other girls wearing engagement rings are: Lillian Attaway; Laurene Castillo; and Jean Woodring. Aileen Hill recently acquired Jimmy Wintle's beautifully-jeweled Maltese Cross and the Kappa Deltas are still waiting for the coveted candy which Grace Foat asked to be postponed until after Lent. The road to Norman is well-known by June Heuston who travels over the road to see her pin-mate, Horace Goodson, almost every week-end.

Pat King has proved that marriage and schoolwork mix, for Pat was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Another all-around activity girl is Mary Kay Winn who held the office of president of Senior Staff because she had straight A's during her college career. Mary Kay was also treasurer of the sorority and we'll never forget her favorite phrase, "Your dues are due on the first, but they're late on the fifteenth!" The Community Council found Martha Hudlin every Tuesday morning recording the minutes, while Dorothy Jacoby planned all Community parties. Joan Wallace is the first president of the newly organized Junior Panhellenic and she was so anxious to make it a success that she nearly sold materials used in initiation at their first rummage sale.

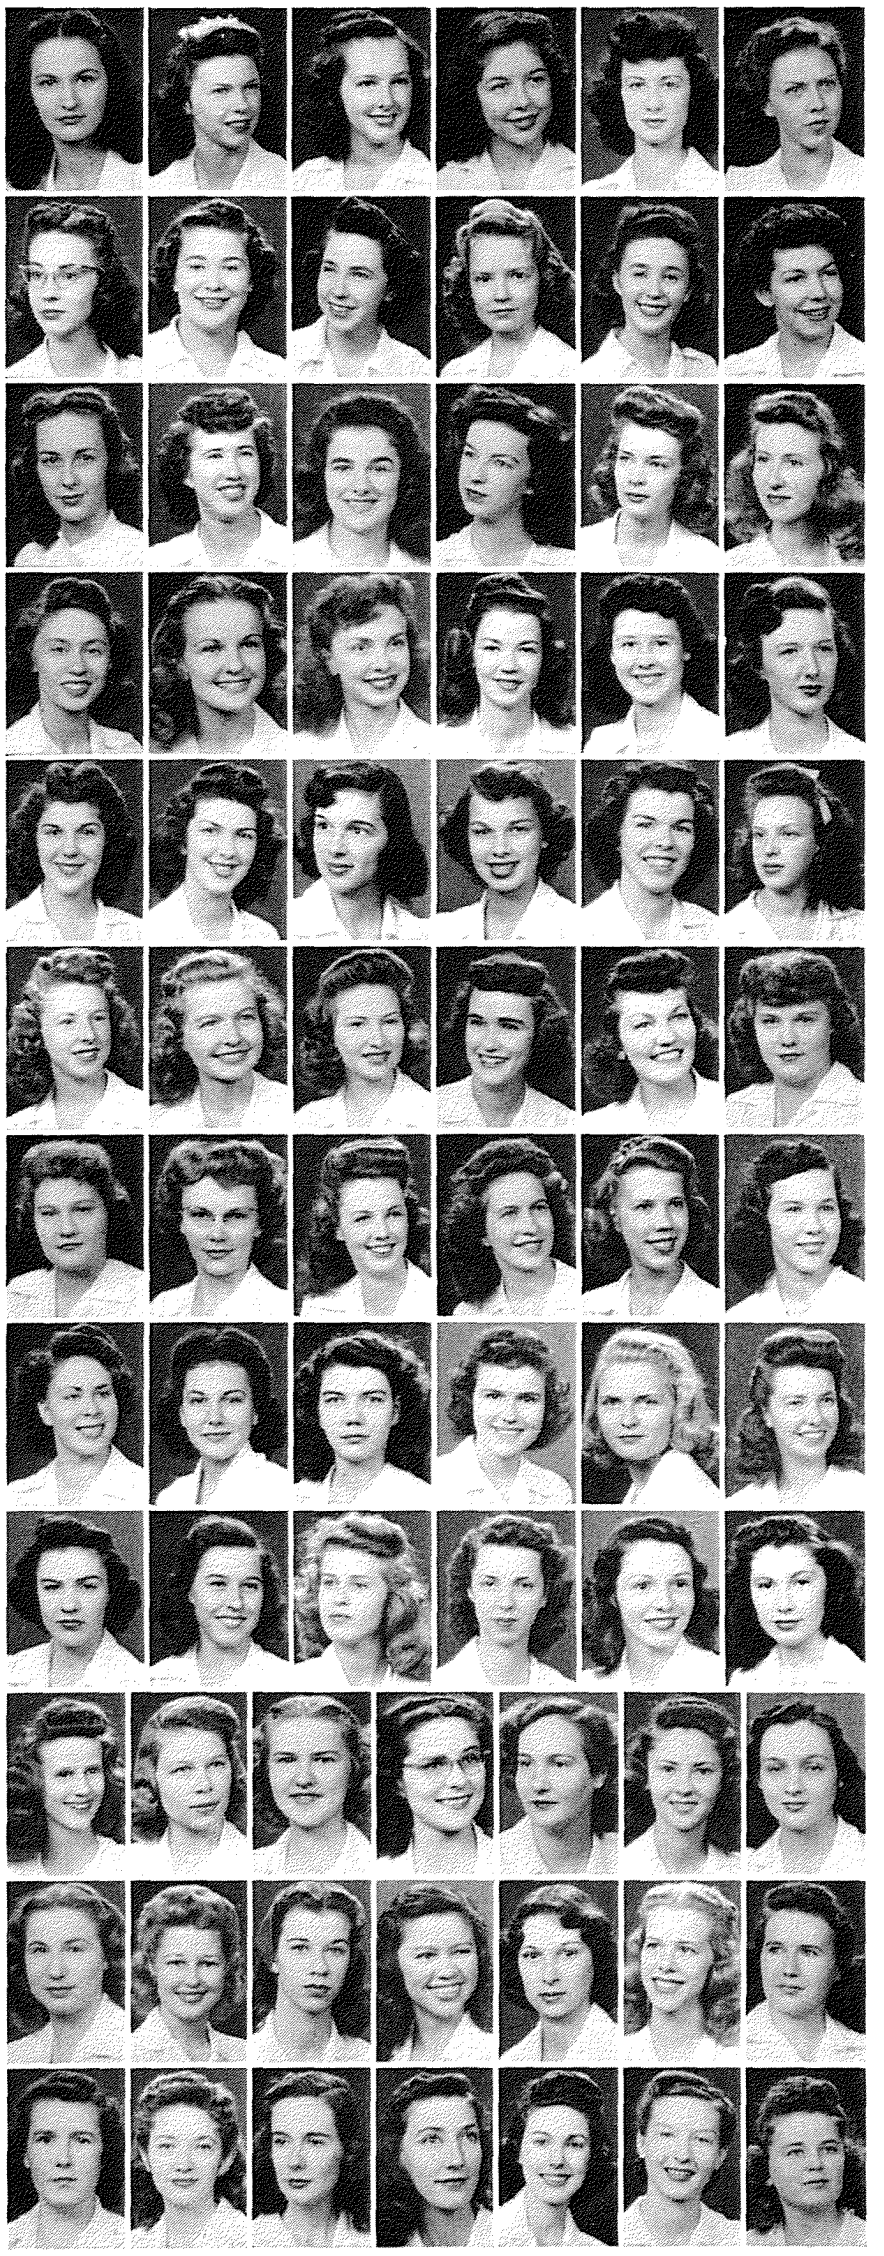

Our lovely football queen is none other than Pat Haas, who is also the outstanding pledge of the year. Some people have everything, even Kenny Butterworth.

The K. D.'s will never recover from the honor of winning the four awards for achievement at the annual Founder's Day Banquet. Ruth Greene will always be able to unearth another story about the black eye she came home with from Wisconsin. Peggy Bockelmann will be remembered for her entertainment of the veterans; while Martha Burton discovered how to make coffee for them. The trips that Annabelle Goodman made to Bartlesville soon became so interesting that the whole chapter went with her. Didn't we have fun this year?

Ninety-four years ago at Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, three women, Mary Dupont Lines, Mary Myrick Daniel and Martha Hardaway Redding founded Phi Mu Sorority. Feeling the need for mutual understanding, the friendliness and sociability of Greek life, they organized the Philomathean Society, later to be known as Phi Mu.

Phi Mu has progressed rapidly since its beginning in 1852. At present we find it has over sixty-eight chapters and sixteen thousand alumnae members. On the Tulsa University campus it is the largest sorority, boasting sixty-three actives and nine pledges.

Helen Anthony was chosen Sweetheart of Kappa Kappa Psi early in the semester and during the football season Mary Jo Fette was chosen football queen's attendant.

Mary Gebhart was re-elected cheerleader for the second consecutive year and helped lead the cheers for the T. U. Hurricanes.

Love was not sacrificed for the school books as it was well represented by sparklers on a certain third finger, left hand, and fraternity pins for many of the girls. Some of the more fortunate ones are: "Fig" Newton, Joan Payne, Jerry Pounds, Pat Carmack, former pledge president, and Marilyn Braun, while Betty Lou Harvey was married in the fall.

PHYLLIS GADDIS, President

Three Phi Mu's made news when they succeeded in getting into "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." They were Phyllis Gaddis, former president, Jean Lively and Betty Swindell.

Our housemother, Mrs. Giffert, successfully kept the lodge immaculate at all times.

The pledge walkout was a big success, not to mention the private one by the pledges when they refused to show up for punishment. They finally were punished, however, after the slumber party at the Fettes', for they found themselves at the lodge at 5:00 in the morning, cleaning and scrubbing.

Pat Bollman and Helen Buthod were kept busy keeping the Collegian and Petty running as Business Manager and Assistant Editor, respectively.

The big annual Christmas party at the lodge kept the members entertained with skits by the pledges, such as "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Jean Pray was chosen "Dream Girl" of Phi Mu, and finished school at mid-term as the youngest Senior in the University to graduate with a B plus average from the School of Business Administration.

The monthly dinners that the mothers' Club gave us throughout the year proved to be wonderful get-togethers and helped raise our piano fund.

The election of new officers found "Maggie" Mershon as our new president.

The Founder's Day Banquet was held on March 4, the night after initiation. Marjorie Marks won the award for being the best pledge.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

The Panhellenic Council at the University of Tulsa was organized over fourteen years ago and was modeled after the National Panhellenic Congress. Membership is made up of two delegates from each of the five sororities, the president and one other member.

Panhellenic Council of 1945-46 found Mary McKellar, Chi Omega, acting as president. The other members of the Council were: Betty Daugherty, Chi Omega; Billee Payne, Vice-President, and Evelyn Davis, Delta Delta Delta; Margaret Pitcher, Secretary, and Pat Skeehan, Kappa Delta; Joan Newton, Treasurer, and Phyllis Gaddis, Phi Mu; and Cora Price and Lillian Broad, Alpha Pi Theta.

Miss Mary Clay Williams, Counselor to Women, is the sponsor. The Council encourages cooperation among the sororities. The weekly Monday meetings at noon in Miss Williams' office are for the discussion of sorority problems and planning activities. During the summer, the Council meets to discuss rush activities, to simplify the rush rules as much as possible, and to make plans for its Open House preceding Formal Rush. A Court of Honor consisting of the members of the Council meets each day during Formal Rush to investigate and hear complaints of infringement of the rush rules. The chairmanship of the Court rotates among the officers of Panhellenic Council.

Each year, Panhellenic Council presents a scholarship cup to the sorority making the highest grade average for the preceding year. The cup is presented by Miss Williams in the Honors Assembly. There is always a great deal of suspense before the cup is awarded and much excitement after the winner is announced. This year Delta Delta Delta was the winner. Since they have won it for the third consecutive year, they are entitled to keep it in their possession permanently.

The Annual Panhellenic Ball was a lot of work and just as much fun. The day of the dance found Betty Daugherty carrying evergreen ropes into the Chamber of Commerce. Pat Skeehan King took charge of decorating the two huge Christmas trees on the bandstand. Each group cooperates to make every function a huge success.

Miss Williams has been our lifesaver more than once when we faced problems we thought could not be solved. She even came to the Panhellenic Ball with a broken ankle.

The Panhellenic Workshop, which is sponsored by the Council, is held every year. At this meeting the new initiates of each group are recognized. The members of the Council hold round table discussions concerning scholarship, pledges, house duties, etiquette, and other problems concerning campus life.

Panhellenic Council thought it would be ideal if the pledges of the sororities had a panhellenic of their own to discuss their problems and to promote a better understanding among the pledge classes. The result of this idea was the creation of the Junior Panhellenic. It follows the same plan as does Senior Panhellenic. Each sorority's pledge class is represented by its president and other delegate. They have as their main project the Children's Home.

The Panhellenic Council is proud of the civic work it promotes. The Council enlisted the aid of all the sororities in selling poppies for the Veterans of Foreign Wars. This is an annual project for the Council. All the girls are anxious to help, because they know it is a worthy cause as well as being fun. Also this year, all the sororities participated in the World Student Service Fund drive. The Council also sponsors the Red Cross campaign on the University Campus.

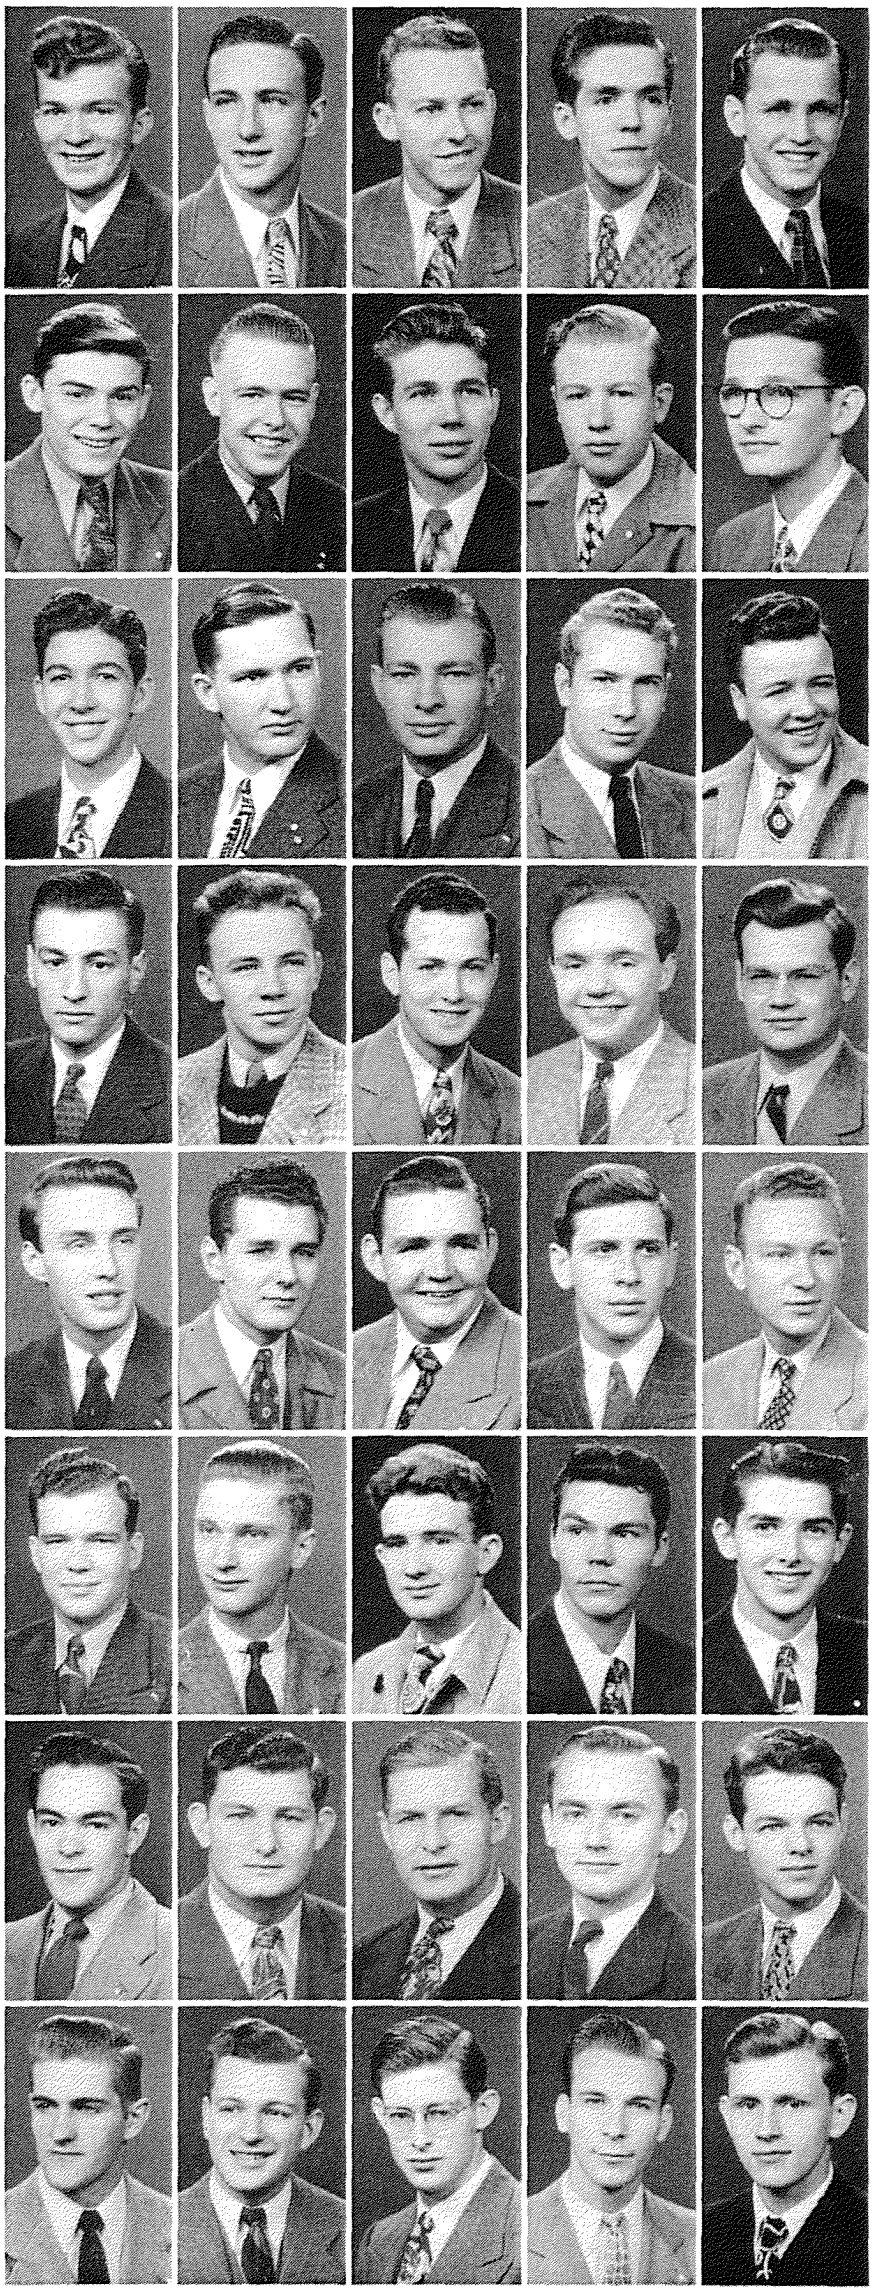

The sorority groups are proud of their friendly spirit of cooperation that exists among the girls in the organization, and much of this spirit can be attributed to the Panhellenic Council.

The creed of the local Panhellenic Council is identical with that of the National Congress. "We, the fraternity undergraduate members, stand for good scholarship, for the guarding of good health, for whole-hearted cooperation with college's ideals for student life, for the maintenance of fine social standards, and the serving, to the best of our ability, of our college community . . . good college citizenship as a preparation for good citizenship in the larger world."

The Epsilon Lambda chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity started the year by electing Bill Skeehan, outstanding pledge in 1944, as their president. Bill also became vice-president of Inter-Fraternity Council. Bob McFetridge took charge of new pledges and spent every Monday night teaching them that the fraternity recognizes the white tea rose as its flower, azure and old gold as its colors and September 11, 1865, as the date of founding. Bob got more than his share of the fun at the walkout dance, because the pledges kidnaped him, took him to Memorial Cemetery and left him on a tombstone.

By January, Ellis Jones, Clyde Goodnight and Nolan Luhn had returned from professional football, bringing the Tulsa Taus the news of the pro leagues.

The A. T. O.'s held their annual Black and White formal ball at the Tulsa Club Roof Garden in December and finished the year with a super dinner dance in mid-March. The annual Spring Formal, observing installation of the local chapter was held early in May.

C. B. Stanley, one of last year's football captains and team captain again this year, was elected A. T. O. prexy and vice-president of the Senior Class. Tommy Floyd carried away Sophomore top honors when he became president of the class. In February, rush again held the attention of the A. T. O.'s and they raised their number of pledges to thirty-five for the year. On February 23, twelve pledges became members and went around for days without any coats, defying the cold and wind, showing off their new pins.

Everyone missed Eddie Terry, member, and Bob Sheldon and Earl Lewis, pledges, who had left for military service. Missing, too, was Bob Kirkland, who enlisted in the army shortly after his return from the Merchant Marines. Conspicuous by their absence were six jeweled pins, successfully obtained by campus beauties.

Activity man of the fraternity, Fred Davis, who is a past president, was the second Alpha Tau Omega to be added to the list of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges in the past two years. Among his many other activities, Fred also was the chairman of the Board of Publications for the second consecutive year.

Everyone still sits in awe of Dick Mason and Bill Ferguson, who proved to be the veritable "Brains" in chemistry (and everything else, for that matter). Bill's activities were not limited to scholarship, however, because he was joined by George Dunn, when the members chose them as the year's two outstanding pledges.

Everyone remembers how cheerleaders, Tommy Floyd and Gene Moncrief had to get permission from Dr. Small to break fraternity rush silence because Tommy was a member and Gene a rushee. Later Gene's A. T. O. pledge pin and Tommy's member pin shone brightly at the football games.

Closing the year, the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity looked forward to another successful year, and hoped for the return of the many brothers who are still in the service of their country.

Kappa Alpha Order was founded in December, 1865, at Washington and Lee University. Its purpose is to maintain the Southern ideal of the gentleman, Robert E. Lee who inspired the founders mentally and spiritually.

Although the armed forces took a large percentage of their membership, the fraternity enjoyed rapid growth with the return of veterans to the campus. Thirty active members and twenty-two pledges opened the second semester activities.

Since K. A. had ten married men in the fraternity, the "Too Old to Have Any Fun They Think" club began. This organization soon proved to be the noisiest bunch at all chapter functions. In the married men's crowd you could always find the Rogers, the Goodwins, the Kirkpatricks, the Boyds, the Wrights, the Bohannons, the Lloyds, the Holts, the Moulders, and the Woodards.

Kappa Alpha honors included Jim Griffin and Bob Dean who held sway over the Commerce Club this year as president and vice-president of that organization. Jim Clark presided over the Inter-Fraternity Council meetings and John Catlett laid down the law on the Student Activities Committee. George Brite gained fame as the campus music-maker with his own dance band, as well as being president of the University band, while Frank Simms held the lead in the workshop production, the Missouri Legend.

The famous Bryan barbecue in September began the round of chapter activities for the year. Apparently liking the crackling of a wood fire and the outdoor life, the K. A.'s also held picnics at Parthenia and several hayrides during the fall.

At Christmas time, the pledges entertained active members, and alums, and their dates at the annual Christmas party. Barbara Guiles was presented with the pledge sweetheart crown and the Kappa Alpha roses. All the girls received a gift and the boys exchanged quips with their "unusual" gifts to each other. Dr. Dennis Murphy and Mr. A. E. Howard, fraternity sponsors, received a pair of dark glasses so as to better chaperone chapter functions and a puppet monkey, who was reportedly the stellar student in Mr. Howard's calculus class.

Biggest event of the year was the Convivium dinner dance held January 22, to honor the birthday of Robert E. Lee. Members drank a toast to General Lee and Kappa Alpha standards and presented the crown of Kappa Alpha Sweetheart to Peggy Wilds. Peggy had special qualifications for the honor as she claims Alabama and the Old South as her home. During the coronation, dates of all members were given a crested jeweled sword pin as evidence that they were all K. A. sweethearts.

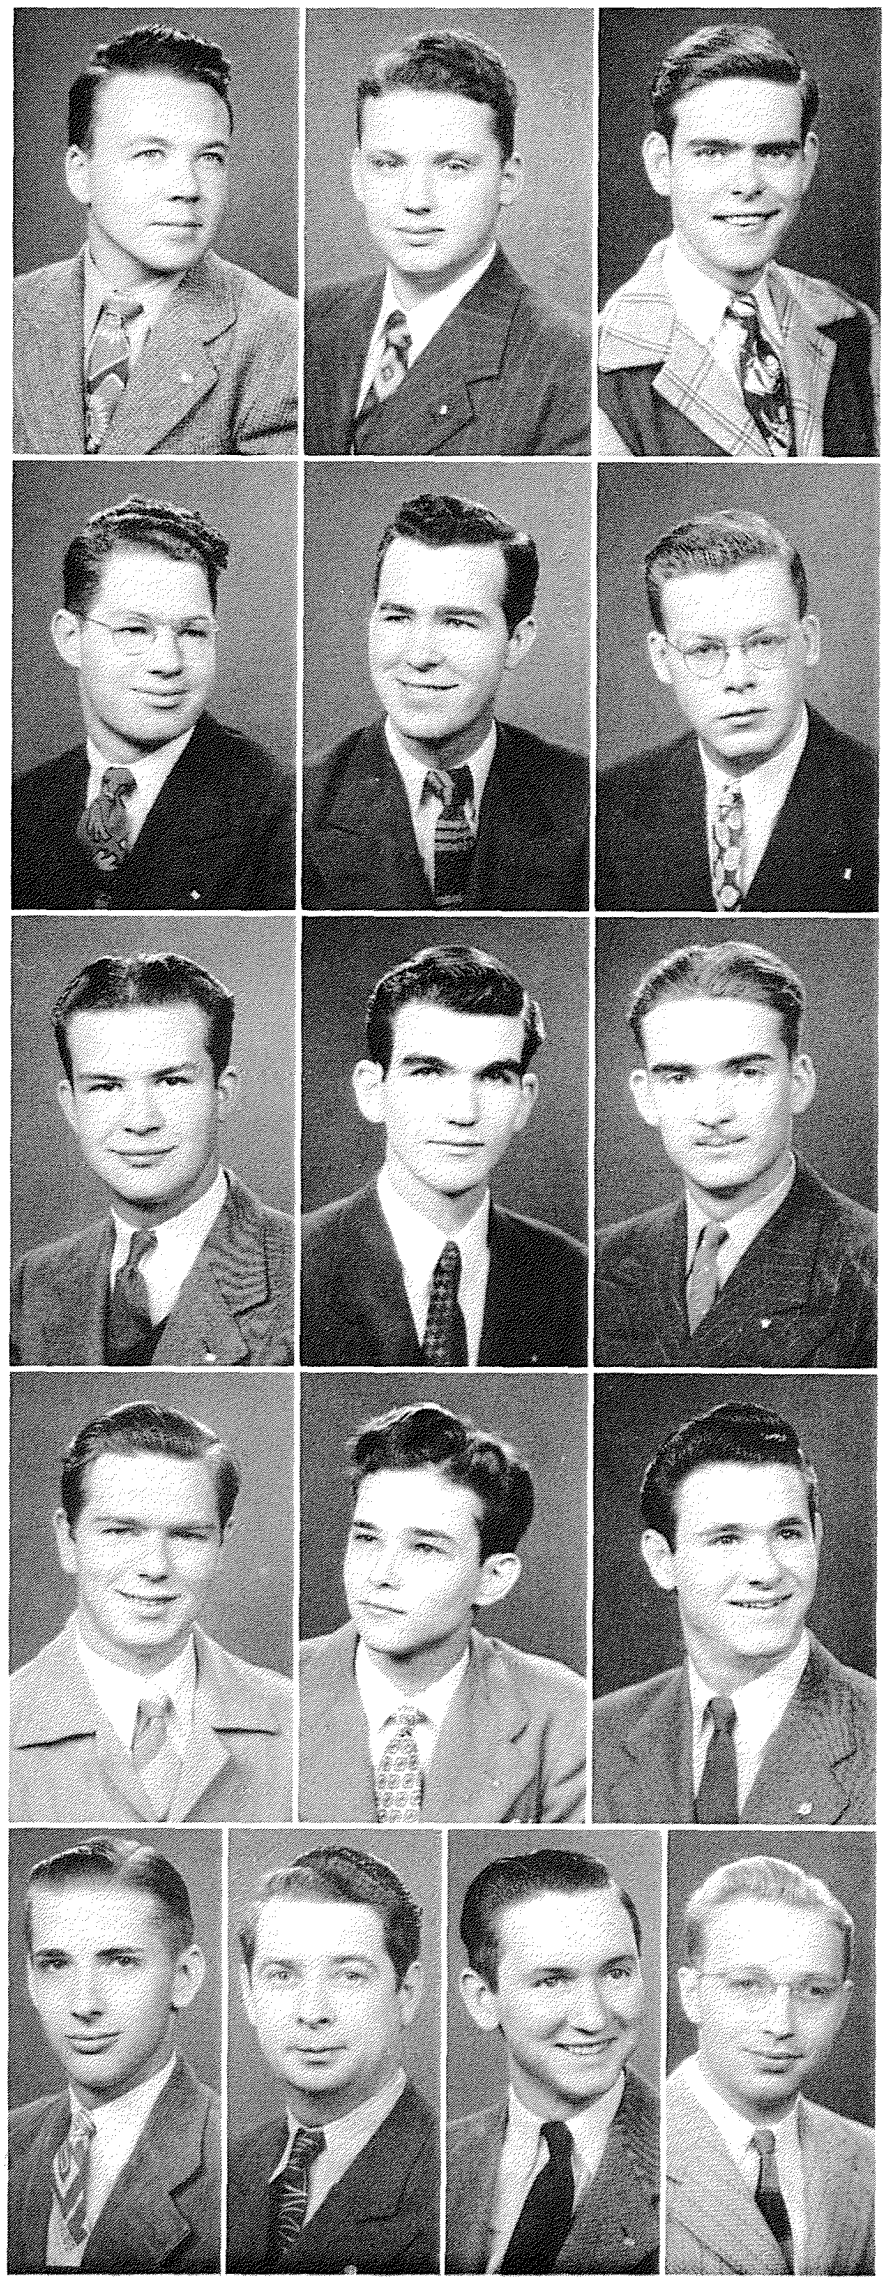

More picnics and hayrides were included in the spring calendar along with an open house honoring the fraternity Mother's Club and the annual spring Dixie Ball.

Big plans were made this year for again occupying the Kappa Alpha House next fall and renewing the Wednesday noon date luncheons and the Friday evening record parties.

One of the first important things that happened on the campus last fall was the election of the band queen and her coronation at the first football game. Kappa Kappa Psi always officiates at this event. During the half, Glen Smith placed the drum-major's hat on Helen Anthony, making her our official sweetheart for 1945-46.

After it was over, Helen decided she would like to know more about Kappa Kappa Psi, so she attended one of the meetings. With a note of firmness but of gentle restraint, she heard pledge master, George Brite, inform the pledges that they were to decorate the goal posts for the football game the next Saturday. Bubbling over with eagerness, pledge Kenny Warren instantly volunteered to be chairman of the committee. Al Little was holding an attractive little notebook. She asked if she might look at it. On page one, she learned that Kappa Kappa Psi was founded November 27, 1919, with the Alpha chapter at Oklahoma A. & M. College. Turning over a few pages she learned that the society was founded for the purpose of encouraging good fellowship, leadership, scholarship, and musical ability among college band members. On the page dedicated to local history, Helen saw that Tau Upsilon Beta, a local band fraternity founded February 21, 1938, affiliated with the national organization on March 18, 1938. Thus Alpha Pi chapter on the University of Tulsa campus was the fortieth chapter in the national organization to be installed.

RICHARD BRITE, President

This year the officers who were elected were: Richard Brite, president; George Brite, vice-president; Glen Smith, secretary - treasurer. Kappa Kappa Psi also is represented on the Community Council. This year we kept up with campus events through Coleman Smith.

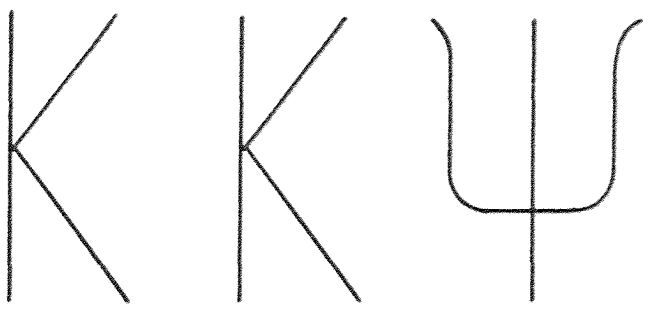

Not only at the first of the year, but also all through the year, Kappa Kappa Psi has been active in Band and Campus activities. Both members and pledges were eager to cooperate with Mr. Roger Fenn, Director of Instrumental music, in the trip to Houston on New Year's Day to play for the Oil Bowl Game.

On the eighth of March, a blue-and-white haze was hanging over the Chi Omega Lodge. It was the day for the Kappa Kappa Psi annual Spring Swing. Laurie Langford and Bill Crump said they really enjoyed their twenty cups of punch and Martha Hawkins and Bob Dunham did their best in the line of rug-cutting.

It was in the late spring, however, when Kappa Kappa Psi really showed how musical they were. The Fraternity took over one of the Fine Arts assemblies and did themselves right in claiming to be a music fraternity.

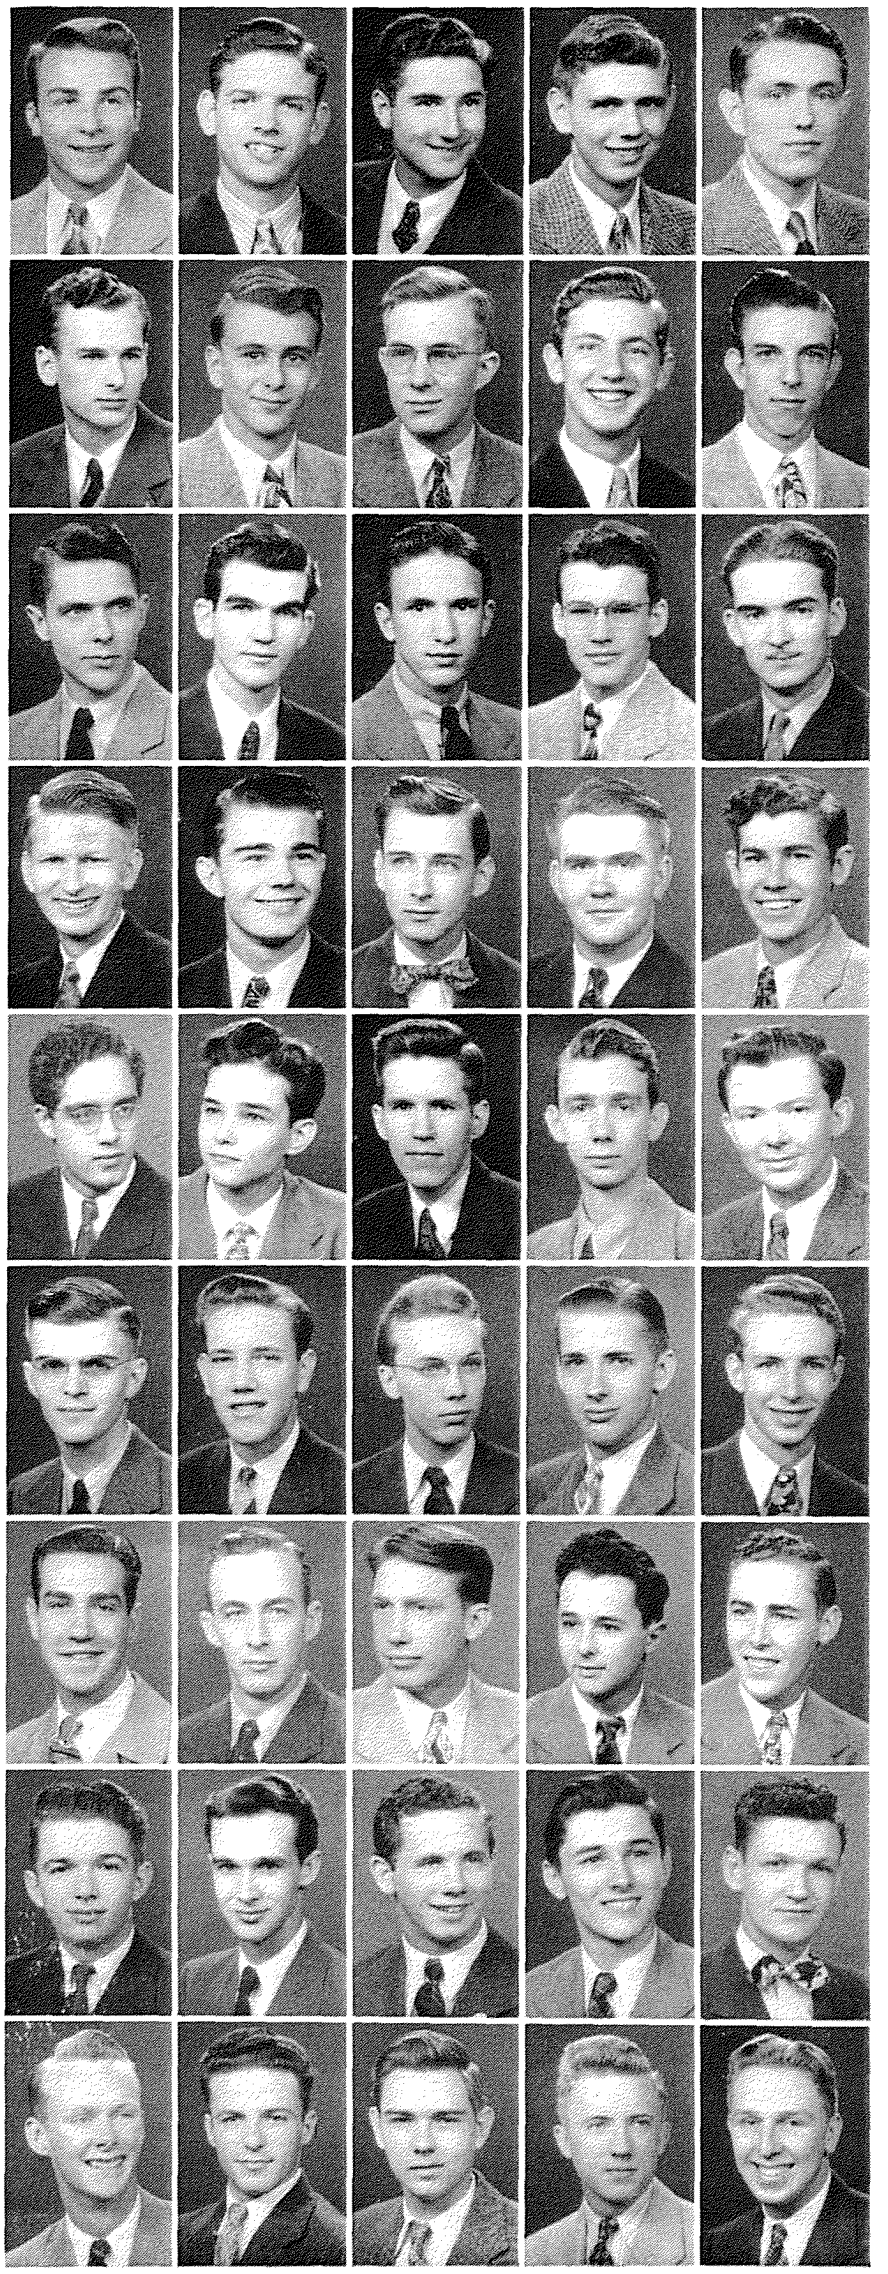

In March Kappa Kappa Psi entertained at a buffet supper under the direction of Tom Bates given in the Kappa Delta lodge. The purpose of this party was to welcome back the former members of Kappa Kappa Psi who had been serving in the armed forces.

With impressive years such as this behind us, we are looking forward toward an even rosier future for Kappa Kappa Psi.

When we were rushing for Lambda Chi Alpha we told the rushees that the fraternity had four main goals — Scholastic attainment, athletic achievement, campus participation, and a rigorous social life.

The organization was founded at Boston University in 1909, to promote democracy and progressive principles in the fraternity world. By 1937, there were 114 active chapters, and on October 29, the University of Tulsa's Epsilon Upsilon Zeta chapter brought the total to 115.

On the athletic front, Lambda Chi found John McCain guarding the T. U. goal on the basketball team, while late in the spring Ted Drakos left to play professional baseball. The intra-mural sports parade featured a Lambda Chi championship team under the coaching of M. C. Hopper. Helping put the fraternity among the basketball leaders were Ivo Nelson, Gene Proper, and Al Price. With these athletic achievements under our belt we looked forward to the softball season.

Trying to keep hold of the scholarship cup John Kerr helped us out with a first semester 4.0 average. High among our other 15 honor roll students we counted Ed Claytor, John Harris, Wendell Davis, and Bill Bearden, Kellogg scholarship winner.

BILL BEARDEN, President

Dick Brite and Jack Morgan represented us in the Community Council, Earl Hogard on S. P. C., and Oscar Hovis was chairman of senior activities. Inter-fraternity affairs found Jerry Hatfield and Mickey Whitney co-operating for the advancement of T. U. fraternity life. Rhythm boys of the T. U. band include Eddie Horn, Paul Dick, Raymond Peterson, and Dick Brite. Slide ruling for the Engineers Club are Jerry Hatfield, Bill Bearden, and John Harris. Thespians in the fraternity were work-shoppers Richard Coleman and Pat Sutter. Coleman also added his talents to the Collegian, penning dramatics features.

Variety was the spice of our social functions, which ran the gamut from hayrides to dinner dances. The pledge year started off with a sneeze at the annual barn dance. That straw-colored blonde, Joanne Brownlee was elected queen of the hay. At the home coming game alums saw Lambda Chi ingenuity demonstrated with the winning of the float contest. Thanksgiving Eve, Norma Lee Cantrell succeeded Mary Kate Roark as sweetheart of Lambda Chi Alpha at our dinner dance in the Crystal Ballroom.

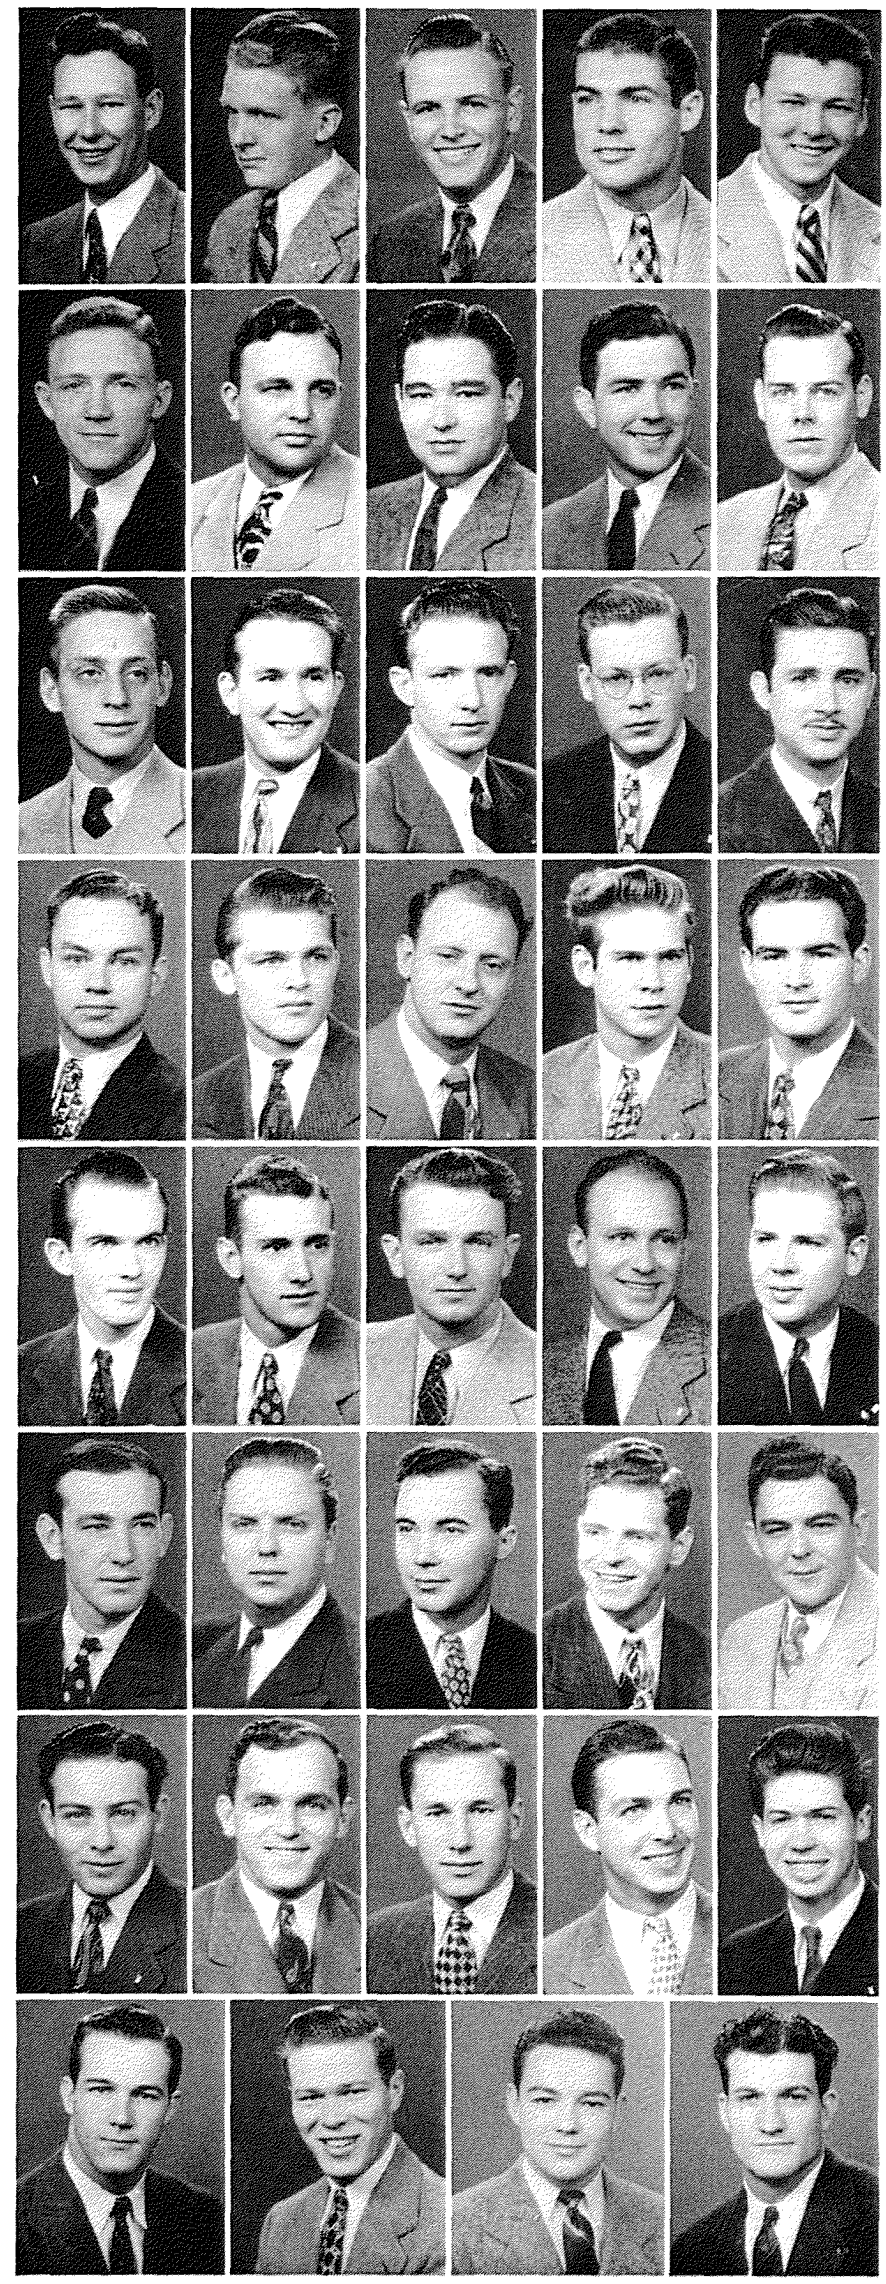

"Let's Make Merry Christmas," was the featured skit by Kenny Coe and the pledges at the December chapter dinner planned by Donald Henderson. Jim Nuckolls was our social chairman for a lively second semester filled with house parties, a father and son banquet, and the spring formal. One of the most enjoyable parts of the social year was the "Six to eight" parties given us by the various girls' organizations.

So with years like this to start us out, we hope someday to add our names to such an illustrious alumni group as Harry Truman, Jimmie Doolittle, Charley Trippi and Leroy McGuirk.

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded at the University of Virginia on March 1, 1868, by five students who had fought in the war between the states. They had been schoolmates at the Virginia Military Institute previous to the war and wished to perpetuate their friendship.

The Gamma Upsilon Chapter at the University of Tulsa was installed June 5, 1936, when the oldest Greek letter local social group for men on the campus, Phi Delta, was accepted by Pi Kappa Alpha.

The fraternity colors are garnet and gold, the badge is in the form of a diamond with a shield in the background, and the flower is the lily-of-the-valley.

The purpose of Pi Kappa Alpha is the promotion of brotherly love and kind feeling; the establishment of friendship on a firmer and more lasting basis; the advancement of the interests and mutual benefit of those deemed worthy of the fraternity's regard.

As the brothers began to return from their sojourns in the service, we felt the deepest regret over the sad vacancies at the places of those who will never return. On the other hand we experienced joy to learn that the house at

GLEN SMITH, President

11th and Florence would be re-opened in the fall.

Three Pi Kappa Alphas took over gavels in the class elections: Sam Brown, Tulsa's leading ace, as senior prexy; Elmer Simmons, football star and frat SMC, Junior class leader; and Bill "Adonis" Adkisson captured the top spot in Frosh planning. The basketball team was nosed out of the Intramural Championship in a hot race before a huge crowd at the Will Rogers gym. L. R. King and Bob Phillips starred for the T. U. Varsity cage squad, while Camp Wilson was an All-American fullback candidate, and eleven other Pikes saw action with the Oil Bowl team. There were twenty-two new initiates which brought the chapter roll of members and pledges to seventy-two, the largest in its history. Two pledges, Bill Bolton and Walter Cook, entered the service during the first semester. Some Pikes who are making a name for themselves on the campus are: Glen Smith as president of Kappa Kappa Psi, Chairman of the Class Activities Committee, and Treasurer of Interfraternity Council; Jack Thornton, president of the Engineers' Club during the first semester; Jim Crankshaw, Assistant Business Manager of the yearbook and president of the Veterans' Organization; De Hinckley, the Pied Typer, and treasurer of Pi Delta Epsilon; and Harry Heath, returned from service to assume the responsibilities of Assistant to Mr. Morris in the office of Public Relations.

On the social side was the usual round of picnics, hayrides, dances, and house parties. The most unique affair of the season was the Bluebeard Dance, held in March, for which all male attendants were required to grow beards. And saving the best for the last, the Pi Kappa Alphas closed the school year with their annual Spring Formal which was given in May.

ΠΚΑ

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

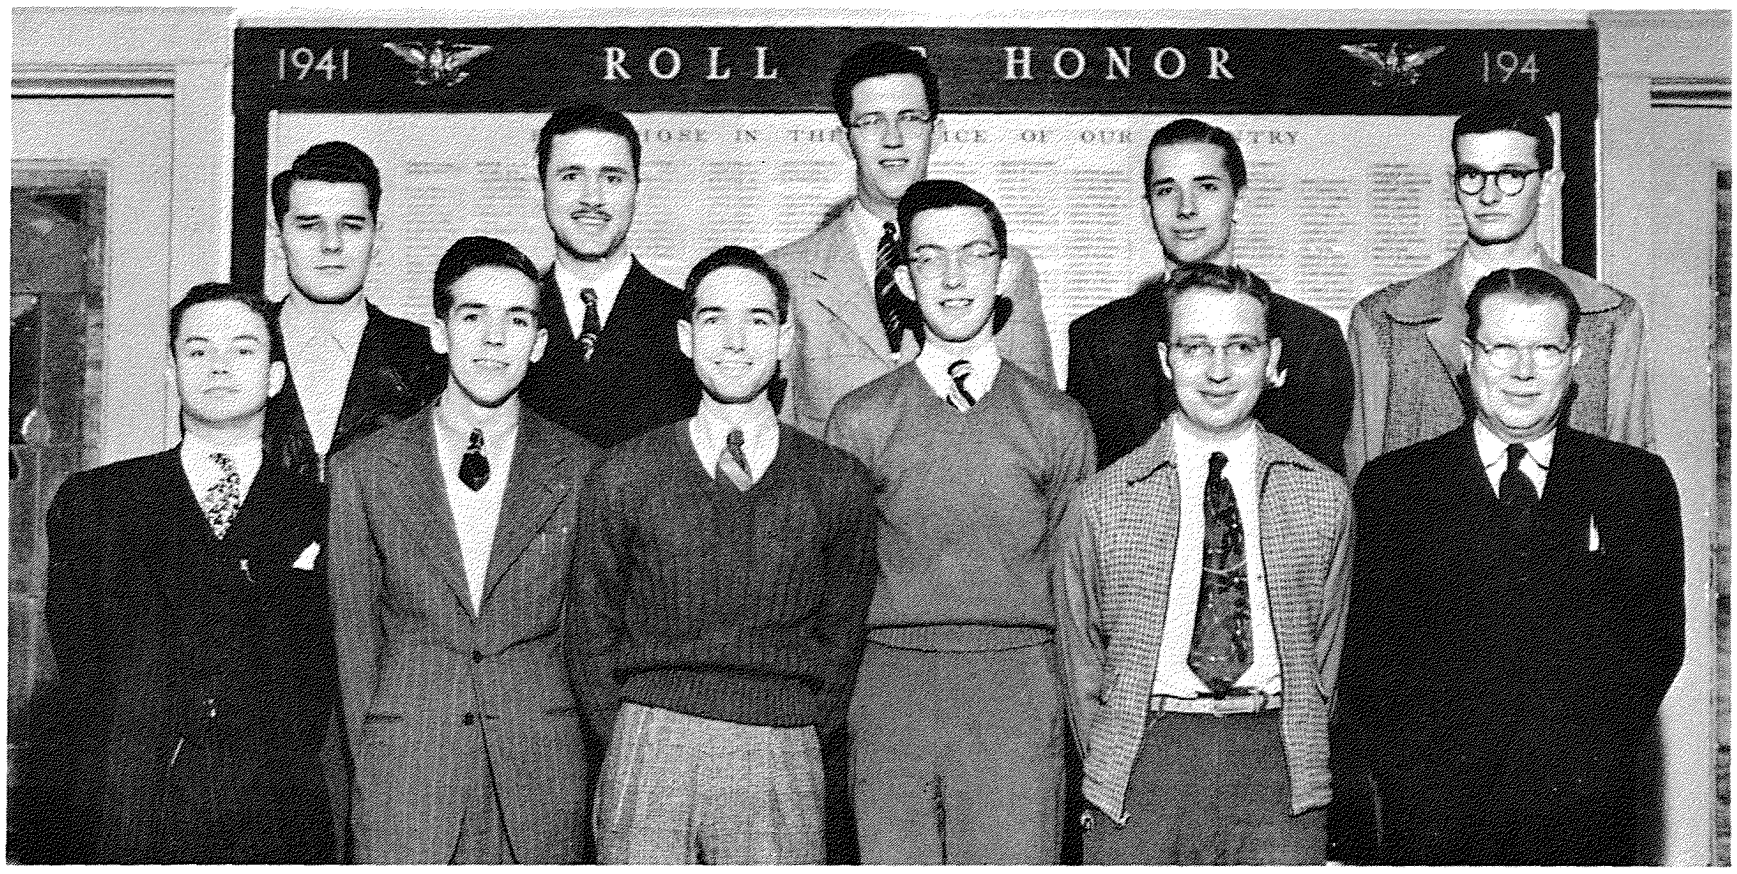

The good will and outstanding co-operation between fraternities known as inter-fraternity spirit was one of the main goals and achievements of the Inter-fraternity Council this year. Doing a large part of the promoting of this understanding among campus Greeks was Dr. George D. Small, new Dean of Men and sponsor of I. F. C. Dr. Small was a very welcome addition to the Council, since he became chief speech-maker and workhorse-in-general of the council. His dubious talent for being at the wrong place at the right time made for many a hurried phone call on Tuesday noons and Sunday afternoons.

Carrying out the annual rotation of officers, Jim Clark, Kappa Alpha, presided; Bill Skeehan, Alpha Tau Omega, was elected vice-president; Bob Lamm, Lambda Chi Alpha, took minutes; and Glen Smith, Pi Kappa Alpha, kept up with the finances. The three regular representatives from each fraternity were: Bill Skeehan, C. B. Stanley, and Allan Smith, A. T. O.; Bill Boyd, Bob Fowler, and Jim Clark, K. A.; Bob Lamm, Jerry Hatfield, and Mickey Whitney, L. C. A.; Glen Smith, J. Mac Donovan, and Tom Creekmore, Pi K. A.

Passing through a fall rush season marked by called meetings for the purpose of revising rush rules, the Council started to work on various undertakings. Committees were appointed to revise the constitution and to investigate the possibilities of publishing a handbook for men. Glen Smith, social chairman, planned the stag banquet in the spring for members only and the formal dance for all fraternity men which followed.

During the football season the Inter-fraternity Council was host at a Sunday morning breakfast given for Dr. Mosely, President of Nevada University, following the game between the two schools. The group discussed the feasibility of a rush school for fraternity men, and also thoroughly thrashed out the qualities and detriments of present-day fraternities. Dr. Mosely, a graduate of Oxford University and a member for twelve years of the National Inter-fraternity Conference, brought forth several very impressive points about what a fraternity should be and do.

Having fun on nights of high school football games were members of the various fraternities who collected quarters from rooters who parked on the University lot. They took turns trying to collect. That is, it seems numerous individuals couldn't quite see paying a quarter but parked anyway. Mostly, rumor had it that several of these pinch-quarter-parkers had considerable trouble keeping air in their tires, especially when the Pikes were in charge.

With the enormous increase in the enrolment of male students at the University, the fraternities on the campus, through the Inter-fraternity Council, voted unanimously to sponsor a new local men's social fraternity, which will later become a national Greek letter society. A committee comprised of the four vice-presidents of the fraternities was appointed to be in charge of getting the new organization on its feet.

The Inter-fraternity Council, during the war, has been responsible for seeing to it that no one fraternity became inactive because of the lack of male students. Now, it is the Council's duty to keep the fraternities from becoming unduly large, by forming a new fraternity.

The Council cannot say enough about Dr. George D. Small. It was he who presented the Council with some of its most logical ideas. A busy man was he with many irons in the fire and one of these always warm upon the hindermost portions of the Inter-fraternity Council.

The event which the girls on the campus look forward to most is the wonderful Inter-fraternity Ball which comes at the end of each year. This takes the time and effort of every boy on the Council but it is well worth it. Each year a different theme is used and the decorations always attract the attention of everyone.

The governing of rush, during the fall and spring, the indictment of misbehaving fraternities, and most important, the promotion of solidarity among the campus Greeks, are the main functions of the Inter-fraternity Council. This year has brought a brighter outlook for the fraternities.

A fifth consecutive bowl bid completed one of the most outstanding five-year records ever made by a coaching staff trio at any university.

The University of Tulsa Golden Hurricane staff, with Henry Frnka as head coach, Walter S. "Mike" Milligan, assistant coach, and J. O. "Buddy" Brothers, backfield coach, took the gridsters to the Sun Bowl for a 6-0 win over Texas Tech in 1942; Sugar Bowl for a 7-14 loss to Tennessee in 1943; Sugar Bowl for an 18-20 loss to Georgia Tech, 1944; Orange Bowl for 26-12 victory over Georgia Tech in 1945; and to the Oil Bowl for a 20-6 loss to Georgia University in 1946.

Frnka came to Tulsa in 1941 from Temple University. A graduate of Austin college, B. A. and M. A., he spent the first 10 years of his coaching career at Lubbock and Greenville, Texas, high schools.

He favors a running game and is one of the outstanding exponents of hard blocking and Brothers, B.A., Texas Tech, and M.A., East Texas State Teachers college, came in 1941 from Sulphur Springs, Texas, high school.

Del Taylor, a former T.U. student, returned from the Iowa Seahawks to join the trio as assistant backfield coach and head scout.

A new era in football at the university began when Brothers was named head coach for the coming season and J. M. Garrison, Hugh McCullough, and Clyde V. Lee as his three assistants.

VARSITY SQUAD

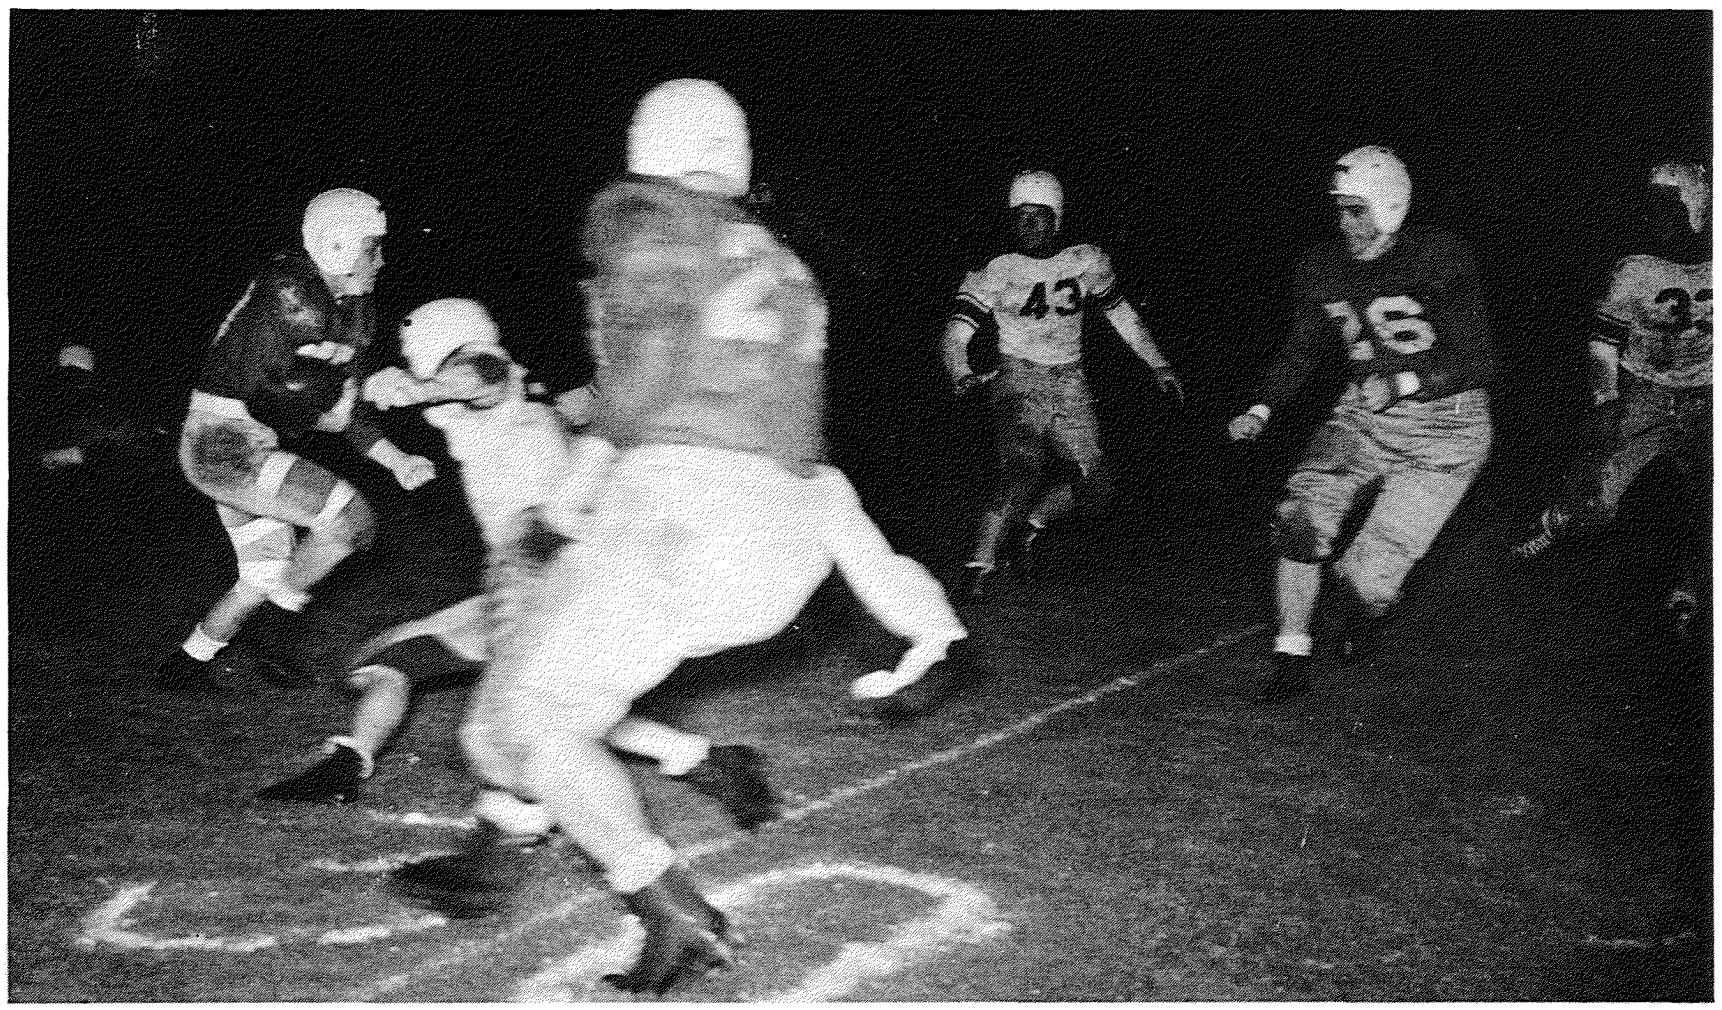

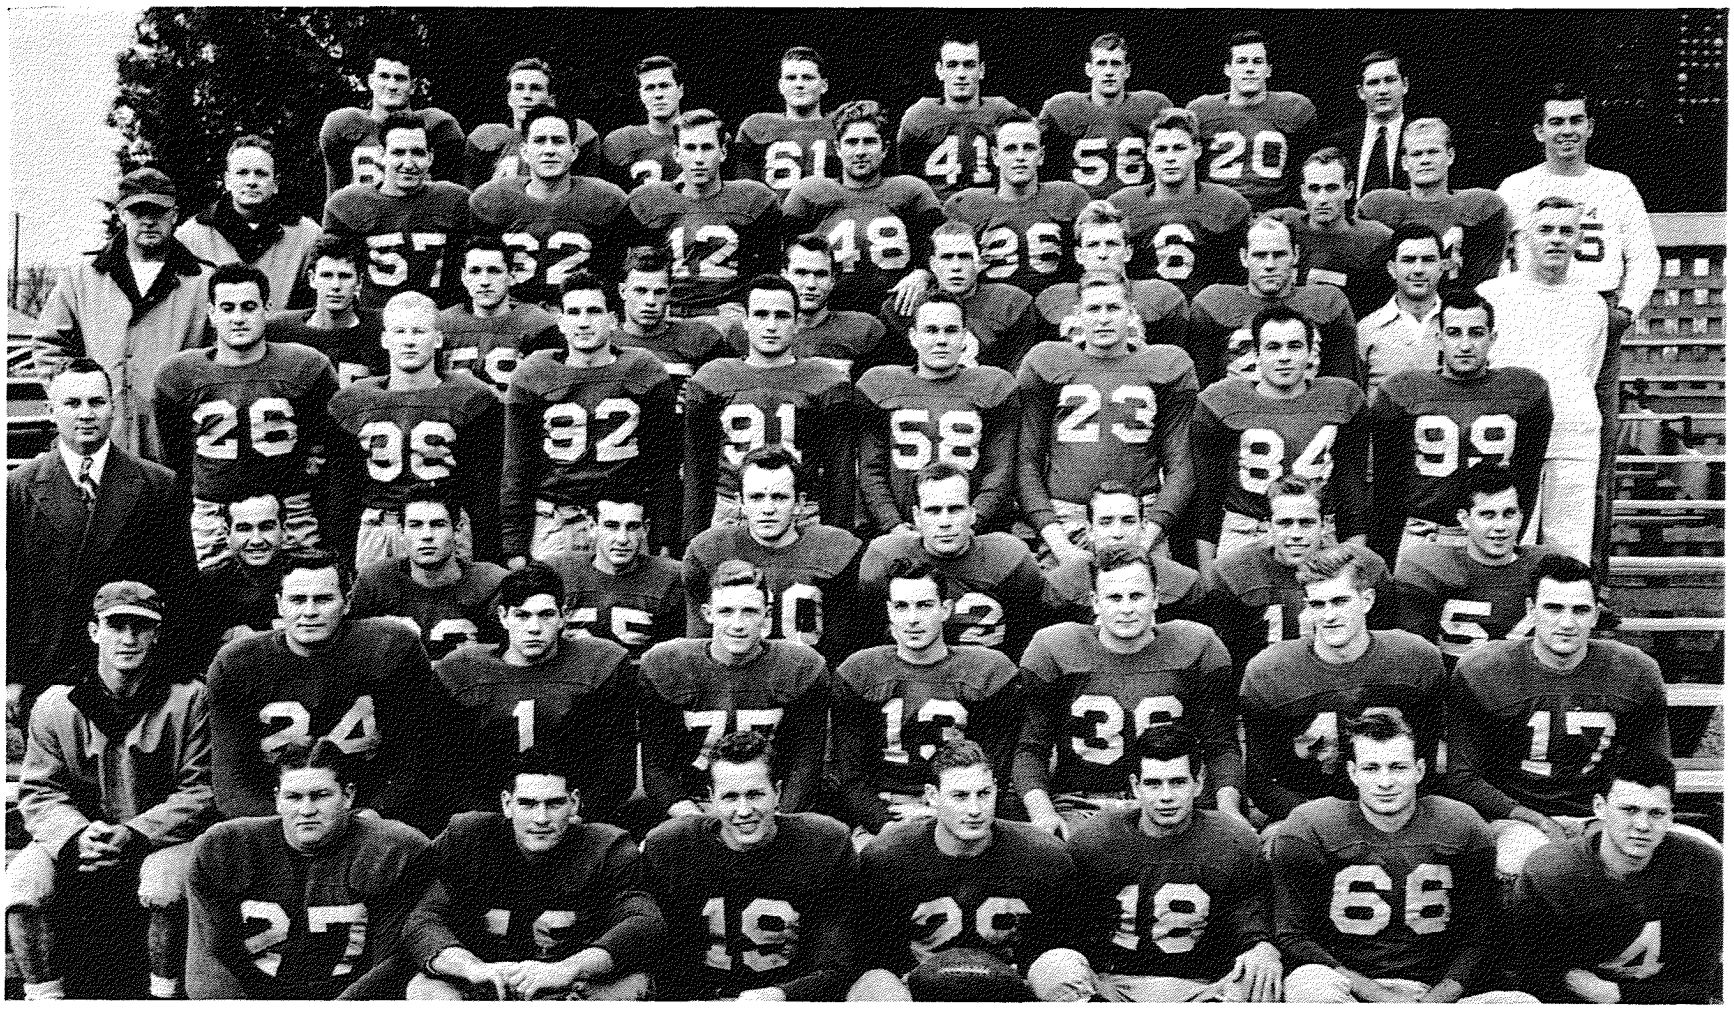

The University of Tulsa Golden Hurricane marched victoriously through eight of its ten games in 1945 to receive and accept its fifth consecutive bowl bid on New Year's Day. The squad trumped up a total of 269 points during the season, forcing their opponents to accept a total of only 64 points.

Nearly fifty gridsters started conditioning under Coach Henry Frnka's watchful eye early in the fall in preparation for the first game against Galveston AAF, scheduled for September 15. A cancelation offered the Hurricane more time to prepare for the game against the University of Wichita Shockers the next weekend.

Any worry about the showing against the Wheatshockers proved to be foolish when the Hurricane rolled up a score of 61-0 over the pitifully outclassed Wichitans. The first team picked up three touchdowns in the first quarter, the second crew pushed two more over in the second, and the sixth and seventh speeded through in the third period. The last two were made in the fourth by the third team and reserves.

Students began to wonder what the season would show — the first game was too uneven to even suggest the potency of Frnka's squad and new men joined the Hurricane almost daily.

Elmer Simmons and Gene Spangler were two of the ex-servicemen who changed their khaki uniforms to the gold, and as new teammates were added, Frnka announced the addition of Del Taylor, veteran of three T.U. bowl games and action with the Iowa Seahawks, as chief scout for the squad.

The West Texas state eleven brought the second victory of the season for the team. The final score of 32-0, a soggy gridiron, and an outclassed opponent failed to disappoint the smallest crowd since 1938. The squadmen downed the Buffaloes, but still hadn't been put to a test.

Four Seahawk stars brought a rise in hopes for the team prospects. Bob Smith, Bob Phillips, Lloyd Barron, and L. R. King arrived from Iowa and went to work in the backfield.

On October 6, the Tulsa team faced a stubborn Drake defense and won by a final 19-0.

A RESUME OF THE

The Drake Bulldogs fought off Tulsa's offense for 20 minutes before the first touchdown was made, providing a more-than-bargained-for test. The Hurricane didn't score again until midway in the fourth period. Evidence of the hard-fought game was revealed by Frnka's use of 17 substitutes during the periods, but for the third straight game the Hurricane held its foe scoreless.

Thirty-eight players went to Lubbock the next weekend for the team's first out-of-town game of the season, against Texas Tech. A whirlwind fullback battle developed, as predicted, and with T.U. behind 6-7 at the half, the squad fought behind Camp Wilson to push the tally forward to an 18-7 victory. Frnka loosed his tailbacks in a test of aerial strength that surpassed any so far in the season but was far short of his team's showings in past seasons. The first afternoon tussle of the year was an intersectional clash marking the first meeting of the Hurricane with Nevada University's Wolf Pack, October 20. The Tulsa offense was slow getting started but finally broke into full speed with four touchdowns in the third period. The game was close and exciting for fans throughout the first half with Tulsa hitting full strength in order to get one touchdown in each of the first two periods. In the third, Wilson and Smith continued to lead the pace and the squad broke down Nevada's resistance, registering four more counters for the final 40, against the Wolf Pack's 0. The opponent's bulky line, averaging 212 pounds, was nine pounds a man heavier than Frnka's team, but the squad finished without any serious injuries, ready to enter Big Ten Competition for the first time in history in the coming grid battle against Indiana University.

Some 1,500 faithful followers of the Hurricane massed in front of Union station to wish the boys good luck at Bloomington. Frnka registered little joy as the team departed with the knowledge that Bob Verkins, No. 1 wingback, and Toby Collins, No. 2 tackle, couldn't make the trip because of injuries received in the rugged scrimmage sessions. Close football observers expected the 20,000 fans to see a close and fiercely-contested battle and, though favoring Indiana, saw little difference between the two rivals.

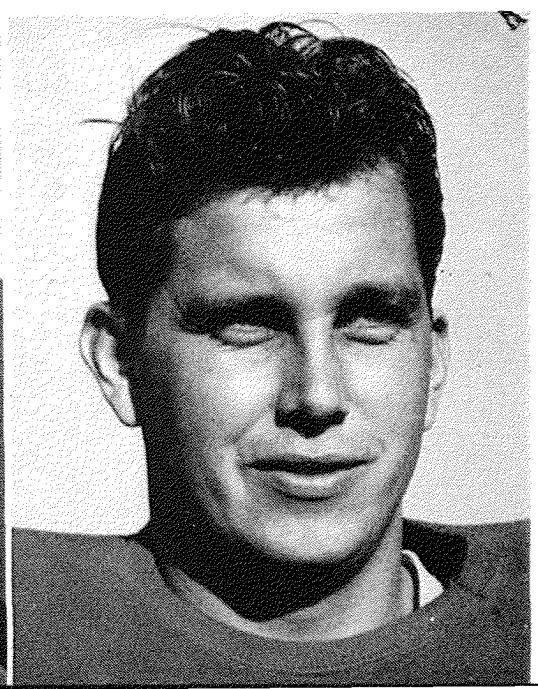

A 70-yard touchdown thrust early in the second period gave the Hoosiers a hard-earned 7-2 victory over T.U. in its first defeat of the season, but the crowd had only praise for the losers at the finish. Capt. C. B. Stanley, right tackle, was disqualified and put out of the game late in the first quarter for alleged illegal use of his knee, which weakened Tulsa's line but the squad fought on valiantly and yielded only once during the game for a telling gain by Indiana.

No rest was in store for the team on its return to Tulsa. Frnka pushed every squad member through strenuous daily drills to strengthen every part of the team before its great game against the Aggies of Oklahoma A. & M. on November 10 at Stillwater. An estimated 18,000 jammed into the Aggie stadium to see the Cowboys win 12-6 over T.U.'s hard fighting and unlucky team. Tulsa scored its lone touchdown in the first period, and tried desperately but vainly to chalk up another through the last half. The team was thwarted first at the Aggie three-yard line, then at the one-inch line in the first period; then drove to the four as the third quarter ended and collapsed on the march on the two at the start of the fourth.

Statistics proved decisively that the Hurricane dominated the game in everything but the final count. Figures showed Tulsa far ahead of the Aggies in all but the score, but the Cowboys out-touchdowned the Hurricane, and so won the game.

With surprising ease, the squad got back in the victory parade November 17 by taking the Baylor Bears, 26-7. Frnka prevented a bigger defeat by sending reserves into the contest in the second half. Tulsa's defense was so sharp Baylor couldn't run against it and the Bears watched five of their aerials be intercepted by the alert Hurricane, in the Homecoming classic, second T.U. afternoon game of the season.

A football rivalry older than the state of Oklahoma was renewed for the twenty-second time November 22 when the Arkansas Razorbacks clashed with the Hurricane at Skelly, Thanksgiving Day. An easy 45-13 victory gave impetus to Tulsa's hopes for a bowl, despite the two narrow defeats by Indiana and the Aggies. The team dominated the field so completely the Razorbacks didn't have a chance and it was evident from the start the only question was the extent of the final margin.

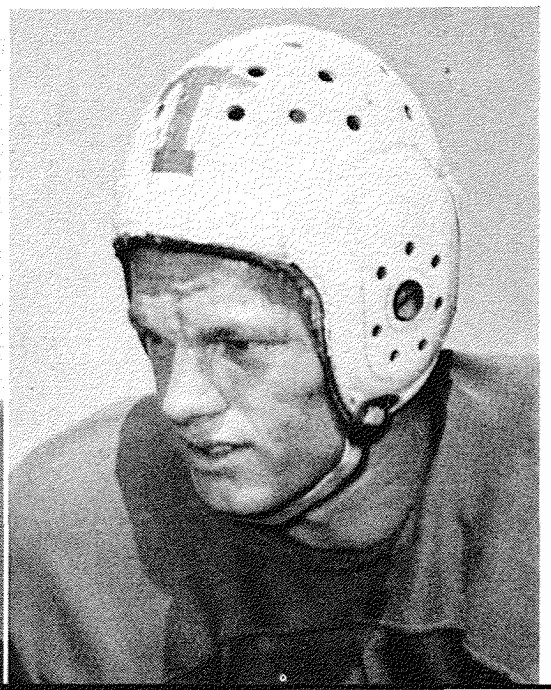

Seventh home football game of the season was played against the Hondo (Texas) Army Air Field on December 1, replacing the canceled season-opener against Galveston AAF. Eight university seniors completed their home collegiate competition in the clash that recorded the Comets in the lead, 18-0, at the start of the final quarter. The team, however, far from beaten, roared back to stop the terrific aerial game and score three touchdowns and two conversions, to gain a 20-18 triumph and their eighth conquest of the season.

Bowl hopes still ran high in the minds of fans and on December 5, it was revealed that the Hurricane would play in its fifth consecutive New Year's Day classic, in the Oil Bowl against the University of Georgia. T.U. had seven wins, two defeats for the season, and Georgia showed eight victories and two defeats.

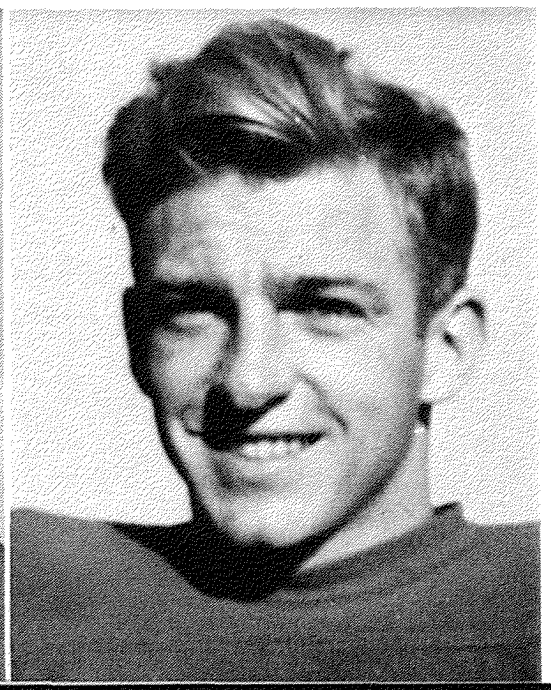

Frnka, Brothers and Milligan gave the boys a brief rest from football before taking up practice sessions.

The squad held the game close for three quarters, but Georgia exploded two fourth-period touchdowns to emerge victorious, 20-6. The team kept the southerners to a 7-6 count until the beginning of the fourth, but too much offense, and too much Charley Trippi, brought the final 20 for Georgia.

All-American team selections in 1946 included several Tulsa players on honorable mentions. The Associated Press listed Dick Moseley, Forrest Grigg, Bob Hellinghausen, Hardy Brown, and Camp Wilson, and United Press named C. B. Stanley and Camp Wilson. All Missouri Valley first

B. Stanley, Bob Hellinghausen, and Camp Wilson.

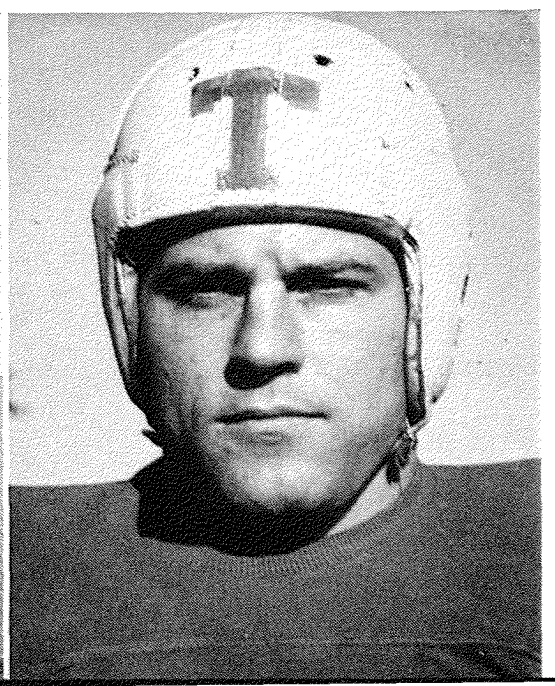

Final activity was the annual football awards dinner when new head Coach Brothers presented his staff, John M. Garrison, Hugh McCullough, Clyde V. Lee, and Del Taylor. In addition to recognition for the 52-man team, Charles Ling was selected by coaches and team as the most unselfish and best-spirited man on the squad; Hardy Brown, as the best blocking-tackling lineman; C. B. Stanley, honorary 1945 captain.

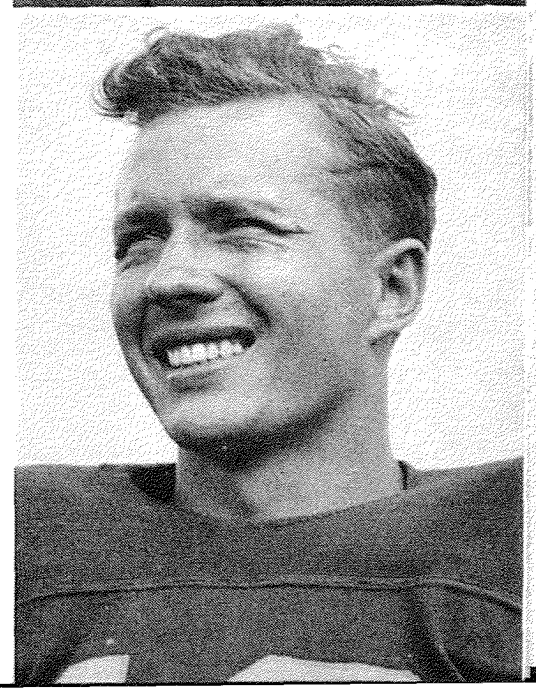

The following men were awarded letters for action during the 1945 season: B. Hellinghausen, D. Moseley, R. Morgan, C. Stanley, J. Thomas, C. Wilson, H. Brown, F. Grigg, B. Phillips, B. Smith, A. Off to Rice Stadium in Houston for daily drills in preparation for the OIL BOWL game went 57 Golden Hurricane gridsters and the coaching staff.

On New Year's Day 27,000 fans filled the stadium to see the second Oil Bowl classic.

T.U. held the score at 7-6 in Georgia's favor until the final quarter and played a spectacular game throughout.

Early in the game, one of the Georgia backs drove hard to chalk up the only counter for Georgia until the fourth period.

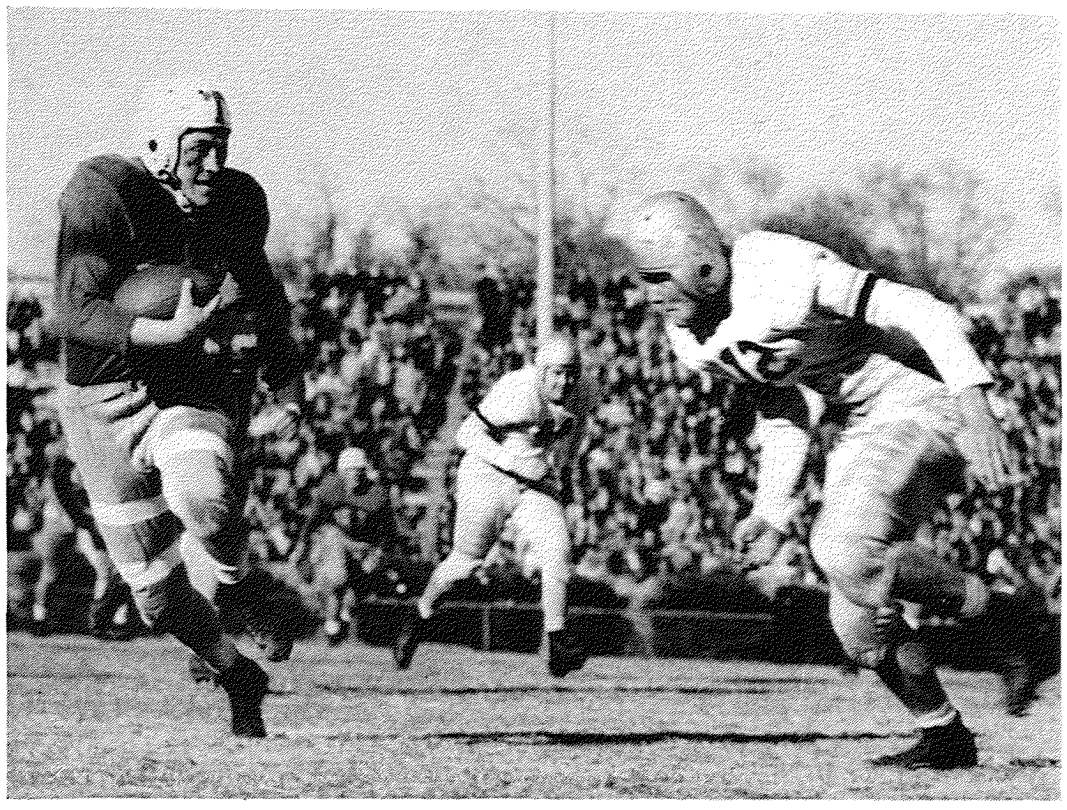

Chubby Grigg recovered a fumble by Georgia on the Tulsa 17, then later stopped the Bulldogs on the eight-yard line and the squad took over on downs; then took over again on the 23-yard line in the second on downs and held Georgia through the third, preventing any possible threat of a score.

All four of the touchdowns made during the game were made when the scoring team had the wind at its back — Georgia's one in the first, Tulsa's only score without conversion, and Georgia's final two in the fourth period.

The Hurricane fought hard from the beginning. Chubby's recovery of the Georgia fumble put the ball on Tulsa's 17. Smith gained four yards and Hardy Brown tried to push the squad out with one of his good punts but bad luck brought the boot to a stop 10 yards up the field. From here, Bulldog Trippi had little trouble pushing his pack down to the four. He plunged on three yards to the one, but another Dog was thrown back three yards by King and by a surprise charge T.U.'s opponents went into the end zone.

Smith was stopped on pass attempts throughout the classic, but kept trying to use them to send the squad rapidly into the scoring territory.

The first period closed with Georgia's scoring attempts killed and the Hurricane gaining the skin by downs. Tulsa made a first down as the period ended and got advantage of the all-important wind.

Brown colored the first of the second with a beautiful 71-yard punt over Trippi's head and the ball rolled dead on the Georgia three. From then until the fourth, the Hurricane held the reins but couldn't move far enough to score. Both defenses were stiff; Trippi booted once only to his 30-yard line but Tulsa couldn't push through the Bulldogs, so lost the ball after four tries; Georgia took over and pushed to the Hurricane 23, but the Tulsa line held and they took the ball back on their 23.

Lloyd Barron, wingback, tried an end play with Grigg blocking, as one of the plays to jab near pay zone, but Georgia held its ground persistently.

After Tulsa took over on its 23, the next punt went over the goal line and Georgia started from its 20. Tulsa got the opportunity to set up the touchdown play. A Bulldog, back trying to pass, was tackled hard and the ball knocked out of his hand. Grigg again was in on the recovery, this time on the Georgia 13.

Camp Wilson took charge and rammed two yards on the first play, then lunged for a first down on the two. After three downs with no gain, Wilson went across for the touchdown to show the spark of his All-American ability. With little more action, the half ended as anybody's game.

The third quarter offered plenty of speculation as to the outcome and Tulsa players were fighting every step. J. R. Boone dodged one Georgian on a rushing play that brought cheers from fans, but the drive fell short.

The fourth stacked Georgia ahead with the winning 20-6.

BASKETBALL

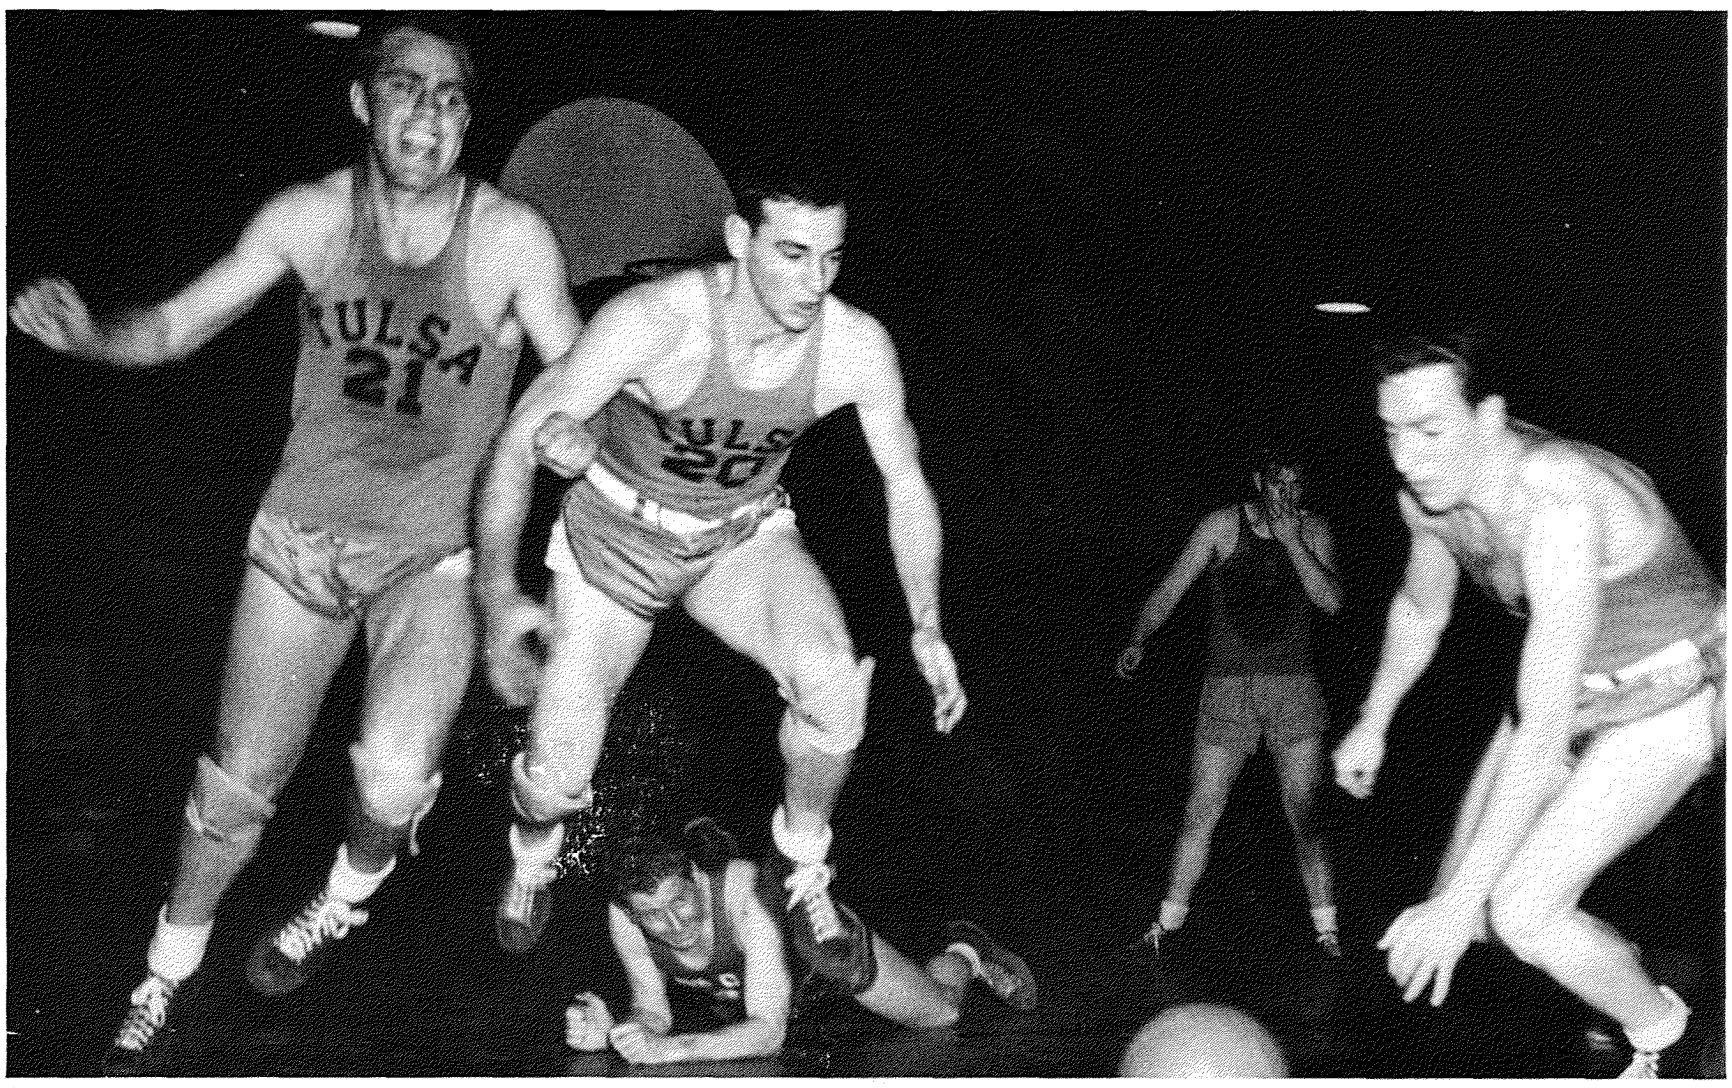

Don Shields ..... Coach

The 1945-46 University of Tulsa basketball team started its cage season late under a new coach, Don Shields, who took charge in mid-December, 1945.

Shields, former Temple University All-American and star for the Phillips 66 Oilers A.A.U. quintet, began his first season of collegiate coaching with a squad composed almost entirely of football players from the Oil Bowl Golden Hurricane.

With only two weeks of serious practice the team began a tough 18-game schedule, its first year of Missouri Valley conference cage competition since 1942-43.

Tulsa's hoopsters won six, lost 12 of all their contests and totaled three victories and nine defeats in conference play, finishing in seventh place in the standings. The Hurricane compiled 700 points to 766 for the opposition during the season. Leading scorer was Gerald Carrens, guard, who tallied 137 points in 14 games. Below Carrens were L. R. King, guard, with 101 points in 17 contests; Shelly

Carrens, forward, with 96 in 18 games; Calvin Richardson, center, with 85 in 18 clashes; John McCain, a forward, with 83 in 18 games; and Jo Haynes, center, with 74 in 18 games.

The Golden Hurricane opened its season on January 15 with a hard-earned 43-42 victory over Camp Gruber in an overtime game played on the Will Rogers court.

On January 18, Tulsa invaded Camp Chaffee, finishing on the short end of the final 30-44 count.

In a return game with Camp Gruber, January 23, Coach Shields' five suffered its second loss in bowing to Gruber, 35-31.

Camp Chaffee played a return engagement with the Hurricane in the Rogers gym, January 25, and Tulsa avenged the earlier defeat by trouncing Chaffee, 54-44.

Opening their Missouri Valley conference campaign, January 29, the Tulsans ran into the circuit's toughest team, Oklahoma A & M College, and were buried under a 53-22 score in a game played at Stillwater.

Washington University, St. Louis, gave the Tulsans its second Valley licking there, February 1.

A season's surprise came in the 35-32 upset win from the St. Louis Billikens, February 2, the team's first conference triumph of the season.

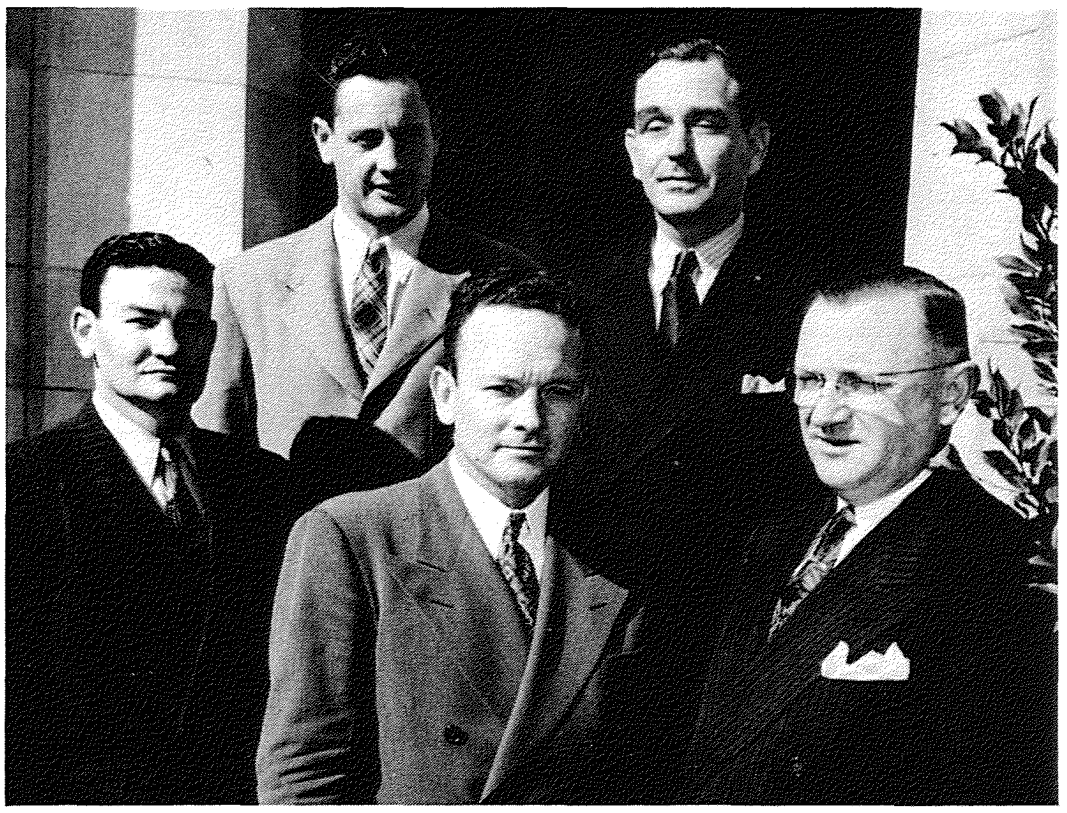

The Hurricane met Wichita's Wheatshockers at Rogers, February 5, and dropped the tilt, 35-42, in another conference game. The Shockers edged Tulsa, 33-29, in Wichita, February 9.

The Aggies handed Tulsa its third league setback on February 12, 38-16, but T.U. came back winner at Oklahoma City, February 16, downing Phillips, 45-37.

St. Louis set the cagers back, 48-35, on February 21, but Tulsa beat Washington's Bears 54-50, for its second Valley victory, and scored its third conference triumph with 59-42 against Creighton, February 27.

The cagers dropped, 48-46, to Drake; lost the return, 40-39; fell to Morningside college by 46-45, and closed the season with Drake's Bulldogs spilling them, 52-46, March 9.

Reducing rates pretty often has been a part of the program of the management of my company for quite a long time—and we didn't stop even in wartime when everything else you bought went up in price.

Altogether, counting all rate reductions in electric service since 1940, customers of Public Service Company of Oklahoma will save a total of $1,750,000 per year compared with the same service used in 1940 . . . no let-up in our efforts to give better and better service for less money, either.

There's a bank in your future!

Is this your success picture, too? . . . A good job . . . a car . . . a family . . . a home . . . a business of your own . . . and YOUR BANK!

If you look around you'll see that the successful business men and families you know have a bank connection, so you'd be doing the smart thing to pick out your bank now.

You can begin with a Checking or Savings account and while you're developing the "banking" habit you'll be getting acquainted with the people in the bank and with its services. All of which helps to establish your credit when you want to borrow money to obtain those things in your future picture.

We invite you to put our bank in your future so come in and let's get acquainted. We always welcome the opportunity to meet young people.

Look Ahead With First National

Hats off to T.U.

Within a few short years, T. U. has become familiar to football fans from coast to coast . . . the Sun Bowl . . . twice in the Sugar Bowl . . . the Orange Bowl and the Oil Bowl . . . all in consecutive years. With T. U. focusing attention on Tulsa with millions of sportsmen, just as "Oklahoma" has made Broadway and the nation conscious of the state . . . we are prone to forget Tulsa University's half century background of educational experience that place it well in the forefront of the nation's universities.

Tulsa's Largest Industry Salutes A Great University

One of Tulsa's greatest assets is the University of Tulsa. It is a rare privilege for the community to have among its citizens the fine young men and women comprising the University's student body.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation takes this opportunity to salute these students, and to wish them an abundance of success and happiness in their futures . . . which promise much, as citizens in this great land of ours, the United States.
